PANSIES.

PANSY PARK PERFECTION is the most thoroughbred strain of giant show and fancy pansies, the flowers of largest size and most perfect form. I have made growing of pansy seeds and plants a specialty for nearly 40 years and it is the result of many years of breeding and selection. It also contains every variety introduced by foreign growers up to date. Samples of many reports: "Send me $10.00 worth of your best pansy seed. If as good in colors and size as they were last year I will need double the amount next year." G. H. Toepke, Detroit, Mich. "The Pansy Park Perfection pansy plants obtained from you for our parks were quite satisfactory. Book our order for 50,000 in separate colors and mixed, as specified below, and deliver in October." S. Manning, General Superintendent of Parks, Baltimore, Md. "The pansies from your seed are the finest thoroughbred flowers I have seen in this place which is noted for good flowers on private estates." Geo. A. Galloupe, Beverly, Mass. "Pansies received in fine condition, and they are nice, healthy plants." F. D. Keyes, Florence, Mass. An immense stock of fine field-grown plants from seed sown thinly, broadcast, so that each plant has plenty of room to grow stocky and strong, with extra good roots. Over 75 varieties mixed, the reds, bronzes and best fancy sorts in large proportion, 1000, $3.00; 500, $1.75; 5000, $14.00; 10,000, $27.00. Cash. L. W. Goodell, Pansy Park, Dwight, Mass.

HOME OF PANSIES.

Our growing crops of pansies for seed were greatly admired by all florists who saw them this last summer. All said they were grand—some said they were the best they had ever seen. We reserved over 50,000 of our best for seed growing and they certainly were a pretty sight. We are improving on them annually, and have a fine lot of red, red shades and other crosses of our own origin and nearly all colors and shades found in pansies. We started a few for a test very early and they have surprised us as to coloring and size of flowers; showing improvement over parent stock. You cannot go wrong if you place your order with us. If, upon blooming, you are not perfectly satisfied I will return every cent you paid for them. I made this same offer last year and had not a kick and I am better prepared to make it now than I was then. $2.50 per 1000; 5000 for $10.00. Our collection contains no black, unless so ordered. We have a good stock of black which we keep separate. We can also supply, separate, Masterpiece, Giant Mme. Perret and Giant Prize Trimardeau; also blood red and Golden Queen, separate. All at the same price. E. Rawlings, Wholesale Grower, OLEAN, N. Y.

Pansy plants of my largest flowering mixture of show varieties, unsurpassed quality. Good size stocky plants, $3.00 per 1000; 5000 lots, $2.50 per 1000. 500 at 1000 rate. Gustav Pitonka, Pansy Farm, Bristol, Pa.

Henderson's Picturesque Gardens and Ornamental Gardening.

By CHARLES HENDERSON. A volume containing half-tone illustrations of the prettiest and most famous gardens and parks of the world, vividly portraying lawn, garden and landscape effects, plant and tree groupings, decorative bedding, herbaceous gardens and borders, formal gardens, lawn gardens, Italian, Japanese and English gardens, rock gardens, wild gardens, bog gardens, subtropical gardens, sunken and terrace gardens, rosariums, hardy ferneries, arches, columns, festoons, etc., picturesquely draped with vines, as well as numerous other garden embellishments. Each illustration is described and explained. Cloth. $2.50

The Pruning Book.

By L. H. BAILEY. This is the first American work exclusively devoted to pruning. It differs from most other treatises on this subject in that the author takes particular pains to explain the principles of each operation in every detail. Specific advice is given on the pruning of the various kinds of fruits and ornamental trees, shrubs and hedges. Considerable space is devoted to the pruning and training of grape vines, both American and foreign. 530 pages. Illustrated. $1.50

The Nursery Book.

By L. H. BAILEY. A complete guide to the multiplication of plants. The book comprises full practical directions for sowing, the making of all kinds of layers, stools, cuttings, propagation by bulbs and tubers, and very complete accounts of all the leading kinds of budding, grafting and inarching. An alphabetical catalogue of about 1500 plants—of fruit, kitchen-garden, ornamental and greenhouse species—with directions for their multiplication. Cloth. $1.50

Hedges, Windbreaks, Shelters and Live Fences.

By E. P. POWELL. A treatise on the planting, growth and management of hedge plants for country and suburban homes. It gives accurate directions concerning hedges; how to plant and how to treat them; and especially concerning windbreaks and shelters. Cloth. 140 pages. Illustrated. 50 cents Greenhouse Construction.

By PROF. L. R. TAFT. A complete manual on the building, heating, ventilating and arrangement of greenhouses, and the construction of hotbeds, frames and plant pits. Lucid descriptions and 118 diagrams and illustrations make every detail clear to the amateur and professional gardener and florist. Cloth. 218 pages. $1.50

The Florists' Manual.

By WM. SCOTT. A practical guide for the florist, covering the successful management of all the usual florists' plants; including many topics, such as greenhouse building, heating and floral decorating, etc. Written so you can understand it and profit by its guidance. Fully illustrated. $5.00

Bulbs and Tuberous Rooted Plants.

By C. L. ALLEN. A complete history, description, methods of propagation and full directions for the successful culture of bulbs in the garden, dwelling or greenhouse. The illustrations which embellish this work have been drawn from nature, and have been engraved especially for this book. Cloth. $1.50

...NEWS NOTES...

Haverhill, Mass.—A new flower shop will soon be opened here by H. H. Proctor.

Winchendon, Mass.—Wm. W. Rhuland, of the Riverside Greenhouses, has removed to a store at 45 Grove street.

Port Jervis, N. Y.—F. K. Lamereaux looks for a busy season from now on and is prepared to take care of it. John Brierley, who has been sick for some time, is reported improving.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa.—Ira G. Marvin has one of the largest plants in the Wyoming valley. Alfred Baur is grower and is kept hustling to supply the demand of four stores in as many towns.

South Bethlehem, Pa.—Chas. Vorkeller is well pleased with the business he established here a few years ago. Some of the biggest decorative jobs at the steel works are done by him.

Middletown, N. Y.—F. X. Dienst will not build for a while on the farm he secured recently, but has rebuilt the main plant, where stock is in fine shape. Edward Loventz is well pleased with the outlook for the coming season. His new grower, John Doughty, is turning out fine stock.

Phoenix, Ariz.—G. Neumann, who had the flower stand at Donofrio's previous to the fire there, has organized the Salt River Valley Floral Co., with an office at Washington street and Cactus way and a branch office in the Adams hotel. Mr. Neumann's displays of stock at Donofrio's were excellent.

Murphyboro, Ill.—Claude Wisely has about completed a new iron-frame greenhouse in the Buster Brown addition. This new place will be used only for the growing of stock and all sales will be made, as formerly, at the houses at the corner of Sixteenth and Oak streets. The new house will be in charge of Peter Erickson.

Urbana, O.—J. G. Botkin has built another greenhouse. He has also erected a larger boiler room, with the intention of installing a boiler of sufficient capacity to take care of several more houses which will be added next spring. Mr. Botkin's trade has shown a steady increase since he began business here several years ago.

WORCESTER, MASS.

The annual fall exhibition of the Worcester County Horticultural Society, in Horticultural hall, surpassed the expectations of the committee and proved of great interest. There was an excellent showing of fruit, and many more flowers than the committee had arranged for, as allowance had been made for the fact that the heavy frosts of the preceding week had destroyed nearly everything out of doors.

The platform of the hall was banked by palms from the greenhouses of H. F. A. Lange, who received a prize for the display. Among the other prominent prize-winning exhibits were: A group of hardy shrubs grown by William Anderson, gardener for Bayard Thayer, of Lancaster, and a collection of potted plants grown by George McWilliam, gardener for G. Marston Whitin, of Whitinsville.

Greenhouse Heating.

It is said that steam binding is a fault common to all pumps used for clearing condensation returns and that more or less trouble from this source has until now been looked upon as inevitable. This lends interest to the report that the Chicago Pump Co., manufacturer of the automatic electric condensation pump that is in use in many greenhouses, has applied for a patent on a device that is said to prevent the pump from becoming steam bound.

MISSOURI CARNATION HOUSES.

I have two new greenhouses, running north and south, with the boiler house at the northwest corner. The houses are each 20½x150, with no partition between them. The outside walls are four feet high. The east wall is entirely of glass and the west wall contains two feet of glass. The ground slopes toward the north at the rate of a foot and a half in 100 feet. The houses are not protected in any way. They will be used for carnations and there will be no benches. The soil in which the carnations will be planted will be raised one foot; or, rather, the walks will be one foot lower than the beds.

I shall heat with hot water and shall do the piping myself. I have a lot of 1½-inch and 2-inch pipe on hand and wish to use it. If I use 3-inch flows, can I use the smaller pipe for returns? How shall I arrange the piping? Shall I place the boiler in a pit or use a generator on the lever? A. L. Y.

Three-inch pipe can be used as flow pipes, placing one on each wall of each of the houses. Nine 2-inch or eleven 1½-inch pipes should be used as returns in each house, placing one more on the outer walls than on the inside walls. If the east wall is much exposed, an additional return might be needed. Give the flow pipes, which should be carried on the plates, a slight fall, and connect them at the farther end of the house with the return coils. These, also, should fall toward the boiler. There should be one 4-inch flow pipe leading from the boiler to each of the houses, where they can be divided into two 3-inch flows for each house. If more convenient, it will answer if the four 3-inch flow pipes are connected directly with the boiler. The main returns should be of the same size as the flow pipes. If the highest point of each flow pipe is connected with the expansion tank, there will be no occasion for using air valves.

A PARTITIONED GREENHOUSE.

In piping a house fifty feet long, containing solid beds, how should we arrange the piping from the outlet of the flow pipe? Should we use return bends on the walls? Our house is now 15x20; that is, it is twenty feet wide and as yet only fifteen feet from gable to gable. We want to lengthen it fifty feet, making it 20x65. We will leave the glass end in the present house as a partition, so we can heat it to 60 degrees at night, while the new part will require a night temperature of 50 degrees. This 15x20—the old part—is sunk in the ground two feet; the addition will be above ground. Our hot water heater has two 2-inch flows. Would it be best to run both of these to the far end of the sixty-five feet and then run to the returns into the eighteen 1 1/2-inch pipes under the benches of the 15x20, connecting them when the returns get back to the 15x20? If you think our plan of eighteen 1 1/2-inch pipes in the 15x20 is not correct, please advise us. We use galvanized pipe.

We thought of using one flow for each part, one for the 15x20 and one for the addition, but do not believe that one will heat the addition in this section of Michigan, where the outside temperature sometimes drops to 15 or 20 degrees below zero. Would a valve in the flow pipe help to control the temperature in either part? Should it not be at the top or highest part of the flow, if used at all? J. F. T.

In heating a greenhouse, either with steam or hot water, the simplest and at the same time the best method is to carry one or more mains to the farther end of the house, and there connect with the coils, which will serve as return pipes. The important point is to have the number and size of the flow pipes adjusted to the amount of radiation, and then use a sufficient number of pipes in the coils to maintain the desired temperature. Just what size of pipes should be used depends upon the length of the houses and the amount of radiation.

For a house 20x65 feet, to be heated with hot water to 50 degrees, two 2-inch flow pipes and ten 1½-inch returns—or, better yet, eight 2-inch—should be used. To maintain 60 degrees in the end of the house next to the boiler, four additional 1½-inch or three 2-inch returns will be needed. These can be connected to two of the returns where they enter the room, or a 1½-inch feed pipe can be taken off from one of the returns overhead. If the latter method is followed, there should be a valve on the supply pipe so that the flow can be regulated. So far as the returns are concerned, this would require only fourteen 1½-inch returns in the house 15x20, and, as already pointed out, ten of them should be connected with the ten pipes required in the new part of the house; the others may be connected directly to one of the flow pipes or treated as branch pipes from two of the long runs.

VARIOUS INQUIRIES.

In The Review of September 28, page 90, you gave me a piping plan for my greenhouse. As I know extremely little about this work, I should like to get a little more information. Should all the flow pipes be of the same height or should the center flow be higher than the flows on the side walls? The boiler is tapped for a 4-inch pipe; should a 4-inch return be run from the boiler to the house and then along the ends of the benches, so that 2-inch returns can be connected to it from the end of each bench and from the side walls? As to the valves, how many will be needed and where should they be placed? As I expect to add to the length of the house next summer, would it be advisable to use tees on the far ends of the flows and returns, so that in connecting the pipes in the new house the present piping would not be disturbed?

E. S.

If possible, it is a good idea to have the flows at the same height, but, as stated in the previous reply, it will answer if two of them are carried on the plates and the other about two feet below the ridge. A 4-inch pipe will be about right for the main flow and the main return should always be of the same size as the flow. It will answer if there is a valve on each of the 2½-inch flow pipes, preferably near the end of the house that adjoins the boiler. It will also be a convenience, in case repairs are needed, to have a valve on the return pipe from each coil, but it is not necessary for controlling the circulation.

The three 2½-inch flow pipes will not be able to supply a much longer system, and if a considerable increase in the amount of radiation is planned it will be advisable, at the start, either to put in more 2½-inch flow pipes or to use three 3-inch flows, which will answer for a house 150 feet long. If the length is increased only twenty-five or thirty feet, the three 2½-inch flows could be used. Tees can be used as proposed, or both flows and returns can be lengthened when the addition is erected. If an idea of the size of the proposed addition had been given, a more definite reply would have been possible.

the bill for use in design work since the asters have disappeared.

Roses continue about the same this week and there is an abundant supply. Beauties have not been especially good this week; the heads are small and crippled and the blooms lack color. Violets are selling well now, as also are cattleyas, which are of excellent quality. Gardenias are better than ever this fall, but there is little demand for them except for weddings. Valley has improved considerably and keeps moving. Blooming plants are scarce again, but ferns and palms are going at a lively pace. Galax, both bronze and green, is quite scarce. Business in general is good, but weddings and funerals go to make up a large percentage of the trade.

Various Notes.

Street venders are selling Boston ferns at half price.

E. C. Campbell has a clever display of yellow and white mums and marguerites in his window.

Mr. and Mrs. George O. Havill spent a few days at Sodus and Sodus Point last week. Mrs. Havill also had a birthday celebration October 19.

J. Cohen, of Wertheimer Bros., New York city, called on the trade last week.

The local florists are awaking to the fact that a good window display helps business materially, and the last few months the downtown florists have been vying with each other to produce the handsomest displays. Among the foremost pushers or hustlers are: George Boucher, J. B. Keller Sons, E. C. Campbell, Salter Bros. and the Rochester Floral Co.

Miss Florence Gibson, of H. E. Wilson's force, spent a day at Honeoye Falls recently.

The regular monthly meeting of the Florists' Club was held October 9, but no important business was transacted.

Some good gardenias were recently received from the S. S. Pennock-Meehan Co., Philadelphia, by J. B. Keller Sons.

Charles Suhr is cutting first-class Golden Glow mums and they are selling well.

J. B. Keller Sons had a busy week with weddings, one large reception and ball, and various funerals. They have a unique Hallowe'en window display this week.

Oliver Boucher has just returned from a trip to Albany, Troy and New York city. He took in one of the games for the world's championship while in the metropolis. E. C. A.

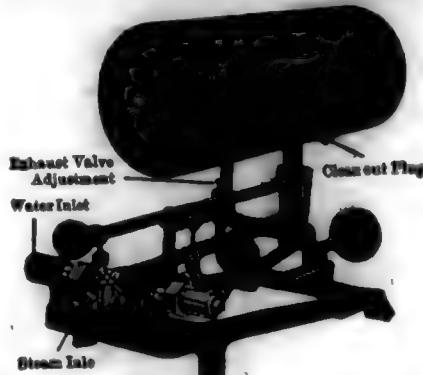

Alton, Ill.—George Madsen, of the Alton Floral Co., has received two cars of coal and one car of slack, for use at his greenhouses.

The North Westchester Horse and Cattle Show, Agricultural Department, held its annual exhibition September 30 and October 1, and for quality of exhibits could not be beaten. The classes for collection of farm and garden produce and best twenty varieties of vegetables for table use, were won by Moses Taylor, Annandale Farm, W. Barclay, farm superintendent, and A. Thomson, garden and greenhouse superintendent. These were probably the finest exhibits of their kind ever staged in upper Westchester county. W. E. Marshall & Co., New York, considered it quite a feather in their cap, as their seeds were used exclusively. The following were the principal prize winners in the other classes: Clarence Whitman, W. Will, gardener, W. B. Jones, superintendent; Eugene Meyer, C. Ruthven, gardener, J. Walsh, superintendent; Seth Low, Hugh Birch, gardener; Geo. C. Clark, Fred Kirkham, gardener; Wm. Sloane, Mrs. J. D. Layng, A. J. Millbank, Gifford A. Cockrane, W. B. Franklin, R. B. Van Cortlandt, J. B. Harriman, A. W. Butler, R. S. Brewster, Mrs. F. C. Bishop, J. W. Baldwin, and J. B. Hammond.

The following acted as judges, and their decisions gave entire satisfaction to everyone: W. Duckham, Madison, N. J.; George Hale, Oceanic, N. J.; Peter Macdonald, Yonkers, N. Y.; George Middleton, Tarrytown, N. Y.; Robert Angus, Tarrytown, N. Y.; James Stuart, Mamaroneck, N. Y.

The trade visitors were L. Burnett, of Burnett Bros.; W. E. Maynard, of the Gardeners' Chronicle, and C. McTaggart, representing W. E. Marshall & Co., New York. H. A. S.

RUTHERFORD, N. J.

A PERFECT GREENHOUSE HOSE

NEW YORK BELTING AND PACKING CO. LTD
91-93 CHAMBERS ST. NEW YORK

FURNISHED in continuous lengths of 500 feet. An exceptionally high grade hose manufactured with a woven jacket insertion instead of cotton duck, and with specially selected rubber in the inner tube and cover.

The woven jacket construction makes a stronger hose than can be obtained from cotton duck, and absolutely precludes the possibility of cover opening at seam—a common cause of failure of hose made on cotton duck. This construction also gives a more flexible hose and reduces the possibility of kinking.

"Magic" Hose is guaranteed to stand a pressure of 500 pounds per square inch, although its bursting pressure is far in excess of this.

TORONTO.

The Market.

The social season is proving a good one, and business all along the line has been excellent. Weddings have been numerous and included several large ones. Quite a few large out-of-town weddings have been handled by Toronto florists and several are yet on the books. Next Monday is Thanksgiving day here and this will create a good demand on the previous Saturday.

All stock is plentiful and in excellent condition. Roses are now first-class, while mums in all shades—white, pink, yellow and bronze—are right up to the mark. Violets are good, but rather scarce. Orchids are bringing a high price.

Various Notes.

Park Commissioner Wilson is in Banff, Alta., on a pleasure trip.

Geo. M. Geraghty, of J. H. Dunlop's, had the honor of making the bouquets for the royal party, when our new governor-general and his lady, the Duke and Duchess of Connaught, arrived at Quebec. He went to Quebec personally.

The board of control of the city has voted the park commissioner $4,000 to aid him in his fight against the tussock moth.

The Ontario Horticultural Association will hold a convention in the city hall November 16, and the Ontario Vegetable Growers' Association November 15.

The summer flowers have been removed from the beds and benches in the city parks, and tulips have been planted. E. A. F.

West Chester, Pa.—A new firm has been organized here, under the name of the Lorgus Co., and has opened a flower store at 20 North High street. The officers of the firm are: Martin Lorgus, president; George Achelis, vice-president; Rudolf Lorgus, treasurer; Martha G. Lear, secretary. DAYTON, O.

The Market.

The first frost of the season put in its appearance October 23, but, as it was a light one, little damage was done. Nevertheless, it had a tendency to hustle the florists out after their supply of geraniums and other perishable outdoor stock. Though rain has been in evidence, the sun has done his full duty and has brought stock along to the florists' satisfaction. Roses are cropping fairly well and the present supply is more than sufficient for all needs. Beauties, since the arrival of chrysanthemums, have been difficult to dispose of. Roses in the pink and white varieties are selling best, as they come in well on funeral work.

Chrysanthemums of various hues are again in season. The supply is daily becoming heavier and the greater part of the cut flower demand is for them; thus other varieties of stock have to take a back seat. Carnations in colors are arriving in sufficient numbers to meet all demands. The white varieties, however, are a little scarce. The quality is steadily improving. Sweet peas are also seen in the market and are bringing 50 cents per hundred. Lily of the valley seems to be a scarce article. The giganteum supply is barely sufficient to meet the demand. There are also a few Melpomene lilies, for which the market seems good. Asters are a thing of the past.

The frost so far has not been heavy enough to put dahlias out of the market. Indeed, the street market on Saturday, October 21, was fairly alive with all varieties of dahlias and outdoor chrysanthemums. Some dahlias of excellent quality were sold by market gardeners for 5 cents and 10 cents per dozen, while the florists complimented themselves if they could get 20 cents per dozen. Such conditions are degrading to the florists' business.

Various Notes.

Friends of Albert Furst will be surprised to learn of his marriage to Miss Mary Meyers, of Steubenville, O., October 25. The wedding took place at the bride's home. The newly married couple will make their home in Dayton, as Mr. Furst is a member of the Furst Floral Co., in North Dayton. R. A. B.

Geraniums

SEASONABLE NOTES.

Winter Flowering Types.

While mums are in season geranium plants are not wanted. After Thanksgiving, however, comes a scarcity of flowers, when pots of geraniums are bright and decidedly welcome. Discontinue pinching off the flower trusses. If they show signs of starvation, feed with moderate freedom, but avoid using too much liquid manure or chemicals high in nitrogen, as they promote a rank, healthy looking, but soft growth, which flowers poorly. Top dressings once a fortnight of fine bone or Clay's fertilizer tend to build up plants with a hard, stocky growth, which flowers with great freedom. If the plants have been properly pinched, they should not require any staking. In case they do, use sticks which are painted green and make them as short and inconspicuous as possible. Spread out the plants every few days, as their growth is now rapid and, if allowed to crowd, it will only mean a larger proportion of yellow foliage.

Pick off all decayed leaves at least once a week. Let them have all the sun possible and air freely except on cold nights. They should have some ventilation all the time. As the flowers commence to open, keep the atmosphere drier and, in watering, keep moisture off the flowers and foliage as much as possible. The sunlight is now steadily on the decline and, while we may hope for many clear and fairly warm days, there will be spells of dark, damp, sunless weather, when care is necessary if nice plants are desired.

Bedding Geraniums.

Answering several inquiries, it is not too late to put in geranium cuttings. In fact, the late cuttings are firmer and root better than the earlier ones, and in the warmer states the last of October, and even November, is found the best time to put them in. No matter whether in small pots or flats of sand, they should be carefully watered now. Give just sufficient moisture at the roots to prevent shriveling. If watered day after day, they will grow rank and need potting on long before we have vacant spaces for them. If held tolerably dry, they will be found to have made a mass of fibrous roots even if the tops are small, and they will respond quickly to good after treatment.

Standard Geraniums.

Standard or tree-shaped geraniums are something of a novelty, but are fine in the center of a bed; also for porch and piazza decorations. Their culture is not difficult, but salable plants can not be had as quickly as the ordinary bedding plants commonly seen. In Europe, standard geraniums, pelargoniums, fuchsias, marguerites, heliotropes, lantanas and some other plants are popular and made much use of, especially in flower beds. Here they are but little seen, probably because it takes longer to grow them and commercial growers can not afford to wait so long for returns.

Select for standards, geraniums which are naturally short jointed and stocky. Rank growing kinds are not of any use. Instead of pinching the cuttings as for ordinary bedding plants, keep them growing. Tie up to a stake and rub off all side shoots. When the stem is of sufficient length, twenty-four to thirty inches, pinch out the top and let the head develop and become shapely by repeated pinchings. Always keep the plants securely staked until ready for use. They are better grown under glass all the time. It takes fifteen to eighteen months to grow standard geraniums with good sized heads, and they need fair sized pots. Of course, a good price must be had for such plants to make them profitable, but there would seem to be a field here for some enterprising growers who want to have something out of the beaten track with which to attract people.

Pelargoniums.

The show, or large-flowered, pelargoniums are now starting to grow freely and will require potting over in many cases. They like a soil composed of fibrous loam, cow manure and sand, with some fine bone or Clay's fertilizer added, and should be potted quite firmly. Keep the strong shoots pinched to make the plants shapely, and grow them cool; 40 to 45 degrees at night is warm enough. If kept in a higher temperature, green aphids will attack them more. Spraying with a nicotine or soapy solution once a week, or fumigation, will keep them clean, but this must not be neglected.

Prize Wreath of C. L. Brunson, Paducah, Ky.

THE RETAIL FLORIST.....

"BRED IN OLD KENTUCKY."

The illustration on page 11 is of the floral design made by C. L. Brunson, Paducah, Ky., which won the loving cup offered by the Palmer Hotel Co., for the best floral design shown at the Paducah fair, October 5, 1911. One of the interesting points was that the designer, W. J. Wright, was left to his own resources and the stock on hand to win the prize. Special stock had been ordered for this design, with instructions to ship by American Express, and would have arrived in six hours after shipment, but the delivery boy took it to the Adams, which has no office at Paducah, and it arrived thirty hours after shipment, and three hours after judging the designs. Not until four hours before staging did Mr. Wright learn by wire that he would not receive his stock in time and that he would be obliged to do the best he could with the flowers that happened to be on hand. The lower half of the wreath was a heavy bed of adiantum, orchids and valley, the upper half of ivy studded with white roses and valley, with showers of valley. The base was of green, palms, pandanus, ferns and plumosus.

THE NEW BEMB CAR.

The accompanying illustration is reproduced from a photograph of the new delivery car of the Bemb Floral Co. The body was built on a one-ton Federal chassis. Mr. Pochelon was the designer. The car is 4x7 feet inside measure, with a height of five feet six inches. It is rather unique in that there are side doors as well as a double rear door. Inside is a seat running lengthwise on each side of the car, from the side doors back. These seats are dropped out of position when not in use, the use being to carry a number of employees to any large decoration where much help may be required. Electric lights are used throughout. A meter and clock are installed on the dash, whereby Mr. Pochelon can tell to the minute just how long the driver took for a trip, number of stops made and the duration of each stop. The car is handsomely finished in black body and red gearing with nickel trimmings.

Speaking of Bemb and automobiles, Mr. Pochelon, who is proprietor of the Bemb Floral Co., recently had for a local automobile manufacturer the largest decoration ever put on a dinner table in Detroit. The table seated 112 persons. It was a big oval affair that occupied almost the whole of the banquet hall at the Pontchartrain hotel. On the inner side, a hedge of privet about eight inches high encircled the table. From this hedge a boulevard scene, interspersed with driveways, sloped down from the table to the floor, in the center of which was a circular speed track, around which miniature duplicates of all the Ford models put on the market from the beginning by that company were continually running during the evening. The cars, of course, were filled with miniature men and women and presented an animated scene. In the center of the speedway an illuminated fountain was continually playing, while leading to the speedway were various roads, the street corners and cross roads being illuminated with miniature electric street lamps. Interspersed over this boulevard scene were beds of flowers.

A GOOD WEDDING DECORATION.

One of the things often asked for but not often seen is a really first-class wedding decoration for a private residence when the sum to be expended is not large. Making a satisfactory and creditable showing within a modest appropriation has taxed the ingenuity of probably every florist in the country. When the bride's father says, "Go as far as you like," the florist has a much simpler job, in a way, than when the cost has to be held down to merely a few dollars. And yet there are a dozen, yes, a hundred, of the modest decorations for every one where the florist is given what the Fifth avenue retailer likes to report as "a carte-blanche order."

The retailer whose stock of accessories includes a lot of wedding paraphernalia has a great advantage over the one who has none of these requisites, when it comes to figuring on almost any sort of wedding decoration, but the handicap is particularly heavy on the smaller jobs. The retailer who must start from "scratch" on every job must necessarily buy more material and do more work to achieve a satisfactory result. Where a reasonable amount of work is in sight it is wise economy to have a complete stock of wedding gates, kneeling stools, newel posts, velvet-covered ropes, plant stands, pot covers, tall vases, and the numerous other aids to the decorator now provided by the thoughtful gentlemen who conduct the supply houses. With a good equipment of these indispensables, the decorator can use them over and over again in so many different combinations that he not only avoids all suggestion of sameness, but actually has no two decorations alike and gets so much use out of his purchases that he need add no great sum to any one estimate to cover the cost of the stage effects he will employ.

The illustration on page 13 of this issue is reproduced from a photograph of a simple wedding decoration by Mrs. Lord, who does a prosperous retail flower business in the thriving city of Topeka, in the state of Kansas. It used to be asked: "What's the matter with Kansas?" In course of time the answer came to be: "She's all right." Those who give a little study to the illustration will join in the affirmation. It is a decoration that is well worth study by everyone who has similar work to do. It is simple, yet effective. It is capable of many variations, yet the idea can be employed with satisfactory result, using Beauties or chrysanthemums in place of lilies. It is a plan that can be amplified to any extent desired by merely extending the decoration along the walls of the room.

One trouble with the average photograph that comes to The Review is that the subject almost always is unusual; either it is the biggest piece the florist ever made, or the most expensive, or the most bizarre idea he ever was called upon to carry out; rarely is it a photograph of a simple, everyday order, with nothing special about it except that, perhaps, it has had especially happy treatment. The Review would like to receive more such.

LEADING DAHLIAS.

The dahlias of Henry A. Dreer, Inc., have been moved from Locust Farm to Riverview this season. The transfer has proved successful, for, while the dahlia roots at Locust Farm were so fine as to leave little to be desired, the plants there bloomed so late in the season that many of the visitors who came to see and compare the different va-ieties were disappointed. This difficulty has been overcome at Riverview, where the dahlias have been blooming splendidly and giving every indication that the roots will be quite as fine as they have ever been in the past.

Through the courtesy of E. H. Michel, who has charge of the Riverview greenhouses and grounds, The Review is able to give some of the leading varieties, new and old, that have come to the front for garden decoration or for cut flowers:

Pink Pearl, cactus, deep pink, very pretty.

Delice, decorative, pink, beautiful for cut flowers.

Mrs. Roosevelt, decorative, white center, outside petals pale pink, very large.

Mme. Camille Pabst, cactus, an autumn shade of yellow.

Mrs. H. J. Jones, decorative, a pleasing combination of red and white.

Queen Victoria, show, lemon yellow.

Mme. A. Lumier, semi-double, pink and white striped.

Charles Lanier, show, lemon yellow; large, fine flowers.

Gen. French, cactus, autumn shade of red and yellow.

Cuban Giant, show, crimson.

Lovely, cactus, lavender pink.

Mme. Van den Daelc, decorative, flesh pink, large petals.

Gold Medal, show; the name describes the color, with "burnished" added.

Sequoia, cactus, bronze yellow; a pleasing variety.

Wilhelm Miller, decorative, crimson.

Queen Wilhelmina, single, white.

Fireworks, decorative, yellow, streaked with red.

Standard, show, crimson.

Nerthus, decorative, a shade between purple and lavender.

Henry Patrick, decorative, a beautiful pink.

Floradora, cactus, crimson.

Alpha, single, white speckled with lavender.

Progenitor, cactus, a fine scarlet.

Mrs. Clinton, decorative, yellow shaded to lavender, outside petals pink.

Mrs. T. J. Woodall, beautiful deep pink, cactus.

Frau Hermine Marx, decorative, soft pink.

Ruby Queen, show, ruby red.

Amber Queen, cactus, amber.

Miss Minnie McCullough, decorative; a bronze that is making a noise as a cut flower because of its color and excellent keeping qualities.

Emily, show, deep lavender; large flowers on unusually heavy, stiff stems.

Goliath, decorative, bronze orange.

Yellow Livoni, show, lemon yellow; corresponds with the old Livoni in every particular but color.

A. D. Livoni, show, standard rose pink.

Mme. Alf. Moreau, show, pink.

Dreer's White, show, a splendid commercial variety.

Yellow Duke, show, the best commercial yellow for cut flowers.

Catherine Duer, decorative, standard crimson.

Sylvia, decorative, white center, soft pink on outer petals; very beautiful for cut flowers.

Wm. Agnew, decorative, scarlet.

Countess of Lonsdale, decorative, salmon shaded with lavender; a sterling variety.

THE AUTUMN

EXHIBITIONS

MADISON, N. J.

The Morris County Gardeners' and Florists' Society held its annual show October 26 and 27. This society is noted for the high quality of its exhibits, but this year seemed to have excelled its previous records. This is particularly true in the case of chrysanthemums and roses. In the rose classes it is interesting to note that Bridesmaids are practically lost, and both My Maryland and Killarney had to bow to the newer Radiance, samples of which were shown in magnificent condition, with 4-foot stems, fully equal in all respects to the average American Beauty.

In the chrysanthemum classes for thirty-six flowers in six varieties, William Duckham, superintendent for Mrs. D. Willis James, scored first. His exhibit contained magnificent specimens of W. Woodmason, Lady Hopetoun and Beatrice May. Charles Barbanes, gardener for Dudley Olcott, Morristown, scored second with fine samples of Reginald Vallis and F. S. Vallis.

For eighteen flowers in six varieties, J. Lindabury, gardener for Robert D. Foote, Morristown, was first. His Pockett's Crimson in this class were wonderfully fine, and other splendid flowers were C. H. Totty and Rose Pockett. John Downing, gardener for Dr. D. H. McAlpin, was second, his finest flowers being Lady Hopetoun and Glenview. James Fraser, superintendent for Otto H. Kahn, Morristown, was third, his best flowers being Yellow Miller and Loiseau Rousseau.

For twelve flowers in twelve varieties, one vase, Alex. Robertson, gardener for E. H. Wells, Montclair, was first. This exhibit contained magnificent specimens of Alice M. Flagler, F. E. Nash, Mary Mason and Lady Hopetoun. John Downing scored second, his finest flowers being Leslie Morrison, Cheltoni and Pockett's Crimson.

For ten flowers, white, one variety, Wm. Turner, gardener for M. C. D. Borden, Oceanic, scored first with Beatrice May. Wm. Duckham was second, with Mrs. Syme. This condition was reversed in six white, where magnificent flowers exhibited by Peter Duff, gardener for Mrs. J. Crosby Brown, of Orange, were awarded first against Alex. Robertson second. For ten pink, Wm. Duckham scored first with Lady Hopetoun.

One of the most striking exhibits in the show was the class for twenty-four blooms in twenty-four distinct varieties, single stems, shown in bottles. This class was won by Wm. Duckham, who had a remarkable collection of varieties. They included as the finest Harry E. Converse, W. Woodmason, Mrs. G. C. Kelly, Mrs. H. Stevens, Chrysanthemiste Montigny, Onunda and Alice Lemon. Wm. Turner was second with a wonderfully even lot of blooms, among his best being Mrs. C. H. Totty, Leslie Morrison, Mary Donnellan, W. Woodmason and Mrs. H. Stevens.

Ernest E. Wilde, gardener for C. W. Harkness, Madison, was first in Class 9 with what the judges thought the twelve best flowers in the show. They were as follows: W. Woodmason, Rose Pockett, Mary Farnsworth, Naceur Bey, Alice Lemon, Mrs. Syme, Beatrice May, Pockett's Crimson, F. E. Nash, Lady Hopetoun, Frank Payne and George Lock. His nearest competitor was J. Lindabury, whose finest flowers included Lady Hopetoun, Pockett's Crimson, Onunda, Mrs. David Syme and Mrs. O. H. Kahn. The third prize was won by Jas. Fraser, whose finest flowers were Howard Gould, C. H. Totty and F. E. Nash.

The Stumpp & Walter prize was won by Alex. Robertson for six flowers in six varieties, which were all of superb quality: F. E. Nash, Lady Hopetoun, Hon. Mrs. Lopes, Gladys Blackburn, F. S. Vallis and Flagler. Peter Duff scored second in this class, with Lady Hopetoun and Yellow Miller among his best.

In the class for six flowers, one variety, Jas. Fraser scored first in pink, with fine Wm. Duckham; in bronze, with Rose Pockett; in crimson, with Pockett's Crimson, and J. Lindabury, first for yellow with F. S. Vallis.

For vase of chrysanthemums arranged for effect, John Downing was first and Jas. Fraser second.

The class for pompon chrysanthemums was won by Henry Gaut, gardener for J. T. Pratt, Glen Cove. John Downing scored first for twelve vases of singles.

In the commercial classes Chas. H. Totty ran first clear down the list, showing Mrs. Syme for white, R. F. Felton for yellow, Reginald Vallis for pink and Mrs. O. H. Kahn for any other color, ten of each.

The chief noticeable fact about the chrysanthemum exhibits was the predominance of the Australian varieties. Outside of Merza, Vallis and Chrysanthemiste Montigny, the entire show may be said to have been composed of Australian varieties. The peer of them all was Mrs. Syme. It was too early for the growers in this vicinity for any other varieties, which will possibly be seen in New York this week in better condition.

Aside from cut mums the awards were:

Eighteen American Beauty roses, L. A. Noe, first.
Twelve American Beauty, L. M. Noe, Est., first; Wm. Kleinheinz, gardener for P. A. B. Widener, Ogontz, Pa., second.

One specimen Lorraine begonia, pink, E. Wilde, first.

Special society prize for table 4 feet in diameter of orchid plants arranged with fern plants, W. Duckham, first.

Special prize of $10, offered by Harry A. Bunyard, for collection of nerines to be exhibited in pots, with ferns in pots, W. Duckham, first.

Special prize of $25, offered by Arthur T. Bodington, for collection of vegetables in 12 varieties, beauty of arrangement to count, H. B. Vyse, first; Jas. Fraser, second.

Special prize of $16, offered by Peter Henderson & Co., for collection of vegetables, 8 varieties, beauty of arrangement to count, Jas. Fraser, first; H. B. Vyse, second.

Special prizes were awarded to the following:

J. Lindabury, Spring Brook Farm, Morristown, N. J., for 6 carrots and 6 beets.

C. A. Work, Madison, N. J., 1 Boston fern and 2 Ponderosa lemons.

C. H. Totty, Madison, N. J., collection of outdoor chrysanthemums.

Henry A. Dreer, Inc., Philadelphia, Pa., collection of dahlias and ferns.

W. A. Manda, South Orange, N. J., collection of dahlias and ferns.

YONKERS, N. Y.

Howard Nichols, gardener of the J. B. Trevor estate, was awarded a silver cup by the Yonkers Horticultural Society for scoring the largest number of points on his exhibits at the annual flower show of the society, held in the Hollywood Inn assembly hall October 25. The other principal exhibitors and prize winners on cut flowers and plants were:

John Canning, of the Lewisohn estate, Ardsley, N. Y.; Robert Cochrane, of Ewing estate; Harry Turner, Untermyer estate; Claude Wilson, Dobbs Ferry; Henry Kastberg, Masters estate, Dobbs Ferry; A. Macdonald, Oppenheim estate; Thos. Lee, M. E. Sand estate, Ardsley; Robert Angus, Joseph Eastman estate, Tarrytown; Charles Smith, Holden estate, Yonkers; W. Heabach, J. E. Thompson estate.

A certificate of merit was awarded Harry Wells for an exhibit of pink cosmos. A similar certificate was awarded N. Hoffman, of the Fisher Baker estate, Yonkers, for an exhibit of mixed cosmos. R. L. Cushman, of the W. B. Thompson estate, exhibited the largest chrysanthemum in the show, and the elaborate exhibit of foliage plants from this estate attracted considerable attention. It filled the whole stage of the hall. A certificate of merit was awarded. A splendid display of palms was shown by the Yonkers Nursery Co., and Milliot's exhibit of flowers and foliage plants filled one corner of the hall.

Lewis Milliot managed the show.

LENOX, MASS.

The autumn show of the Lenox Horticultural Society was held October 25 to 27 and proved a most gratifying success. It was of course principally a show by the private gardeners, of whom there are many in the vicinity, but there were a number of special trade exhibits. Elmer D. Smith & Co., of Adrian, Mich., made a display of a new yellow chrysanthemum which has been named Lenox. There was a display of the new white carnation, Wodenethe, and the new rose, Sunburst, from C. H. Totty, Madison, N. J., who also had on exhibition two new white chrysanthemums. They were Lady Carmichael, a reflexed flower, and the I. M. Henshaw, an incurved bloom.

William D. Sloane won the Dreer silver cup for the best arrangement of miscellaneous plants, the chief honor of the show. The principal exhibitors were:

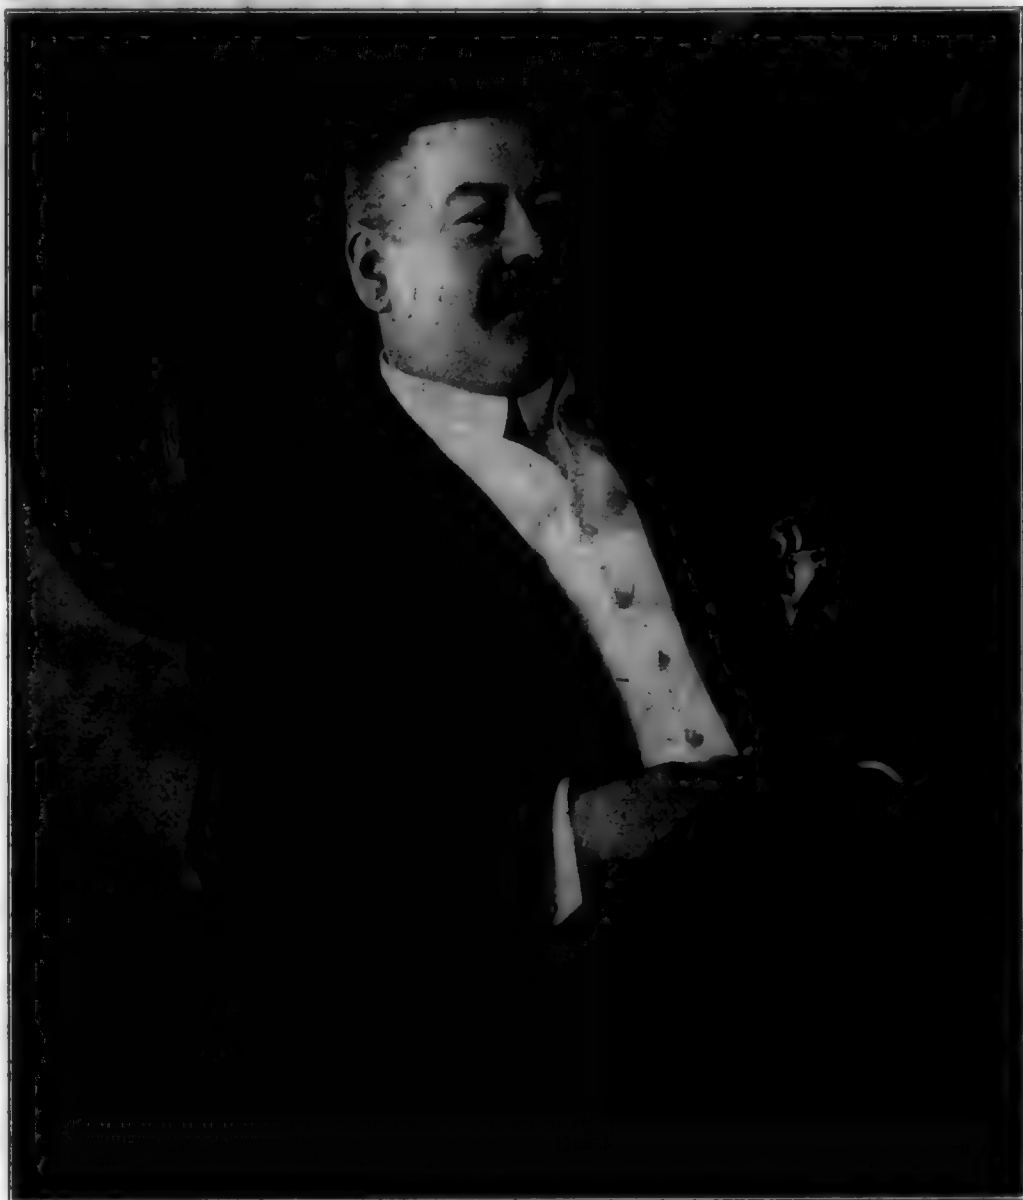

R. Spiers, gardener to Mrs. J. E. Parsons; S. Carlquist, gardener to Mrs. R. Winthrop; F. Heeremans, gardener to W. D. Sloane; A. J. Jenkins, gardener to S. P. Shotter; E. Jenkins, gardener to Giraud Foster; A. H. Wingett, gardener to Charles Lanier; J. W. Prybus, gardener to W. M. Salisbury; J. J. Donohoe, gardener to Mrs. Morris K. Jessup; E. J. Norman, gardener to Mrs. George Westinghouse; A. MacConnachie, gardener to R. C. Dixie; G. A. Breed, gardener to J. H. Choate; Thomas Proctor, superintendent at Blantyre; George Thompson, gardener to Count de Heredia; D. Dunn, gardener to Mrs. Sturgis.

MANCHESTER, MASS.

The annual chrysanthemum show of the North Shore Horticultural Society was held in the Town hall October 25 and 26 and was one of the finest yet. The weather was delightful on each day and there was a large attendance, including many of the prominent North Shore cottagers. The principal prize winners were:

Mrs. Lothrop Brown, William Swan, gardener; Mrs. James McMillan, F. F. Brasch, gardener; E. D. Jordan, H. A. Abrahamson, gardener; E. S. Grew, A. E. Parsons, gardener; Mrs. W. B. Walker; Mrs. Lester Leland, Eric Wetterlow, gardener; Axel Magnuson; R. D. Evans, James George, gardener.

The judges were Martin Sullivan, Joseph Clark and George W. Duncan.

Carroll S. Elliott.

THIRTY YEARS A SEEDSMAN.

They say that the best years of a man's life are from 40 to 60, so Carroll S. Elliott must be right in his prime, a statement which will have the hearty concurrence of anyone who knows either the business or social side of his nature.

Mr. Elliott was born at New Brighton, on Staten Island, October 15, 1863, and this brief sketch is prompted by the recent celebration of his forty-eighth birthday anniversary. Graduating from the New Brighton grammar school at 18, he joined the forces of his father, William Elliott, one of New York's pioneer seedsmen, so that almost coincident with the birthday anniversary Mr. Elliott completed three decades in the business. Thirty years is a long time, even to look back upon in the horticultural trades in New York, where things have moved more than fast during practically all that time, and always in one direction. William Elliott died in 1897 and the business passed into the hands of the two sons, Carroll and William J., who have pushed it along now for fourteen years under the style of the partnership then formed, Wm. Elliott & Sons. They occupy the entire building at 42 Vesey street, dealing in seeds, bulbs, plants and horticultural sundries, the second floor being devoted to the auction department, where William J. holds forth so eloquently during the spring and autumn seasons.

Carroll Elliott is said to resemble Col. E. H. R. Green, the millionaire Dallas florist who, son of Hetty Green, spends most of his time in Wall street, and, like Col. Green, Mr. Elliott never has married. Newspapers have reported that Col. Green has had a thousand proposals a year, but it is not the function of the present writer to divulge how much greater a number have come to the seedsman.

AZALEAS FOR EASTER.

When would it be necessary to secure azaleas to have them in bloom for Easter? How many weeks would be required to bloom them? A. O. C.

Azaleas are all imported from Belgium and have recently arrived in America or are soon due. Your best plan will be to purchase at once any plants required, as you can secure them at more reasonable rates now than after the importers have potted them and probably cared for them for several months.

Easter, 1912, comes April 7. In order to have your plants in flower at that time, place them in a temperature of 60 degrees about six weeks before that date and keep them freely syringed until the flowers show color. Some varieties naturally bloom earlier than others, but it is easy to hold them back a few days in a cold house and this is much better than having to force them hard just before they are wanted. Soak the balls of the azaleas well in a tub of water before potting. Press the soil firmly in the pots. Hold the plants in a cellar, pit or cold greenhouse until wanted. Any light place from which frost is excluded will answer.

WHITE ANTS IN MUM SOIL.

My attention has just been attracted to an inquiry in The Review for September 21, in which a subscriber says: "I have an entirely new bed of chrysanthemums, outdoors, and I am bothered with white ants. Will you kindly give me some advice as to how to get rid of them? The only reason for the trouble that I can give is that I spaded in fresh cow manure that was unclean. My location is southern Louisiana."

C. H. Totty replies: "Possibly some southern grower who has had experience with white ants can give better information on this subject than I can. I would state, however, that Paris green or arsenic, mixed with corn meal or some other cereal of a like character, and scattered on the soil, will in many cases clean out the ants, and it will also destroy sowbugs. It is not at all probable that the ants originally came from the cow manure. In most cases, like Topsy, they 'just grow,' but their presence, when they do get here, is exceedingly real and unwelcome."

Carbon bisulphid will settle their hash in short order. I was troubled with them in my mums on the bench a year or two ago and found the carbon bisulphid the only thing to get at them, as they work altogether from below the ground, eating out the pith or center of the stem for quite a distance up the stem, until the plant dies. With a small stick make holes in the ground where the ants are at work, put a small quantity of carbon bisulphid in each hole, quickly closing the hole, and the fumes will do the work. The holes should be about a foot apart. The ants also are destructive to geranium plants in beds outdoors. They breed in rotten wood that is either buried or lying on the surface of the ground, so it is a good thing not to have any lying around. The carbon bisulphid can be had at the drug store, but don't smoke while you are handling it, as it is highly inflammable. William Walker.

REASON FOR POOR GROWTH.

I should like to know what caused the condition of some of my chrysanthemums? The soil was not changed after growing tomatoes on it, but had some well-rotted manure mixed in, and seemed in excellent condition. On parts of two beds, however, some of the plants have made little if any growth and the foliage is yellow, while others growing among them are strong and healthy. The soil now seems a little heavy and the yellow plants appear to have made no root growth. How do you explain the trouble, and is there any remedy for it? Do red spider and black aphid grow together on mums? I have some trouble with the latter but the former don't seem to thrive and I have wondered whether these two insects were natural enemies. B. B.

Undoubtedly the fact that the soil was not changed after growing tomatoes has considerable to do with the condition of the plants at the present time, although if properly managed, fairly good success can be obtained by growing in a soil that has grown previous crops.

It would seem that the part of the bed where the plants have made such poor growth and the leaves are yellow may be poorly drained, or else the stock when planted was in wretched condition. I note that while some are strong and healthy growing among the diseased plants, others have made no growth and are yellow, and this would indicate that the stock was diseased when it was planted; otherwise there is no reason why they should not all have come along in a similar manner.

It is too late to try any remedy for the stock this year. The only thing to do is to propagate only from healthy plants and discard the diseased plants entirely another year. Then the crop should come in good condition.

Red spider and black aphid will grow together on mums. So far as I am aware these insects are friends. We sometimes wish they were enemies. It would simplify matters a great deal.

If B. B. is never bothered with red spiders on chrysanthemum plants, it is an exceptional case, although many people lose lots of flowers from red spider and do not know, until too late, what caused the trouble. The red spider is so small that it is almost invisible to the naked eye, although the web that it weaves around the bud is always in evidence if red spider is present in any quantity. The red spider and aphid will certainly grow together on mums and need no "reciprocity treaty" to do it either. C. H. T.

BUD-ROT OF CARNATIONS.

Under separate cover I am forwarding to you a few carnation buds and I shall be grateful to you if you will tell me what is the trouble with them and what I can do to remedy it. I am losing a good many. The buds are rotting off in this way as soon as they start showing color. I keep the houses on the dry side, syringe them about once in two weeks and fumigate with nicotine twice a week. Would fumigating with hydrocyanic acid gas be advisable and how should it be done? How should I prepare Bordeaux mixture and how often should I use it as a preventive? S. S.

You are troubled with what is commonly known as bud-rot. This is caused by a tiny insect which works inside the bud and prevents development, causing the petals to stick together and rot. Spraying with nicotine is supposed to be a good remedy, if done persistently and in strong enough doses. Hydrocyanic acid gas is also supposed to be good, perhaps better than the nicotine. Write to the Department of Agriculture at Washington for Bulletin No. 27, by F. H. Chittenden, printed in 1901. This bulletin will give you more information on the subject than I could take the space for here. When picking off buds which have rotted, be sure that you burn them and let none of them be thrown in the walks or under the benches, to multiply.

To make Bordeaux mixture, take six pounds of copper sulphate and dissolve in a couple of gallons of water. Do the same with four pounds of lime. Add enough water to each to make twenty-five gallons. Then pour the two together and you have Bordeaux mixture. You can use less of each ingredient to make a smaller quantity, or you can buy Bordeaux mixture, already prepared, from the leading supply houses. One good application of this is usually enough, but it can be repeated in a couple of weeks if deemed necessary.

CARNATION RUST.

We have a bad case of rust on White Enchantress, due, I believe, to late benching, for they seemed to have it on when we brought them in. We took all precautions and did no top watering and applied Bordeaux immediately, but it doesn't seem to check and now that good flowers are coming, the cure seems worse than the disease, for the Bordeaux spoils the blossoms. We thought you might suggest another remedy and would be glad to hear from anyone who could help us out.

N. & J.

Sometimes we find that, in spite of everything we can do to check this common disease of the carnation, it will continue to spread.

The treatment you gave was all right and should have checked it.

Instead of spraying with the Bordeaux mixture, dust the plants with Grape Dust, or with air-slaked lime and flowers of sulphur, mixing them half and half.

Water carefully at the roots, but do not spray overhead unless driven to it by red spider.

HIGH NIGHT TEMPERATURE.

I have a splendid house of carnations, in a flourishing condition, but have chrysanthemums in the same house, so I find it necessary to keep a low fire in order to prevent dampness. I leave the ventilators open at night, but in spite of that the heat sometimes runs up to 65 or 70 degrees. Please tell me whether that will hurt my carnations. They are looking well and I should not like to spoil them. We are having lots of warm, rainy weather, so I think it would be dangerous to stop firing, on account of the mums. I am located in northwestern Massachusetts. F. C.

Just how harmful it may be to your carnations to have the temperature run up to 65 or 70 degrees at night would depend altogether on how often it runs up to that mark and how long it stays there at each time. I have never had any experience so far east as you are located, and therefore am not competent to speak of the advisability of keeping up so high a temperature on account of dampness on the mums, but in our locality we would not consider that we needed much firing as long as the temperature remained as high as 60 degrees, even though it might be quite damp. Running the steam around three or four times in the twenty-four hours, to keep the air moving, would be considered sufficient to prevent damping of the mums. This would not run the temperature up much, and at the same time it would keep the atmosphere dry by keeping it moving.

It should be remembered that any plant will stand a higher temperature with the ventilators raised than it will with no ventilation on. Hence, if the ventilators are raised, it will not injure your carnations if the temperature runs up to 65 degrees occasionally, providing you do not maintain it too long. Do everything you can, however, to keep it down somewhere near 52 degrees. As soon as it becomes cold enough to require steady firing, you will be able to do this. A. F. J. B.

MULCH AND LIQUID FERTILIZER.

Please tell me what makes the best mulch for carnations and what is the best liquid manure with which to feed them.

J. J. C. & S.

There is no doubt that rotted cow manure makes by far the best mulching material for carnations or any other crop. If the plants are pretty well established and in condition to stand a little feeding, then you want it not too well rotted. If it is just rotted enough to be free from danger of souring, it will give your plants a good deal of nourishment as well as the protection for the surface of the soil from baking and drying out. If, however, you want merely to prevent drying out in spots, then you want the manure pretty well rotted. Rotted stable manure will also answer well in that case.

To make liquid manure, you can use the cattle manure with good success, varying it occasionally with sheep manure and wood ashes. Of the cattle manure put a bushel in a bag and hang it in a 50-gallon barrel of water. Of sheep manure use about one-fourth that amount. How often you apply the feed must depend entirely on the condition of your plants. No hard and fast rule can be laid down for this. If the plants are strong and well established and the weather is normal, with a good deal of sunshine, then an application of the feed once each week will not be too much. But in case of dark weather, keep your eye on the texture of the stock and at the first sign of softness reduce the feeding.

A light sprinkling of wood ashes about once in six weeks will help to stiffen the stems. Air-slaked lime also will have this effect, but we like the ashes better, as they do not seem so caustic. There are a number of other materials which are good for the purpose of varying the diet, such as dried blood, tankage and a number of the complete fertilizers offered by the trade.

If the plants are strong and well established and the weather is normal, with a good deal of sunshine, then an application of the feed once each week will not be too much. But in case of dark weather, keep your eye on the texture of the stock and at the first sign of softness reduce the feeding.

A light sprinkling of wood ashes about once in six weeks will help to stiffen the stems. Air-slaked lime also will have this effect, but we like the ashes better, as they do not seem so caustic. There are a number of other materials which are good for the purpose of varying the diet, such as dried blood, tankage and a number of the complete fertilizers offered by the trade.

A NOVEL PICTURE.

The revolving camera plays some strange pranks, and it makes some in-interesting pictures, of which the accompanying is one. So far as known, it is the first time that a revolving camera has been tried inside a greenhouse. This was at the establishment of P. J. Olinger, at New Castle, Ind., September 20. Imagine yourself stepping into the middle walk at one side of the carnation range, looking first to the left. Then you turn your head slowly to the right, until your eyes are directed to the far end of the house, opposite the end at which you first looked. What you would see in turning your head is shown in the photograph reproduced here. It is practically looking three ways at once. The other illustration is reproduced from a photograph taken by ordinary means in one of the Olinger Beauty houses.

THE GARDENERS MEET.

The convention of the National Association of Gardeners was held at Madison, N. J., October 27, with a fair attendance, although the majority of the gardeners who attended the Morris County Horticultural Society show October 21 were unable to be away from their conservatories two days in succession. New constitution and by-laws were offered and met with almost unanimous approval. M. C. Ebel, of Madison, was elected secretary. Splendid addresses were made by J. K. M. L. Farquhar, of Boston, J. Otto Thilow, of Philadelphia, and C. H. Totty, of Madison. About thirty attended the banquet in the evening, where jollity and good fellowship prevailed. Among the visitors were Messrs. Orpet and Foley, of Chicago, and David Rust, of Philadelphia. A large attendance from New York was noted. Rising votes of thanks to the speakers were many and Ex-secretary Maynard was not forgotten. The outlook for the society seems bright and its influence is expected in helping to make the national flower show in 1913 a great success. J. Austin Shaw.

THE GARDENER'S PART.

In an address to the National Association of Gardeners, at Madison, N. J., October 27, C. H. Totty said in part:

"Let us have exhibits in the flower shows that can show people something of what they can do on their own little estates or cottage gardens. The greatest possibilities, to my mind, lie in making a man interested enough to buy his own little home, and then, by judicious use of hardy plants and flowers, he can make that little home a bower of beauty. Let us show him how, by judicious cultivation of his back yard, he can have enough vegetables fresh from his own garden to supply his family table for eight or nine months of the year. Get a man interested in such a proposition as this and it will do him more good, mentally, morally and from the viewpoint of health, than any other thing he can get interested in. You gentlemen, each in your own community, exercise a power of good in that way. A man interested in gardening or a woman either, if they ask your opinion on a certain thing, will accept your answer as gospel truth, and act on the information. They know you have no direct financial interest in any recommendation you may give. It is somewhat different with a florist. No matter how honest he may be, there is always behind it the idea 'he has something to sell; he has an axe to grind,' and his word therefore does not carry so much weight.

"I think you gardeners are making a great mistake that you do not belong to the Society of American Florists. Your own national organization is excellent. It covers your phase of the situation. But the Society of American Florists is the only society operating under a national charter. Its members have tried repeatedly to interest the private men. Years ago the phrase 'and Ornamental Horticulturists' was added to the Society of American Florists in an effort to prove to you that the same was all-embracing. The response to this was not satisfactory. One reason, I believe, is that the gardeners have not until recently realized the value of organization.

"The Society of American Florists and Ornamental Horticulturists wishes you to cooperate with it in making the National Flower Show of 1913 the grandest and greatest success that has ever been seen along these lines. As chairman of the National Flower Show committee, I beg of you at this time to give us your earnest support, to give us the benefit of your experience."

SEASONABLE ORCHID NOTES.

Fall Sorts and Their Treatment.

The orchid houses during October and November are quite gay with flowers. There is hardly so much variety as, for instance, in February or March, but there are certain varieties which combine to make the houses attractive now. Among these are the free flowering, easily grown and ever popular Cattleya labiata; the beautiful golden yellow Oncidium varicosum Rogersii; the free flowering dendrobiums, D. Phalaenopsis Schröderianum and D. formosum giganteum; Vanda cærulea, with its great spikes of charming blue flowers; cypripediums of the insigne and some other sections; certain phalaenopsis and some other orchids.

The daylight is steadily declining now and, while some days are hot, there are spells of dull weather. For the welfare of the plants, the amount of shading on the roofs should be considerably decreased. In fact, cattleyas not in flower should now stand the full sun, but cypripediums will need shade, as will phalaenopsis. On the other hand, dendrobiums of the nobile and Wardianum types want the fullest amount of sunshine. It is hard, where a number of genera are grown in one house, to suit the needs of all. We can but try to accommodate the greatest possible number with the best possible growing conditions.

During sunless weather, watering should be done with greater caution. As yet, fire heat will not be needed to any great extent, and when any is used the ventilators should be opened all day and on mild nights. Few orchids want a close, stuffy atmosphere and this is particularly true of cattleyas and cælias. The East Indian species naturally enjoy more heat and moisture. For some months now, watering should be done early in the morning, and the amount of damping down of the floors will, of course, depend on the weather and the amount of fire heat being used.

The Temperatures.

Temperatures should now be lowered in the several houses. Phalaenopsis and other East Indian species should be allowed 65 degrees at night; 58 to 60 degrees is ample for cattleyas. Cypripediums, or at least many of them, like a warm house and 62 to 65 degrees at night will do for them, although C. insigne, C. Leeanaum and other varieties can be well grown 10 degrees cooler. Cælogynes, cymbidiums, odontoglossums and other cool orchids should not have a temperature exceeding 55 degrees on warm and 50 degrees on cool nights. Orchids, like many other plants, are not benefited, but, in fact, much weakened by a high night temperature. We are told by scientists that plants make all their growth at night; therefore, the importance of moderate and uniform night temperatures can scarcely be overestimated.

With all orchids now in their winter quarters, some time must be given to the work of cleaning them, and any spare moments are well spent in this way. Commercial growers can not spare time to do this, as in the case of private estates. Still, with some genera, especially miltonias and cypripediums, it is a necessity, particularly if, through any neglect, thrips or other pests have been allowed to attack the foliage. For thrips, dipping in tobacco water or one of the soapy solutions is good. Roaches become more in evidence with increased fire heat and will attack flowers, roots and leaves with equal avidity. Poison and fumigation have no terrors for them, but tins or glass jars, sunk in the ground and containing molasses or some other appetizing food, will lure many of them to their destruction.

DAHLIAS FOR MIDDLE WEST.

There is so great a variety of dahlias that a florist situated as I am, in a small middle-western town, where I have few opportunities for seeing the plants, much less studying their characteristics, is entirely at sea when it comes to picking out a few to grow for local trade. Will you please give us a short list of varieties that are good for florists situated as I am? F. K.

I have tried out between 400 and 500 varieties during the last seven years. These have included most of the newer sorts recommended for cut flowers. The list that follows contains the varieties that have proven most profitable to me for growing for cut flowers for my own local retail trade.

Cactus type: Countess of Lonsdale, salmon pink and amber; Rene Cayeux, red; Parzival, white.

Decorative type: Clifford W. Bruton, yellow; Kaiserin Augusta Victoria, white; Souvenir de Gustave Doazon, red; Sylvia, mauve-pink and white; Jack Rose, crimson rose.

Show type: A. D. Livoni, clear pink, quilled; Queen Victoria, yellow, quilled.

Single type: Fringed Twentieth Century, rosy crimson; Rose-pink Century, delicate soft pink; Crimson Century, rich, deep velvety crimson.

If one's trade does not justify so large a lot I would suggest C. W. Bruton, Kaiserin Augusta Victoria, Souvenir de Gustave Doazon, Jack Rose, Fringed Twentieth Century, Queen Victoria and Sylvia.

I am growing Virginia Maule, Delices, Mrs. Roosevelt, Master Carl, Prince of Yellows and a host of others of the newer sorts and, while they are undoubtedly beautiful, they either are too late for this section or they are shy bloomers under my conditions. The list above is selected, among other things, for freedom of bloom and earliness. Fully eighty-five per cent of my income from cut blooms of dahlias is from varieties named in this list.

BOSTON'S HORTICULTURAL CLUB.

To promote a more widespread interest in horticultural matters is the prime purpose of the Horticultural Club of Boston, which has just been organized. It is the outgrowth of an old club which had become defunct; and in reviving it along new lines it is confidently believed by the leaders that it will exert a powerful influence in the horticulture of the country. Its membership is limited to twenty of the prominent horticulturists of the east, some of whom have attained high reputation for their research work. This is particularly true of David Fairchild, of the Department of Agriculture, Washington, who has traveled all over the world for the purpose of assembling specimens for the government; and E. H. Wilson, of the Arnold Arboretum, who only a few months ago returned from a long trip into the heart of China, bringing back with him many rare plants.

The club will meet once a month during eight months of the year at the Parker House, and the dinner, which always will be a feature, will be followed by an address by some member. Friday, November 3, Mr. Wilson will give an account of his recent expedition and what it accomplished in the way of enlarging the horticultural possessions of Harvard University, which stands sponsor for Arnold Arboretum. Prof. Charles S. Sargent, director of the Arnold Arboretum, has given his highest endorsement of the Horticultural Club, and in his statement addressed to President Farquhar he not only touches upon the aims and field of operations for the organization, but speaks a word for the arboretum, which he holds is not appreciated by American horticulturists as it should be.

H. C. Will, of Will Bros. Co., Minneapolis, and His String.

Following is the list of the members of the club:

John K. M. L. Farquhar, president, Boston.
E. H. Wilson, honorary secretary, Arnold Arboretum, Forest Hills, Boston.
John A. Pettigrew, superintendent of parks, Boston.
Thomas Roland, Nahant, Mass.
David Fairchild, Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.
Alexander Montgomery, Natick, Mass.
Peter Fisher, Ellis, Mass.
M. A. Patten, Tewksbury, Mass.
E. Allan Peirce, Waltham, Mass.
W. A. Manda, South Orange, N. J.
James F. M. Farquhar, Boston.
Robert Cameron, Harvard Botanic Garden, Cambridge, Mass.
Charles H. Totty, Madison, N. J.
Jackson Dawson, Arnold Arboretum, Forest Hills, Boston.
William J. Stewart, Boston.
Patrick Welch, Boston.
J. D. Elsie, Philadelphia.
Hon. C. W. Holitt, Nashua, N. H.
F. R. Pierson, Tarrytown, N. Y.
L. J. Reuter, Westerly, R. I.

WILL'S BAG.

H. C. Will, secretary of Will Bros. Co., Minneapolis, went to Donnelly, Minn., last week for a couple of days with the ducks. Other florists who engage in this sport will be interested in the picture showing his bag. There were seventy-two ducks in the string, mallards, bluebills and red ducks.

MINNEAPOLIS.

The Market.

After a week of cloudy weather, with stock rather scarce, the sun is now shining and prospects are that as soon as the plants feel the effect there will be plenty of nice stock. Frost about ten days ago killed all outdoor stock, to the relief of the florists. Dahlias up to that time had been good, but a quantity of Shasta daisies of rather poor quality found their way to the stores.

Business as a whole is considered fair, and the starting of the flower season is noticeable by better displays in the store windows. The chrysanthemum is the flower of note, and the home-grown look particularly good. President Taft paid the city a visit and caused the excitement a presidential visit generally does, but not making any great stir in flower business.

Various Notes.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Wessing have the sympathy of the trade in the death of their little daughter, Erna Winona, last week of diphtheria.

Merriam Park Greenhouses have a quantity of pompon chrysanthemums which they are disposing of at an advantage.

The Minneapolis Floral Co. is cutting some fine mums, but the dark weather of late has kept back the carnations and roses, and Emil Olsen, who has charge of the orders, had a busy time trying to make the stock go around.

Rice Bros., the hustling wholesale florists and supply dealers, are busy as usual with shipping orders.

Hiawatha Gardens Co. has devoted the place at University avenue and Bedford street mostly to pot plants, and is cutting a quantity of carnations and roses at the new place at Lyndale and Fiftieth street. The poinsettias at the University avenue place look promising.

H. B. Whitted's delivery cars are flying around at all times and in all parts of the city. So splendid a delivery outfit is certainly an ad for the enterprising florist.

Violets from Will Bros. are welcome. They are not cutting many yet, but what they lack in quantity they make up in quality.

August Swanson is living at Minnetonka, and by appearances commuting must agree with him.

Oscar Amundson, who was burned out in the Brunswick hotel about a year ago, and who has since located on South Eighth street, has moved to his old number in the Andrews hotel, newly built on the site of the old Brunswick. His store is in keeping with the hotel, an architecturally beautiful building.

The window decorations at The Florist Shop are always attractive, but were unusually so last week, the center of attraction being a Halloween decoration on a fully set table.

J. A. M.

POND DU LAC, WIS.

As a result of a boiler explosion at the greenhouses of the Haentze Co., 414 Linden street, about 9 p. m. October 27, a loss of $2,000 was entailed, the boiler-room was wrecked, several greenhouses badly damaged, and the entire neighborhood shaken by the force of the blast. Failure to open a valve is said to have been the cause of the explosion.

Richard Haentze, who was on duty that night, had visited the boiler-room of the south row of the houses shortly before 9 o'clock and after adding fuel to the fires had gone to the home of a neighbor. A few minutes later the boiler exploded. Robert Haentze, former president of the common council and a member of the florist company, was the first to arrive on the scene, and he immediately summoned the fire department, which extinguished the flames that followed the explosion. An immediate investigation showed that the boiler had been blown to pieces, that the boiler-room was wrecked and the ends of several of the greenhouses badly damaged. The investigation also showed, it is said, that the valve on the boiler which exploded had not been opened and this is thought to have caused the explosion. The boiler was located in a pit, but the force of the explosion was so great that the roof and sides of the building were blown out. A 6-inch pipe from the boiler was hurled against the side of the chimney, bent as though it had been nothing more than thin wire. In the morning a force of workmen was engaged in clearing away the debris and preparing to place an auxiliary boiler into service.

INDIANAPOLIS.

The Market.

The several heavy frosts last week have had the desired effect and trade has picked up considerably. Dahlias, cosmos and other outdoor flowers are a thing of the past. Carnations, owing to the cool weather, have shortened in supply, but the quality is good. Mums are plentiful, with prices reasonable. Beauties and roses are in good demand, and orchids are more than enough to go around. There are some good pot mums to be had, but the sale on them is not heavy.

Various Notes.

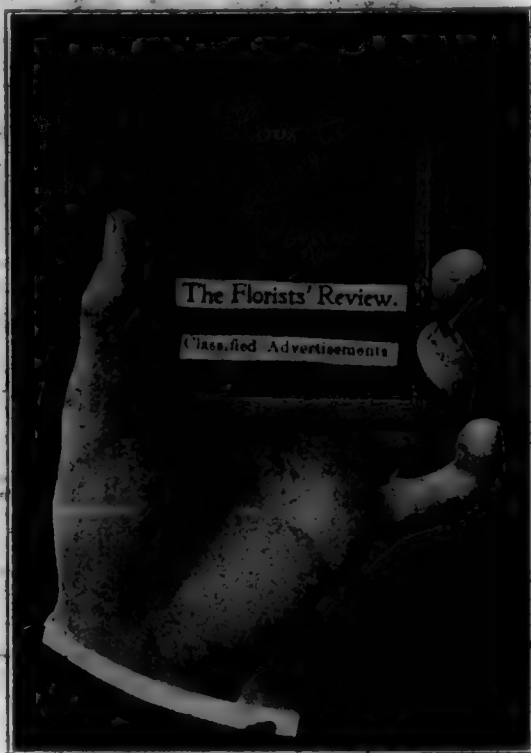

Don't forget that the November meeting of the State Florists' Association is to be held at Richmond next Tuesday, November 9. Indianapolis florists leave via the Pennsylvania railroad at 8 a. m. The first stop is at East Haven.

Henry Rieman has completed a new greenhouse at his South East street establishment, to be used as a cold house.

Karl H. Schuck, manager of the Fountain Square Flower Shop, has discontinued business.

Albert Pittet has a new pink chrysanthemum, a sport from Touse, which he thinks is fine. He expects to put it on the market next year.

Baur & Steinkamp had bad luck with their coal this week. About five cars of coal stored in their cellar became heated and took fire. They had to take out about two cars of it before they extinguished the blaze. This firm is quite enthusiastic over their new red seedling carnation, St. Nicholas. They are going to exhibit it at the different shows over the country this fall, prior to putting it on the market in the spring.

Ernest Rieman has been on the sick list the last week.

S. T. Hitz has a fine lot of mums coming on.

The Smith & Young Co. is going to open its wholesale house the first of next week at 134 North Alabama street. Mr. Junge says he is going to keep open house the first week.

Alfred Brandt is contemplating an electric auto for delivery purposes.

Sidney Smith has purchased the entire block of ground, about three acres in all, at Thirty-eighth street and Senate avenue. He intends using it in connection with his business.

L. Benson has built another greenhouse in the rear of his residence, on Park avenue.

Nearly 30,000 carnations were sold by society girls in the downtown district in one day last week. The proceeds, amounting to about $1,500, were given to the Judge Stubbs Memorial Association. A number of the Indianapolis retailers were indignant because some of the growers sold direct to the association. This was strictly a charitable proposition, however, and the price should have been as low as possible. As the flowers were sold one at a time it worked no harm on the store men, as they would not have secured the sales anyway. If anything, it was educating the public to wear flowers, instead of a detriment to the business.

H. L. W.

Oil City, Pa.—M. J. and E. J. Delahoyde have opened a new flower store in the Levi block. They will also handle nursery stock.

Freeport, Ill.—John Bauscher, Jr., of the Bauscherville Greenhouses, is rejoicing in the fact that he has about 10,000 of the largest mums ever grown since he has been in business. The prospects, he says, are good for the coming winter.

CLEVELAND.

The Market.

Sunday, October 29, saw the first killing frost in this locality and it should have a good effect on the market, as it will do away with dahlias, cosmos and other outdoor flowers that have been so plentiful. A few extra choice mums are seen, but the majority of stock has been of inferior quality. Pompons are in heavy supply, but sell well. Roses are fast improving in quality and Killarney and White Killarney are equal to midwinter stock. Carnations are a trifle scarce, for the demand is good. Lilies, greens, etc., are at a standstill and probably will remain so as long as mums are plentiful.

Various Notes.

Thursday, October 26, the J. M. Gasser Co. held the official opening of its new store in the Swetland building, 1006 Euclid avenue. Invitations had been sent to customers and friends and the store, though of good size, was well filled all through the day. The window was arranged with a November wedding setting and was much admired. Inside the store was an abundance of chrysanthemums, plants of Cattleya labiata heavy with bloom, roses, valley, carnations, violets and other flowers, all tastefully arranged, and they, with the artistic background of the store itself, made a most elaborate display. The woodwork and furnishings of the store are done in green, white and gold and, with a spacious ice-box, tables and the other accessories that go to make an up-to-the-minute flower store, the Gasser Co. can say that this is one of the best and prettiest stores in the middle west. This company has a number of weddings booked for November and the outlook is good for a prosperous fall and winter business.

A. Miller, of A. Henderson & Co., Chicago, called on the growers last week.

Growers in this vicinity are beginning to like Dorner's White Wonder. It is a stronger flower than White Perfection and is always in heavy crop.

Smith & Feters Co. had an attractive window last week, with the usual fall material: Pumpkins, corn and mums, both large and pompon.

Double Killarney is on trial at several establishments in Cleveland and so far has not shown itself to be as popular as Killarney. Growth, stem, number of petals, etc., are all that could be desired, but the bright pink of Killarney is missing. We hope it will improve in color as the season advances.

An inquiry made of the Jones-Russell Co., one day last week, as to why so few cut flowers were on display, brought the answer that they "never liked to keep anything back a customer wanted." In other words, they were sold out.

L. L. Lamborn, of Alliance, is sending some nice Beauties into this market.

F. A. F.

Bramley & Son, on East Seventy-first street, will erect four more greenhouses, each 27x200, this fall.

Amherst, Mass.—M. B. Kingman has reopened his store in Hunt's block.

OBITUARY.

George Woodward.

George Woodward, for many years a well known private gardener at Chicago, died October 24. Something over a year ago he started in business for himself on Lake avenue, as a retail florist, but was obliged to give up after a few months, because of failing health. He had been in a hospital most of the time since. He was a native of England and left a widow and five children.

Patrick Kelly.

Patrick Kelly, 60 years of age, for many years a well known gardener on the east side, in Providence, R. I., was found dead in his bed recently. The bedroom in which he was found was filled with gas, which was streaming from an open jet, but a wide-open window at the head of the bed appeared to indicate that death had resulted from an accident rather than from suicide. It is believed that he left the gas burning and that it was blown out by the wind.

Benjamin R. Wilson.

Benjamin R. Wilson, for many years a seedsman and gardener at Bristol, R. I., died at his home on Gooding avenue, in that town, October 27, after a long illness. He was stricken with a paralytic shock last spring and had been in poor health ever since. He was 62 years old and an expert musician.

Charles Pfomm.

Word is received of the death of Charles Pfomm, a pioneer Connecticut florist, at Middletown. He was a native of Germany, 78 years of age.

PROVIDENCE.

The Market.

Last week, as a whole, was a dull one, with comparatively little business of any kind. A few funerals, an occasional supper or tea and one or two small weddings formed the bulk of the work. There was an increasing supply of all kinds of flowers; chrysanthemums, especially, arrived in good quantities. Prices were a slight degree below those of the preceding week.

Various Notes.

The marriage of John J. Allen, gardener on the Newport estate of Mrs. John R. Drexel, to Mrs. Marie E. Hawthorne, took place October 17 at Jersey City Heights, N. J. Mr. Allen's son, John H. Allen, officiated as best man.

Samuel Resnick, with Joseph Kopelman, had a narrow escape from blood poisoning last week by getting a rose thorn in his right thumb.

President Andrew S. Meikle, of the Newport Horticultural Society, was in New York on a brief visit last week.

The annual fall exhibition of the Rhode Island Horticultural Society will be held at Elysium hall, this city, November 4 and 5. The entries already insure a good attendance.

The J. A. Budlong & Son Co., of Auburn, is bringing in some choice roses. The larger part of the firm's output, however, is going to Boston and New York.

William E. Chappell had the table decorations for the Corinthian Lodge

.....BUSINESS AND OTHER NOTES.....

North Stoughton, Mass.—Wm. E. Hill, an employee of B. F. Washington, the Pleasant street florist, died recently of apoplexy.

New Brunswick, N. J.—John Clark, who has been in business for the last year at 86 Church street, has removed to 77 Church street.

Meriden, Conn.—Jos. A. Greenbacker recently made a trip into Nova Scotia, spending a vacation there and also ordering a supply of Christmas trees.

Congress Heights, D. C.—O. W. D'Alcorn, manager of the Washington Bulb Co., recently reported that about 5,000 bulbs had been stolen during the night from the company's storerooms here.

Northampton, Mass.—H. W. Field, with his wife and two children, left on Tuesday, October 24, for Redlands, Cal., where they expect to remain until May or later, for the benefit of Mr. Field's health.

Freeport, Ill.—Louis Bauscher, of the Freeport Floral Co., reports that the first killing frost in this locality occurred on the night of October 23. The thermometers registered 24 degrees. Until that date, outdoor flowers were in full bloom.

Paxton, Ill.—A hail storm on Saturday afternoon, October 14, broke about 3,700 panes of glass in the greenhouses of Addems, Morgan & Co. The firm had just finished replacing about 14,000 square feet of glass that had been broken by a previous storm.

Greenwich, Conn.—J. B. McArdle, the florist and seedsman, and Robert G. Williamson, superintendent of the Milbank estate, are members of the board of managers of the Westchester and Fairfield Horticultural Society's show, held at the Casino in Stamford, November 3 and 4.

Delavan, Ill.—N. O. Caswell reports that the first killing frost arrived on the night of October 23. A good deal of his glass was broken by a hail storm early in September, but the damage was promptly repaired. The business prospects for the winter season, he says, are bright.

Janesville, Wis.—The Janesville Floral Co. has engaged space for an exhibit at the industrial show, to be held November 20 to 25, under the management of the Industrial and Commercial Club. This show is being well advertised and will probably attract many visitors to the city.

Evergreen, Ala.—In order to properly care for their growing business, Chas. S. Lee & Co., shippers of southern decorative evergreens, have found it necessary to enlarge their quarters. Last week they moved into the packing house just completed on their lot, 50x100, right in the heart of the town. This building is probably one of the handsomest of its kind in the land of smilax, being substantially built, commodious, well lighted and equipped with every convenience.

Ashtabula, O.—The township trustees have decided to build a greenhouse at the Chestnut Grove cemetery.

Northboro, Mass.—Two new boilers are being installed at the greenhouses of R. E. Wadsworth & Co., on Pleasant street.

Dorchester, Mass.—George Parker, the florist of Lower Mills, and Miss Ida Spargo were married on Wednesday evening, October 25.

Evergreen, Ala.—Michael E. McGraw has recently been appointed manager of Caldwell The Woodsman Decorating Co., Inc., the introducer of wild smilax.

Elmhurst, Ill.—The Elmhurst Floral Co. has been incorporated here, with a capital stock of $10,000, by Herman Weiss, Paul L. Haertel and Wm. H. Reich.

Bangor, Me.—Mrs. T. Allen, whose greenhouses are on Court street, has a downtown store at the offices of the Western Union Telegraph Co., on Hammond street.

Ravenna, O.—Chappell & Son, who removed their greenhouses from Garrettsville, O., to this city last July, now have a well-equipped range on a 6-acre tract on North Freedom street.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa.—Ira G. Marvin has opened a branch store on South Main street, next door to the Poll theater. It bears the name of the Cash Flower Shop and is said to be one of the most attractive stores in the city.

Malden, Mass.—E. D. Kaulback, of E. D. Kaulback & Son, has bought the property at 112 to 120 Pleasant street. The property is assessed at $61,800 and the price paid is reported as much less. Mr. Kaulback is the owner, also, of what is known as the Kaulback block, and this new purchase makes him one of the leading owners of business realty in this city.

Westerly, R. I.—Geo. L. Stillman, the dahlia specialist, has made a remarkable record as a prize winner at the principal dahlia exhibitions this season. On forty-five entries he was awarded forty first prizes and three seconds. The other two entries would have won firsts, but were disqualified on close technical points. He was also awarded two specials on exhibits not entered for premiums.

Baraboo, Wis.—William Toole & Sons have bought the stock and leased the greenhouses of the late William Peck. R. H. Williams, who has been manager of the Peck greenhouses, now becomes a partner in the firm of William Toole & Sons and will continue to look after the local trade. E. H. Toole will act as general business manager. William Toole will continue his work of improving the pansy, while W. A. Toole will have charge of the greenhouses and nursery at Pansy Heights, where plants for the catalogue trade are grown. Mrs. Leona Jaeger serves customers with flowers and plants at the firm's store in this city.

SOCIETY OF AMERICAN FLORISTS.

Officers for 1911: President, George Asmus,
Chicago; vice-president, R. Vincent, Jr., White
Marsh, Md.; secretary, H. B. Dorner, Urbana,
Ill.; treasurer, W. F. Kasting, Buffalo, N. Y.
Officers for 1912: President, R. Vincent, Jr.,
White Marsh, Md.; vice-president, August Poehl-
mann, Morton Grove, Ill.; secretary, John Young,
Bedford Hills, N. Y.; treasurer, W. F. Kasting,
Buffalo, N. Y.
Annual convention, Chicago, Ill., August 20 to 23, 1912.

RESULTS.

We give them. You get them.
We both have them.

SHOULD a man who usually orders plants of the cheapest seller be surprised that he does not always get the best packing?

If A. B. C., Kirkwood, Mo., will send his full name a prompt reply to his inquiry will be returned. Anonymous inquiries never are answered.

Not a few subscribers save themselves
the bother of annual renewal by sending
The Review $2, $3, or sometimes $5, instead of the dollar-bill that insures fifty-two visits of the paper.

SAVE money by using a printed letterhead. Even small buyers will profit by using stationery that tells who and what they are, though there are thousands who haven't yet awakened to the fact.

IN the advertisement of Charles D.
Ball, page 68 of the issue for October 26, Dracena terminalis was priced with obvious inaccuracy at $1.25 per doz.; $1.50 per 100. Of course it should have been $1.25 and $1.50 each.

COMPLAINTS continue to reach The Review about the packing done by this, that or the other plant shipper. Some of the shippers do not seem to realize that their packing is bad and that it hurts their trade, playing into the hands of the ones who pack well.

THE general complaint of wholesale florists, and of those in the allied trades who sell to retail florists, is that collections are slow—slower than usual at this time of year. The reason is not apparent, except that retailers, the majority of whom have no established collection system, find their own funds coming in less promptly than usual.

WARNING!

Don't Pay Money to Strangers.

The Review has received several complaints that "a smooth-talking young fellow" has been falsely representing himself as working for The Review and soliciting new subscriptions or renewals in its name, frequently at a cut rate or with the promise of a premium, which in itself should be enough to arouse suspicion. If a receipt is given it never is on printed blanks, sometimes bears no name or address, but in one case was signed "H. Hunter," and in the latest instance was signed "A. H.
Kellogg."

Never pay money to strangers for The Review. Our representatives all are well known members of the trade in their respective localities.

THE COMING JOINT SHOW.

The supporters of the American Rose Society are responding finely to the request for a guarantee fund to enable the society to offer a first-class prize list for the coming exhibition at Detroit, January 10 to 12. Several amateurs have come forward, including Samuel Thorne, Millbrook, N. Y., and Mrs. E. M. Sharpe, of Wilkes-Barre.

Ex-president W. H. Elliott writes: "Put me down for $100," but we only asked for $25 each. August Poehlmann says:
"Put me down $25 and $50 if needed."
"A Friend" writes: "I think these shows, when popularly conducted, do much good. I am not flush just now, but if you are short at the last, call on me for $25." President Farenwald has called a meeting to prepare the prize list and it will be sent out without delay. Benj. Hammond, Sec'y.

TO DESTROY A STUMP.

In The Review of October 26 H. B. asks how to destroy a stump by peaceful means. We were bothered by a large locust stump under somewhat similar conditions. We bored three 1-inch holes deep into the heart of the stump, filled them with coal oil and plugged them up. We had no more trouble with the stump. Try it. Dille Floral Co.

In answer to H. B. on getting rid of a stump close to his greenhouses, I have pulled a good many with two screw jacks, a railroad tie and a log chain.
Get the chain around one of the large roots and over the tie. Fasten it. Put a jack under one end of the tie and get busy. I have found two jacks needed only in particularly stubborn cases. Put a block or thick board under each jack. W. H. Ruttle.

CHICAGO.

The Great Central Market.

Business increased steadily all through last week and October 29 was undoubtedly the busiest Sunday this market has had since the last time holiday shipments had to go out on a Sabbath. The demand from the south was heavier than for several years. It appeared that the southern crops of chrysanthemums had turned out poorly and at the last moment recourse was had to this market. The shipping began October 26 and continued to October 30, but the heaviest orders went out Sunday and many of the wholesale houses were compelled to work all day, trips to the greenhouses being necessary in many instances, where telephone calls were unavailing, to bring in the stock. The last two or three years the All Saints' day demand has been disappointing, so that no great rush had been anticipated this year, and no preparations made. There were some advance orders, but most of them came late. It was so difficult to get the stock needed at prices that were acceptable that quite a few orders were declined, though probably none of those from buyers of approved credit or who sent cash. Most of the calls were for chrysanthemums, but roses also were in request.

With the passing of the All Saints' day demand, the market has eased, but business continues good and there is no oversupply of stock of any kind unless it be the undesirable quality of chrysanthemums. Poor mums are seen on every hand, although the supply of strictly first-class stock is limited.
White has been scarce for several days.
The arrival of Bonaffon in quantity marks the mid-season for mums. These have come earlier this year than usual.

Short roses, particularly white, are

We Can Supply You with the Finest BEAUTIES

Specially Strong on LONG and MEDIUM

These Beauties are pretty nearly perfect—hard to say how they could be better—the color is unusually high, the flowers are large, the substance is there and stem and foliage are all anyone could ask.

FANCY CATTLEYS

These Cattleyas are all right, and you will ask for more of them if you order some today. None finer. Can supply by the hundred.

VIOLETS

We handle the cream of the doubles—the “specials” now offered here are quite in a class by themselves. Also can supply fancy, fragrant singles.

KILLARNEYS

Pink and White—Splendid stock.

Buyers who know the market recognize that, length for length, our Killarneys carry the finest heads of any roses to be had. That's why we never have too many, though we always have enough to take care of all shipping orders.

CHRYSANTHEMUMS

The Mum season is in full swing—the best varieties are here in quantity. Scarcely any limit to our supply. All sizes, all colors. Send along your orders.

CARNATIONS

Try these—you will like them.

Year after year we handle the largest lot of strictly high grade Carnations that is to be found on this market. The condition of the stock now arriving in quantity shows we shall be better supplied this season than ever.

Order VALLEY of Us

If you have had any difficulty getting your Valley orders filled, it was because you didn't order of us. Always plenty of Fancy Valley here.

HEADQUARTERS FOR EASTER LILIES

We always have Easter Lilies, every day in the year, and the finest there are—home grown—they go out in perfect condition.

hard to find. There is no oversupply of any grade, but, if buyers are willing to pay the price, they have no difficulty in getting long-stemmed roses, and the quality really is exceptional. Killarney is the leader, but Ward, Melody and Bulgarie have so improved in quality that they are bringing the best money. Beauties are holding at excellent prices, considering that it is the height of the chrysanthemum season. Short Beauties are extremely scarce.

Carnations are not in large supply, but there is a limit to the price buyers will pay. Orchids locally grown are abundant and many shipments are arriving that would find sale in the east if those markets were not oversupplied. Valley usually is plentiful. Violets are in moderately good supply and some of them are of exceptionally good quality for this date. They have been selling quite well for a fortnight.

All green goods are plentiful but selling quite well, except smilax, which is dragging.

October Business.

It is the general report that October made a good record. The first half of the month was rather dull, but then business picked up remarkably and improved steadily for a fortnight. On the whole, the month shows a good increase in sales, probably fully as great an increase as the increase in glass has been since last October.

Various Notes.

The plant of the Chicago Rose Co., Libertyville, Ill., three houses, each 500 feet long, about 50,000 feet of glass, with fifteen acres of ground, has been sold to Schumann & Kohout for $13,000. The new firm consists of J. G. Schumann, for ten years rose grower for Bassett & Washburn, and Joseph Kohout, who has been carnation grower for that firm for thirteen years. They have taken possession and removed to Libertyville. The range is planted with roses and carnations.

Mrs. George Hartung, wife of the Kensington florist, was removed to the Pullman hospital last week and operated on for double rupture and abscess on the intestines. Mrs. Hartung has suffered a great deal during the last several months and has continually been under the doctor's care.

Klimmer's Greenhouses is the name of a corporation organized at Forest Park to carry on the business of the late J. F. Klimmer. Incorporation papers were filed at Springfield October 26. The capital stock is $5,000. The incorporators are Augusta, Frank and Minnie Klimmer and Lillie Zander.

Ludwig Schmitt, Niles Center, is sending his first lot of carnations to Zech & Mann. Hugo Schmitt worked for Matt Mann before starting in business as a lettuce grower. His health broke down and he made a trip to Germany, bringing back his brother, Ludwig, and family. Only a few days after reaching Niles Center Hugo died suddenly. Ludwig took the greenhouses, planted carnations, and now is getting a first-class cut.

Wellworth Farms is cutting an especially fine crop of Killarney.

J. A. Budlong required two shipments from greenhouses to store October 29, instead of the one trip usually made by the wagon on Sundays.

A. Lange says that his staff of assistants Saturday, October 28, numbered twenty-six. The regular force is nineteen. People have thought Mr. Lange's newspaper advertisements the work of a professional advertising man, but they are not; he writes them himself each Thursday evening after the store is closed.

A. T. Pyfer says that Peter Olsem's record of the blooms cut by the Chicago Carnation Co., Joliet, shows for October three blooms per plant for White Wonder to one and one-half blooms of White Perfection. The two varieties occupy the same house.

Poehlmann Bros. Co. installed four new 150 horse-power Freeman boilers this season and under each one put the automatic stoker made by the Swift Fuel Co. The apparatus had been given a test under one boiler and August Poehlmann liked it so well that the new battery was equipped.

Bassett & Washburn are growing pompon chrysanthemums heavily this season, for the first time.

Clifford Pruner, who has been manager of the supply department at E. H. Hunt's, has concluded that indoor life does not agree with him, so he went back to the road October 30. Paul Bryant will add supervision of the supply department to his other duties.

S. R. Lundy, who is the Pacific coast representative of the A. L. Randall Co., is in town to spend the next couple of months in the house.

E. F. Winterson Co. states that the last of W. N. Rudd's Ivory mums were cut October 31, an earlier date than usual. They did well this year.

Frank Williams has been doctoring ever since his return from Greece.

E. E. Pieser says that if business always was as good as in the last half of October there never could be any complaint.

H. Van Gelder shows an analysis of the water from the Texas property he is interested in that shows 1.46 pounds of salt to the gallon.

C. W. McKellar says white orchids, Dendrobium formosum, are in good demand and excellent supply.

A. Henderson & Co., being pretty well cleaned up on bulbs, are turning attention to Christmas greens.

At Peter Reinberg's, Melody and Ward are making friends. They will be given more space next season.

The George Wittbold Co. made eighty-one table centerpieces for the Sherman House for the Taft banquet October 28.

The Horticultural Society of Chicago has set the date of its first spring show as March 12 to 17 and issued the preliminary premium list, carrying $2,434 in cash prizes. There is $573 for cut roses, $145 for carnations, and $647 for miscellaneous flowering plants, besides $303 for flowering bulbs. Copies of the list are to be had by addressing J. H. One-hundred-and-fourth place. The show will be held in the Art Institute.

John Michelsen, of the E. C. Amling Co., says the average quality of the flowers in this market never was so good as now.

N. J. Wietor says that Wietor Bros. have not had the general experience with mums—their crops were not early; the earlies were late, but the midseason sorts are ready almost exactly at the usual date.

One of the week's visitors is A. Marks, the latest addition to the traveling staff of Wertheimer Bros., which now numbers ten men. Mr. Marks formerly was superintendent of one of the largest ribbon mills in the United States.

The Batavia Greenhouse Co. has built a private sewer for several blocks to connect its plant at Batavia with the public system. Now they have what the real estate agents describe as “all modern improvements.”

The Buckingham place greenhouses of the George Wittbold Co. have been equipped with an automatic system of heat control by the Powers Regulator Co. When the temperature in any house reaches the point at which the apparatus is set the valve on the flow is closed, only to reopen when the sun heat goes down below the degree desired. Louis Wittbold is much pleased with the system, believing it not only a fuel saver but a great help to the growers.

November 2 is “Novelty night” with the Florists' Club.

The Chicago Flower Growers' Association worked till 8 p. m. Sunday on All Saints' day shipments. Fifty-eight big “coffin” boxes of mums were sent to New Orleans on one train.

Theresa, the flower-peddler, died in a hospital October 30.

Albert Smedberg, formerly a grower at the Edgebrook greenhouses of the Geo. Wittbold Co., is reported as en route to Australia, where he expects to locate permanently.

Kroeschell Bros. Co. says that September business this year was away ahead of the same month for any previous year. Fred Lautenschlager says that most of the orders now coming in are of the telegraph variety and require quick shipment.

Evidently Phil Foley finds out-of-town business profitable. He was on the road again last Monday.

A Spokane florist reports the receipt of a large shipment of goldfish from the Auburndale Goldfish Co. and says “they came through in perfect shape—not one dead.”

Otto Wittbold said that business picked up nicely last week at Edgebrook and he looks for a steady increase till the holidays. He expects a large shipment of azaleas this week.

WHOLESALE GROWER OF CUT FLOWERS

PITTSBURGH, PA.

The Market.

This week has been trying for the wholesalers, as stock of all kinds had been piling in all the week in awful quantities. Chrysanthemums and lilies are the worst, and while the mums could be moved at some price, the same could not be said of lilies. Roses and other flowers came in equally large quantities, but could be moved. Dahlias, cosmos and a few gladioli are still coming, but the end is now in sight, as killing frost came Saturday night, another Sunday night, and then rain. This will settle the farmer with his outdoor stock and give the man who makes it a business a chance to get something for his flowers.

Receiver for Blind & Bros.

A receiver was appointed, October 30, for the business of Henry L. Blind and Edward H. Blind, doing business as H. L. Blind & Bros., Ernest C. Daum being named. Bond of $100,000 was furnished. The firm conducts a florist business at Liberty avenue and Fifth street, and on Center avenue, near Aiken avenue. The members of the firm joined in the application made by Conrad Blind. The latter recited that he was the holder of one mortgage on which the sum of $20,000 is still unpaid with interest, also that he is the joint owner with Ernest C. Daum in a mortgage for $40,000, both being against property of the firm. The petitioner states that judgments have been entered against the concern by certain creditors, and that it is necessary to protect the business and the claims of all the creditors. The liabilities are placed at $143,000, and the assets include over eight acres in Ross township on which are erected buildings, greenhouses, etc., also 75x200 feet of ground in Center avenue, near Aiken avenue, on which are erected certain buildings, and besides other assets, $5,000 in book accounts.

Various Notes.

The retail stores are making fine shows with the chrysanthemums. Mrs. E. A. Williams' window of yellow mums and yellow crotons with wide yellow ribbons was a picture and was not only a display of the finest mums, but was also an example of artistic

CINCINNATI.

The Gateway to the South.

Prices are stiffening, due to a gratifying tightening of the market, and they will be at their proper level as soon as we have more cold weather. Outdoor blooms are now a thing of the past. Yellow pompon chrysanthemums have made their appearance. Only the first, however, cleaned up quickly. Since then the quick accumulation shows that up to this time they are not as popular as they have been for the last few years.

The rose market presents two decided contrasts. Pink, including Taft, Maid and Killarney, and Beauties clean up each day, while the white ones, including Bride, Ivory, White Killarney and Kaiserin, are glutted in spite of sales at bargain prices. The larger early and midseason chrysanthemums are and have been, even during the Estelle glut, meeting with a good demand and are all bringing a fair average price. The white ones have taken considerable call away from lilies and have caused the latter to accumulate.

The carnation supply is shortening and in the last few days has scarcely equaled the demand. In smaller flowers, violets, both New York doubles and Princess of Wales, are in demand. Owing to an undoubted falling off in the number of fall weddings toward the close of the month, valley and orchids have not been selling as quickly as they did.

The green goods market is amply supplied. It now includes in its offerings new boxwood.

PHILADELPHIA

The Rising Eastern Market.

Every retail florist agrees that the market is simply glorious. All the flowers that anybody could possibly want can be obtained at the most wonderful prices—prices that are reasonable past all belief. Most of the business is being done with chrysanthemums, yet the supply of chrysanthemums is so much greater than the demand that not on even one day during the week closing November 1 has there been a danger of shortage. Yellow is the favorite. Robert Halliday has been reinforced by Maj. Bonnaffon and Col. Appleton, the vanguard, so to speak, of these sterling midseason varieties. There is also a variety, named, I think, Mrs. Kelly, which makes some stir. Pink is greatly overdone, chiefly due to Pacific Supreme and to the fact that this excellent variety lost color during the muggy weather. Maud Dean and Pink Ivory have come; most important of all, Ivory, still the greatest white chrysanthemum for everyday use, is here in force. Pompons are plentiful in every shade of color.

There is not a great deal to be said about the rest of the market that differs from the report of a week ago. The principal changes lie in the improvement of the double violet, making this sterling flower fully equal to market requirements, and in the blow administered to the dahlia by Jack Frost; hardly a knock-out blow, but sufficiently staggering to take the dahlia out of the race, except a few stragglers. The warm weather of October 31 and November 1, however, brought dahlias freely from sheltered sections of New Jersey.

Shipping is excellent and there is considerable business, but prices rule low, with accumulations of the poorer grades.

The Flower Show.

Philadelphia will have a fine flower show next week. The arrangements that have been perfected by the committee of the Florists' Club, and appointed to work with the committee of the Pennsylvania Horticultural Society, include some promising improvements. Horticultural hall will be decorated, there will be music and many novel exhibits, the show will be well advertised and every florist is invited to help make it a success. Chrysanthemum plants in bloom, to which will be attached a handsome display card announcing the show, will be distributed to the flower stores with the request that they be displayed in the show window and that the proprietor of the store take a book of twenty-five or fifty tickets to sell to his customers.

Further plans of the exhibition include the engagement of William Graham, admittedly one of the finest decorators in the city, to take charge of the decoration. The foyer will be in white and gold, as a setting for the novel decorations that it is hoped the retail florists will make there. The balcony will contain seats for a large number of persons, where the beautiful sights and the music can be enjoyed, a new feature sure to prove popular. The vegetables will be reserved until Thursday, in order that they may not detract from the floral exhibits during the early part of the show. The committee has raised a guarantee fund sufficient to give all the money required.

In this connection J. Otto Thilow, secretary of the joint committee, asks publication of the following:

"We invite any florist who has novelties or specialties he wishes made public by display to send them with cards to David Rust, secretary, Pennsylvania Horticultural Society, Horticultural hall, Broad street, Philadelphia. We will find prominent space and do all we can to show them."

It is earnestly hoped that each and

BONNAFFON

ALTHOUGH this variety has been on the market several years, it is still a splendid all-round commercial variety. The growers like it, the commission men like it, the retailers like it and the public buy it. Why? Because it is one of the very best handlers, a good keeper, of beautiful form and color, fine foliage and good stem. Several of our growers have planted very heavily indeed, thus enabling us to fill orders of any size.

There will be two grades—one of very choice blooms, single stems, at $12.50 to $15.00 per 100, with a few shorter stems at $10.00 per 100.

Then a grade of magnificent flowers, really exhibition blooms, each one a specimen, at $20.00 to $25.00 per 100.

Besides these, we will have other sorts in variety, quantity and quality to suit anyone, at $8.00, $10.00, $12.00, $15.00 and $20.00 per 100.

Dahlias at Pemberton, N. J.

A. & G. Rosbach, of Pemberton, N. J., make a specialty of dahlias. Their flowers, as seen at William J. Baker's, show that their aim is to secure quality. The assortment of varieties included many choice sorts, made especially attractive by their being well grown. Some of the kinds were: Queen Emma, peony-flowered, lavender pink, very large; Mme. Van den Daele, decorative, white shaded to blush pink on outer petals; Jack Rose, decorative, crimson; Delice, decorative, deep pink; Effective, cactus, yellow, very fine; Sensation, single, scarlet with white edgings; Pope Pius X, cactus, white; Amos Perry, cactus, very fine scarlet; Philadelphia, peony-flowered, lavender purple.

The Market.

Quite a change has come over the market since last report. Almost continuously clear skies have resulted in a veritable avalanche of flowers, far more than can be sold at profitable rates, and prices have taken a tumble all around. Roses are in abundant supply and the quality leaves nothing to be desired. Prices have dropped, but there has been a good demand for the better grades. Mrs. Aaron Ward and Lady Hillingdon are still much in favor. White and Pink Killarney continue the leaders in these colors. American Beauties now are extra good. Carnations are arriving in increasing numbers and some low prices have lately been recorded, as low as 25 cents per hundred in some cases. Extra fine stock has made $1.50 to $2 per hundred.

Chrysanthemums are now the predominant flower and are not making satisfactory prices. While some select make $1.50 to $2 per dozen, others sell as low as $3 per hundred. Compared with prices realized for early blooms, these must be unprofitable. Ivory is seen in quantity and quite a few Bonaffon are in. Violets average lower; 300 for a dollar has been the rate for many, some extras making 50 to 60 cents per hundred. Sweet peas remain about the same. There is a good supply of valley. Lilies are not in demand. A few Paper White narcissi have appeared, to start the bulb season. Outdoor flowers were quite cleaned out by a severe frost October 28.

Cattleyas continue overabundant and oncidiums are plentiful, as are cypripediums. Bouvardia is seen of good quality and is in demand. Yellow marguerites sell well. Gardenias are seen in small quantities. Prices on asparagus show no change, but adiantum has sold a little better. There is a little more activity in pot plant trade. Chrysanthemums, Lorraine begonias, ericas, cyclamens and berried subjects are chiefly in evidence, also quantities of crotons.

Flower Market Dinner.

The annual meeting and dinner of the Boston Flower Exchange, Inc., took place at Young's Hotel October 28. Over 100 members and invited guests were present. The menu served was excellent and all did full justice to it. Wm. C. Stickel, president of the corporation, made an efficient and witty toastmaster for the business session.

Bodies to Suit the Various Lines of Trade

Consider the Motor-Wagon as a producer of new business.

Consider it from the standpoint of quicker, more efficient delivery service to your customers.

Recall the number of times you could have had an order and doubtless a permanent customer—if you could have started the goods on the way immediately.

Consider the fact that the Motor-Wagon can cover more ground than the best horse or two you can buy, and still be available for quick dashes here and there when occasion demands.

"The automobile enables a store to reach that much farther for the orders that it is willing to go after and deliver," says the Inland Storekeeper.

"It makes speed possible in the filling of orders. It does more work than a horse, or probably two horses can do, and it does it all in so much quicker time that the increased rapidity is of itself a valuable trade producer."

The Motor-Wagon is just such a car as you have been waiting for—cheap in its first cost, cheap to run and keep, and built to withstand the severest sort of delivery service.

It is really a wagon that can be loaded and driven and cared for with very little trouble.

Surely the possibilities of the Motor-Wagon that we have briefly outlined are sufficient to enlist your interest to the point of writing us for complete details.

and postprandial exercises. The following board of directors was elected: W. C. Stickel, Wm. Nicholson, Alex. Montgomery, Geo. Cartwright, L. W. Mann, A. Christensen, Thomas Pegler, S. J. Goddard and E. A. Peirce. The president, treasurer and clerk will be elected later by the directors.

The treasurer's report was of a satisfactory nature. It showed receipts for the year of $15,067.50, which, with $1,170.10 cash on hand, made total receipts $16,237.50. Of this amount, $11,150 was received from rentals. Disbursements, which included two dividends of ten per cent, double the amount paid in previous years, were $15,115.69, leaving $1,085.81 cash on hand.

Addresses were made during the evening by Wm. H. Elliott, Peter Fisher, M. A. Patten, J. T. Butterworth, J. S. Miller, W. J. Thurston, Thomas Pegler, Michael Shea, A. W. Kidder, John Walsh, W. R. Nicholson, A. S. Parker, Robert Cameron and W. N. Craig, the two latter speaking for the press. Several speakers voiced the sentiment that a big, up-to-date wholesale market, to take in the growers at both markets and many others, would before long be established in Boston. The meeting

Various Notes.

The following directors were elected at the annual meeting of the Boston Co-operative Flower Market: Donald Carmichael, treasurer; W. W. Tailby, clerk; D. Carmichael, Elijah Cartwright, N. F. Comley, W. H. Elliott, J. McFarland, Robert Montgomery, Edward Wood, James Wheeler and W. W. Tailby, directors. A dividend of ten per cent was declared for the year and a handsome surplus left in the treasury.

The annual meeting of the Massachusetts Horticultural Society will occur November 18. The list of nominations is as follows: President, C. W. Parker; vice-president, Walter Hunnewell; trustee for one year, R. M. Sattenstall; trustees for three years, four to be elected: Peter Fisher, C. S. Sargent, Thomas Roland, W. H. Bowker, H. F. Hall, N. M. Howard, F. L. Ames, Thomas Allen. The first four named are those whose term of office expires. Delegate to State Board of Agriculture,

The landscape gardening classes for members of the Gardeners' and Florists' Club will start at Horticultural hall Tuesday evening, November 7. R. W. Aldrich and an assistant will conduct the classes.

George Solomon, who has been conducting a flower store on Beacon street, went into insolvency October 27. Liabilities $12,000. Assets small. Some of the growers are quite hard hit.

William Patterson, of Wollaston, was first in the market with Paper White narcissi. Mann Bros. are also getting some now. They also have a big cut of Ivory chrysanthemums.

Arnold & Peters, on Boylston street, are experiencing good fall trade. They always keep an attractive window.

Kidder Bros., of Lincoln, are well-known violet specialists. They now pick an average of 5,000 daily. They report rather more spot than usual on the plants, due to the warm, moist fall. Princess of Wales is the only variety grown.

The sympathy of a wide circle of friends goes out to Mr. and Mrs. E. Allan Peirce, of Waltham, in the death of a 3-year-old daughter October 27.

J. T. Butterworth has just received a lot of valuable new orchids from England. His collection is steadily growing in size and value.

Littlefield & Wyman are noted carnation growers at North Abington. They find Gloriosa, White Wonder, Pink Delight, White Enchantress and White Perfection specially good.

The great fruit show at Horticultural hall closed October 28 in a blaze of glory. Attendance was remarkable.

The Rosary Flower Store, on Boylston street, reports increased business since moving there from Clarendon street. Mr. Casey, the proprietor, keeps an up-to-date place.

The Montrose Greenhouses have some of the finest White Killarney roses seen in the market this season.

ROCHESTER, N. Y.

The Market.

Business was quite fair last week, as the cool, crisp weather quickened the demand and flowers are moving at a better pace. Funerals and a few weddings serve to make things fairly brisk. Mums are supreme in the market and are arriving in large quantities and in splendid shape. Killarney and Maryland roses are much improved and in good demand. Kaiserins are also excellent, but Taft roses have deteriorated.

Considering the lateness of the season, there is a great supply of gladioli in all colors, but there is little sale for them on account of the large number of mums and carnations that are flooding the market. There are still a few good dahlias to be had. Star bouvardias are especially good and are largely used with roses, carnations and violets.

Fancy baskets of cut flowers are in great demand at the retail stores and potted chrysanthemums are selling well.

Smilax, asparagus and ferns are plentiful. The flower trade for Hallowe'en was not especially good, but a number of fine window displays were made in advance of that event.

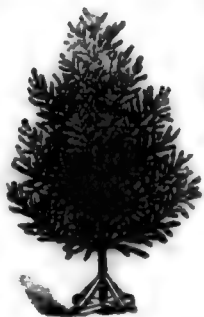

Various Notes.

The Lamberton memorial conservatory at Highland park was opened to the public with elaborate exercises Monday afternoon, October 30. The greenhouse is filled with rare plants and show chrysanthemums, which will be on exhibition for some time to come. Arrangements have been made for a continuous display of flowers during the entire year.

An attractive table decoration is being shown in E. C. Campbell's window. It is laid in banquet style, with a miniature lake, pond lilies and aquatic plants in the center and place cards, corsages and boutonnieres in proper order.

The Market.

The wholesale market and the retail trade had good business last week. There were several weddings, receptions and dinners, which used up quite a lot of fancy chrysanthemums and roses; this, with a great deal of funeral work, gave the local florists one of the best business weeks since the season opened. This week, also, should be of some importance, as society will turn out largely for the horse show.

Excellent quality in cut chrysanthemums in all the early varieties was seen in the market and the demand was large at good prices. Carnations are in great demand, but not enough of them are coming in to supply the wants of the local retailers. White had an especially big call; in fact, any that looked good cleaned up daily all through the week. There is quite a nice lot of California violets coming in and they sell at sight.

Roses seem to sell better than is usual at this time of the year, when mums have the call. Beauties are somewhat scarce in all grades, but Richmond, Maryland and Killarney are plentiful. The latter is of extra fine quality. Valley, lilies and orchids are the other flowers that make up the daily supply. Smilax, ferns and asparagus had a big demand all the week.

Various Notes.

George Weighman, a well known character around the wholesale district and always ready for any kind of work for the trade, received word that quite a sum of money was left to him, recently, by a relative who died in Europe.

The premium list for the coming flower show of the St. Louis Horticultural Society was distributed last week. Entries are coming in daily and the competition promises to be large and the show the best one yet given by the society.

August Schuerman, of the Schuerman Decorating Co., says they had a great many downtown window decorations as a result of the horse show this week.

Miss Newman had some fine window decorations last week of fancy cut mums and other flowers.

George Madsen, of the Alton Floral Co., Alton, Ill., says his firm is consigning a large cut of fancy mums to the W. E. Smith Wholesale Floral Co.

Henry Emunds, proprietor of the West End Floral Park, Belleville, Ill., is cutting a fine lot of all the early varieties of chrysanthemums.

The new store and show house of C. Young & Sons Co., on Waterman avenue, is completed and the fixtures are being installed. William C. Young says there will be a formal opening, to which the trade will be invited.

The Ladies' Home Circle held an important meeting Tuesday afternoon, October 31, at which arrangements were completed for entertaining all the visiting ladies who come to attend the flower show next week.

Frank A. Weber, of the H. J. Weber & Sons Nursery Co., says that they were never before so busy as this fall with shipping orders for all kinds of nursery stock. Sanders Nurseries, J. W. Schuette and Emil Rothenheber are also kept busy filling orders for both local and shipping trade.

All the Kirkwood florists say that everything looks favorable for a good crop of carnations, sweet peas and violets this season.

The St. Louis Florists' Club will hold a regular meeting Thursday afternoon, November 9, followed by a banquet. All visiting florists are invited to attend both the meeting and banquet and members are requested to make reservations early. From the number who have already accepted, it bids fair to be the largest meeting the club has ever held.

August Eggert, a florist near East St. Louis, was recently threatened by black hand letters demanding $5,000. The police have arrested the son of Mr. Eggert's housekeeper and say that the boy has confessed. Mr. Eggert felt so relieved that he tendered the police department a check for $100.

THAT OLD TURTLE.

I wish to correct a statement made in The Review of October 12, regarding the extremely old turtle I found on my farm a few weeks ago. This turtle was one of the species known as the "box turtle," or, as they are sometimes called, "land turtles," because they never go into the water, as the item referred to would indicate. On the back of the shell were carved the initials "P. M." (Paul Maxson), an old resident of that neighborhood. On the bottom were the initials of my grandfather, "A. S. (Adam Stillman), 1808;" also those of my father, "J. F. S. (Joseph F. Stillman), 1855." It has been a custom to mark these turtles when found, as it is well known that they live to a great age. It is possible that this old resident may have been 50 years old when first marked.

SAN FRANCISCO.

The Market.

There are threatenings of rain, and this would probably be the best thing that could happen to us at present, to start a general enlivening of business and curtail the excess of outside stock. Everything, with the possible exception of fancy stock, is at a low ebb as far as prices are concerned, and, after the beautiful, warm weather we are having, it will take quite a bit of the other sort of weather to put supply and demand right. Mums are the prevailing flower, and while they are not quite as plentiful as they have been in former years, there is a full supply, both of the inside and outside stock. Roses of the shorter stemmed quality are numerous and, though the price is stiffening, too many are brought into town for the stores to handle. Of fancy Maids and Beauties, only a limited cutting is shown. Violets are in good supply and fair quality, and while not keeping as well as they will later, they move nicely.

Dahlias and other hardy flowers are commencing to wane and will be things of the past in a short while. Orchids are in better supply daily. Smilax is in good shape and quite a bit is being used in wedding decorations, which have been well distributed among the stores for the last two weeks. Otherwise trade is quiet enough to suit anyone, and we are all hoping for a revival when the rain sets in. G.

SAN FRANCISCO FLOWER SHOW.

The fall exhibition, given under the auspices of the Pacific Coast Horticultural Society, October 19 to 21, was one of the most successful shows ever seen here, both from a financial and artistic standpoint. Too much praise can not be given to those who had the details in charge. Under the general management of A. J. Rossi, everything was handled with much dispatch and the comment of each visitor was that nothing better was ever carried out in any of the many San Francisco flower shows. The committee again wisely selected the Fairmount hotel for the exhibition, and the throngs of flower lovers who lingered in the Norman hall from the first morning until the closing night indicated that the popularity of flower shows is greater than ever and that larger quarters will be in order before long.

Although one usually expects to see chrysanthemums overshadowing everything else at this season, there was such a big assortment of other beautiful garden and greenhouse products that over half the floor space had to be given to these. It would, however, be impossible to imagine finer mums than were displayed. The only fault that could be found was the limited assortment of varieties, which shows plainly that this flower is no longer cultivated in its many varieties and colors as a garden or greenhouse flower. Only such sorts as are especially suitable for florists' work are grown now, and these do not number over ten varieties at any one time. So in chrysanthemum exhibits there has been a degree of sameness for the last few seasons. The Redwood City Nursery Co., Domoto Bros. and Shibuya & Ishida were the principal growers and exhibitors of these and all received several first prizes for splendid specimen bunches. S. E. Slade received first for several giant specimen flowering mums in tubs.

Of carnations the showing was not as complete, and the fact that they are not quite in their prime has to be noted. N. Yamaguchi, E. W. McLellan & Co., Kenneth Murray, Peterson Bros. and Redwood City Nursery carried off the honors on these.

In roses, H. M. Sanborn Co., E. W. McLellan & Co. and Domoto Bros. had creditable displays and captured a couple of dozen first and second prizes between them.

Considerable attention was given to table decorations and A. Stein received first premium for his cockscomb idea, which, with the assistance of the hotel's cold plate, was much admired. H. M. Sanborn Co. received second for a table with pink decorations throughout.

On baskets of flowering plants, Pelicano, Rossi & Co., Art Floral Co. and Emporium Floral Co. showed stunning effects that were much commented on, and all received prizes.

In original designs, A. Stein showed an elaborate lamp and was awarded first prize. H. M. Sanborn Co. exhibited a spinning wheel and received second prize.

In arranged baskets, the Francis Floral Co., H. M. Sanborn Co. and A. Stein made beautiful showings and were each awarded prizes.

quets, A. Stein and H. M. Sanborn Co. captured the first and second.

On tuberous begonias, James Niven, gardener to H. E. Bothin, was awarded the silver cup for a beautiful display of several hundred varieties. William Monroe received second on begonias and dahlias, and first on pompon chrysanthemums. William Kettlewell obtained first on the largest and best variety of dahlias. R. Lohrmann received first on a seedling dahlia and he also showed some good specimens of Transvaal daisies. E. De Sabla and Mrs. D. J. Murphy also received seconds on dahlias.

Pelicano, Rossi & Co. had a magnificent showing of half a dozen large bunches of Minnie Burtle, Mrs. Kettlewell, Kaiser Wilhelm, Van den Daele and several other varieties of dahlias, which were awarded a first.

H. Plath received many prizes for a general collection of ferns and for specimen plants of nephrolepis, pandanus, adiantums and tree ferns. The Alameda Floral Co. received several awards on specimen ferns and also on a general collection. E. James made a beautiful showing of ferns, heath in flower, acalypha and Celosia Pride of Castle Gould.

In foliage and stove plants the Golden Gate Park and Gustave Gagne made excellent showings. E. De Sabla received first on these and also on primulas, ferns, dracenas, asparagus, orchids and crotons. S. E. Slade received first on outside roses, on potted chrysanthemums and adiantums. Miss Crocker showed several lots of ferns and cyclamens, all of which were prize winners.

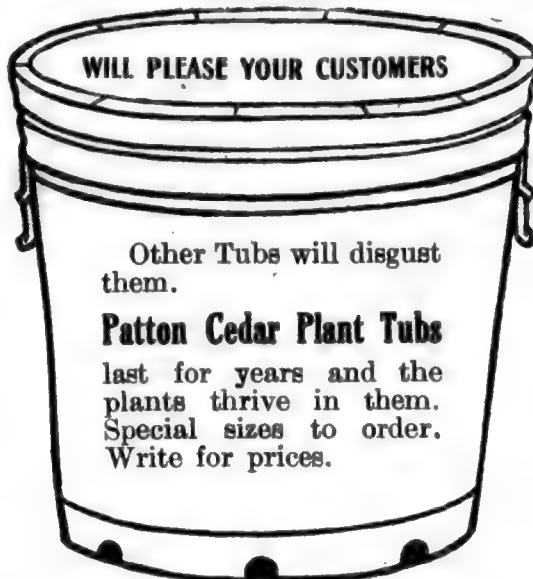

The largest and finest single exhibition in the show was that of the MacRorie-McLaren Co., who showed several hundreds of orchids, ferns, cyclamens and gardenias, all artistically arranged and each a perfect specimen of its class. This firm carried off all first-class prizes on the stock exhibited.

RADISHES RUN TO TOPS.

Please tell me how to grow radishes for market this winter, in coldframes or in the greenhouse. Which is the best variety? I have tried to grow them, both in the greenhouse and in coldframes, but they all go to tops.

A. R. S.

You undoubtedly had a poor variety of radish. You should use selected stock, such as Early Scarlet Globe Short Top Forcing. Nearly all seedsmen have or can furnish this select stock for you, but I would advise ordering it of a firm you know to be reliable. There seem to be many strains of Scarlet Globe. I had some of the same experiences as you have had with poor strains until I began to use the select forcing.

Plant them in rows about four to five inches apart, and let there be about ten or twelve radishes to each foot of row after they are thinned out. I usually plant the seeds about a half inch apart and thin out the weaker ones when they are just nicely up. Keep them cool.

Seven Pages of Retailers' Cards

This department for the cards of Leading Retail Florists—those florists who have the facilities for filling the orders sent them by other florists—has made possible the recent rapid development of this branch of the business, a branch of the trade now established for all time and so helpful that its volume will keep on increasing for many years.

Are you sending and receiving your share of these orders? You can send your share (and make 20 per cent profit without effort) if you let your customers know you can perform this service for them. To receive your share—well, The Review's department for Retailers' cards remains the one way of getting prompt action on the order in hand.

To be represented costs only 70 cents per week on a yearly order. This is for one-inch space. Other spaces in proportion.

Why not send your order today—now—before you forget it?

The Market.

The week opens with sunshine and a temperature many degrees above freezing. If this continues, the combined shipments of roses, carnations and chrysanthemums this week will break all records. Comparing last week's record of prices with those of a year ago, we find them lower by twenty per cent. In fact, at times mid-summer rates alone enabled the wholesale merchants to empty their boxes, and thousands of flowers, unsalable through accumulation, were sent to the dump. The retail demand is far below normal and apart from funeral orders and a few dinners and weddings there has been no public buying worthy of the name. Perhaps the presence of the President may stir things up a bit. The funeral of Joseph Pulitzer will doubtless call for many expensive emblems of family and public sympathy.

Every department of the business seems to be prosperous, with the one exception of the cut flower trade, and it seems to be only in the city that the depression is pronounced. All florists whose places of business are near the cemeteries are busy and prosperous. No complaints come from the smaller cities near New York, but the big city itself is in the doldrums.

The dahlias are gone. Slight frosts ended, last week, their longest season. The lesson to the grower is, "Plant only high class varieties; there is no demand for the common grades." The mum flow is now at high tide and the stock is grand. American Beauties are improving in bud and stem, but the best of them do not often go above 25 cents.

All other roses, except the novelties, dragged discouragingly all last week and in large lots sold at the price the buyer offered. Carnations were over-abundant and in thousand lots declined to $5. There seems to be no scarcity of orchids and prices have been only steady. Fortunately the shipping and out-of-town demand grows yearly. A large increase in this class of trade is anticipated this winter. The oncidiums were never so abundant and perfect as this season. Gardenias are improving constantly and the long-stemmed stock goes at $4 per dozen. Good lilies were offered at $3 per hundred and valley fell to $2. Violets must be perfect to command any reasonable figure; 35 cents per hundred was the general quotation on the good stock, but the street absorbed the left-overs at $1.50 to $2 per thousand. Shipments are increasing daily.

serious accident, is reported so much improved that his chances of recovery are considered good.

BUFFALO.

The Market.

The first serious frost occurred last week and vegetation is now at an end. The mums have taken the field and the stores never looked finer than they do at the present time. Large and small mums are plentiful and the pompon seems to be in strong favor. This variety has increased wonderfully in the last year and is now replacing carnations and roses in the daily sales. It is also used largely for decorations. Roses and carnations are plentiful and fine in quality, but sales are short. Plants are in big demand, the leaders being mum plants and begonias.

Various Notes.

The flower business still seems to be an attraction to the other business men, as another store opened last week. This one, though not large, is attractive and in a good center, being located on Grant street, near Ferry.

Mr. Frank, the Grant street florist, has added a conservatory to the store, to accommodate the stock it is now necessary for him to carry.

The regular meeting of the Florists' Club will be held Tuesday, November 7, and a lively time is anticipated. Lunch will be served after the debate, Seed Trade News.

AMERICAN SEED TRADE ASSOCIATION.

Pres., Leonard H. Vaughan, Chicago; First VicePres., M. H. Duryea, New York City; Sec'y and Treas., C. E. Kendel, Cleveland, O.

SOME of the best liked bedding tulips are pretty well cleaned up. Buyers are looking for Keizerskroon.

SOME of the catalogues will be reduced this season, in size, in cost and in distribution. With such general seed shortage, it is a year for sailing close to the wind.

THE market on bouquet green is weakening, partly because of open weather and partly because of the reluctance of buyers to take hold at the prices heretofore asked.

THE tendency appears to be for European seedsmen, nurserymen and bulb growers to arrange for permanent American representation rather than to rely for business on the old expedient of an annual trip.

E. A. KUNZ has purchased an interest in the former Rothenbush fruit and seed store, on High street, Hamilton, O., and the business will hereafter be conducted under the name of the Rothenbush Fruit & Seed Co.

AT Portland, Me., Allen, Sterling & Lothrop have opened a new seed store at 49 Exchange street and 64 Market street. S. Coleman Allen formerly was with Kendall & Whitney, Portland. The new firm plans to do a general seed trade.

THE arrival of November means that the catalogue writers must begin to burn the midnight oil. Though some of the houses do not care to mail their books before the middle of January, the majority think it important to begin a month earlier, at least for the southern lists.

W. H. GREENELL, Saginaw, Mich., in a letter dated October 24, denies that he is going out of the seed growing business even temporarily. "It is true I am selling part of my seed stock and it necessarily follows I cannot do the volume of business I did before, but I am still growing peas." It is said that when Mr. Grenell indicated to his customers that he would dispose of some of his stock seed, they promptly cleaned him up on the scarce items.

logue. The same is more or less true of the orders from men. When it comes to those who garden understandingly, of course the story is different.

THE catalogue houses are having some difficulty in deciding what to feature in the 1912 books. So many items are short that the ones to push are not easy to choose; the selections fall in too few classes.

WE have recently been advised by growers at Rocky Ford, Colo., that they had a severe snow storm in the Arkansas valley at Rocky Ford, Friday, October 20. The growers also stated fully one-third of the cucumber crops were still in the fields. This may cause a serious loss in case the crops cannot be seeded, or if those that have been seeded become frozen in the pits.

W. W. BARNARD Co., Chicago, is developing plans for what is intended to be the finest seed store in America. It is not news that in January possession will be had of the building on Madison street, now occupied by one of the Hearst newspapers, but it is interesting to note that every day appears to add value to the location, on the direct route, but not too near, to the new Northwestern passenger station and the proposed new Pennsylvania station. While the plans for remodeling the building are being made with care, no less attention is being paid to the interior arrangements and fixtures.

CHR. DÄHNFELDT.

The business of L. Dähnfeldt, the seed growing firm of Odense, Denmark, was established in a modest way by Ludwig Dähnfeldt in 1850. Like numerous American houses, he handled for many years everything connected in a general way with the nursery trade, such as plants, shrubs, seeds, etc., and it was only during the last twenty years that the nursery lines were abandoned and all efforts were concentrated in the seed trade, especially seed growing.

That the firm now stands in the front rank among Scandinavian seedsmen is due largely to the energetic and efficient management of its affairs by the present chief proprietor, Chr. Dähnfeldt, who for many years has been the controlling force in the business. Though included among the so-called self-made men, he is described as "a gentleman to his very finger tips."

As his establishment grew in size and importance, Mr. Dähnfeldt determined that each one of his staff of assistants should be an expert in some specialty, and with that end in view he divided

THE WORLD'S SEED CROPS.

In commenting on the summary of the world's seed crops, printed in the last issue of The Review, the editor of the Gardeners' Chronicle (London) said:

"The year 1911 will long be remembered as one of the most disastrous seed seasons on record, not so much from the quality of the seed, but from the extreme shortage of many crops.
This great deficiency is not confined to any particular country, but is universal; moreover, following, as it does, the poor seed harvest of the two previous wet and cold seasons, nearly all seeds are this year particularly scarce and dear. Hot, almost rainless summer weather prevailed all over Europe, particularly in Germany, France,

Holland and England. Germany and some parts of France seem to have suffered even worse than England. Denmark, on the contrary, has not suffered so keenly.

"The one redeeming fact is that what few seeds are or will be harvested are very good in quality. Sunshine is very necessary for maturing seeds of all kinds, and a good vintage year is sure to be a good seed year, but in the past summer there has been too little rain for the vines and for the seeds. The drought commenced in March, and the plants had but little time to get fairly established and well rooted before the struggle commenced. Still, some plants were able to live and produce very good seeds, although somewhat smaller than usual.

"The season has not only been a disastrous one for this season's seed-producing plants, but the outlook for next season is extremely bad so far as biennials and perennials are concerned, growers being unable either to get the seed to germinate owing to the drought, or to plant out what they managed to grow from seed, owing to the dry state of the land.

"The harvest of seeds has been particularly early, as crops have been hurried by the heat. In consequence, seedsmen are realizing the shortages of their crops some weeks sooner this year than is usual."

IMPORTS OF SEEDS.

The Bureau of Statistics of the U. S. Department of Agriculture tabulates the imports of seeds under the following heads:

	Import value 1910.
Castor beans	$81,050
Clover	1,472,588
Flaxseed	8,548,837
Sugar beet	668,312
Other seeds	3,172,983

Total seeds $14,693,776

The bureau's record of the importation of "other" seeds, which includes all kinds not included in the different headings above, for the last three years, with the countries from which imported, is as follows:

BODDINGTON'S "QUALITY" DECORATION-DAY TULIPS

or MAY-FLOWERING; DARWIN, Etc.

Live, up-to-date, progressive, we might say aggressive, florists are planting more and more every year the above useful and profit-bearing Tulips—because once planted they bloom from year to year with increasing value. With their immense flowers and long stems (sometimes nearly three feet) and variety of colors, they sell as quickly again as the early varieties and come at a season when they are always welcome.

LILIUM HARRISII

(THE BERMUDA EASTER LILY)

LET US SUPPLY YOUR WANTS IN LILIES THIS SEASON.

We think we can make it to your advantage to do so, as regards both quality and price.

The stock that we offer is not gathered indiscriminately from all kinds of sources, but is grown for us by a few selected growers whose stocks have been worked up from the true, original stock. In order to insure the health of the product, the bulbs are not grown on the same field oftener than one season, other crops being grown on the field the preceding year. The ground is thoroughly manured when the previous crop is grown, leaving it in a high state of cultivation, and when the lily bulbs are planted no fresh manure is used; this prevents disease and insures a crop of strong, healthy bulbs.

In addition to this, we do not dig our bulbs as early as they are usually dug, but leave them in the ground until they are thoroughly ripened and matured. When Harrisii is good it leaves little to be desired. There is very little, if any, stock obtainable as good as the stock that we are offering. We are supplying only this one grade of selected stock and when this is disposed of we shall have no more to offer.

While the quality of the stock that we offer is of the highest, our prices are as low as, or lower than, the prices of those who offer the ordinary stock gathered from indiscriminate sources. We are sure buyers will find our stock very satisfactory, and much more so than the Japan-grown Longiflorum, which has badly deteriorated in recent years.

Bear in mind that we were the original introducers of Harrisii in Bermuda, and that we have exceptional facilities for obtaining our present supplies. Also take note that the smallest bulbs that we offer are 6-7 inch bulbs, not 5-7 inch, as usually offered.

6-7 inch bulbs, 335 to the case, $15.00 per case; full thousand lots, $ 40.00 per 1000
7-9 inch bulbs, 200 to the case, 16.00 per case; full thousand lots, 75.00 per 1000
9-11 inch bulbs, 100 to the case, 18.00 per case; full thousand lots, 175.00 per 1000

FERNS

We have an exceptionally nice lot of ferns in the following varieties—good, bushy, well-grown plants that will please the most critical buyers. Plants have been grown in pots and are thoroughly well established and nicely finished.

Nephrolepis Bostoniensis and Piersoni, 6-inch pots . . . $0.50 each Nephrolepis Elegantissima, Piersoni, Bostoniensis and Harrisii, heavy 8-inch plants . . $1.00 to 1.50 each Nephrolepis Elegantissima, Bostoniensis and Harrisii, heavy 10-inch plants . . . 2.50 each

A hundred-story office building is proposed for erection in New York City, to be over 1000 feet in height. A fifty-story one is now being constructed two blocks from our office. These fine edifices are monuments to master minds of the present day. One thinks only of the height and magnificence of the building, but the principal part of such construction lies almost without regard—the foundation. Just think of the weight of a hundred-story building—better still, go to the top of a twenty-story one to think about it. The average man has no conception of the immensity of the undertaking. The building is appreciated as an end without regard to the means. That's the way with lily bulbs. A grower appreciates an excellent crop of flowers, but he seldom considers that the foundation of his successful crop was carefully laid in Japan or Bermuda by painstaking and patient bulb growers—men who love bulbs and their propagating. The best flowers always come from the best bulbs. Horseshoe Brand lily bulbs are the best you can buy anywhere in the world. There are none better grown. They are cultivated and exported to support the highest class of trade and to satisfy the most careless growers. There could be no surer foundation to success in lily growing than these bulbs, and you need them in your business. They are worth all they cost and more often more. Write us.

AMERICAN ASSOCIATION OF NURSERYMEN.

Officers for 1911-12: Pres., J. H. Dayton, Painesville, O.; Vice-pres., W. H. Wyman, North Abington, Mass.; Sec'y, John Hall, Rochester, N. Y.; Treas., C. L. Yates, Rochester, N. Y. Thirty-seventh annual meeting, Boston June 1912.

N. E. SHAW, state nursery inspector in Ohio, has compiled and published a circular giving the nursery inspection laws of all the states.

CHAS. E. GREENING, the nurseryman of Monroe, Mich., was operated on recently for appendicitis. At last report he was rapidly recovering.

WILLIAM BRITAIN has purchased the orchards, nursery stock and other property of the Tullahoma Nursery & Orchard Co., at Tullahoma, Tenn. He will continue the business under its former name.

C. A. KENNEDY, of Kennedy Bros., the nursery firm of Montrose, Ia., has been chosen three times as representative to Congress from the first district of Iowa, and his record in that office is said to have been highly creditable.

J. B. PILKINGTON, Portland, Ore., has just issued what is probably the most elaborate catalogue thus far issued by a nurseryman on the Pacific coast. It consists of eighty-eight finely printed and profusely illustrated pages.

THE Woodland Orchard Co., of Seaford, Del., has been incorporated, with a capital of $100,000. The incorporators are: O. Harrison, Berlin, Md.; C. Donoho, Seaford; A. H. Hardesty, Dover; F. P. Adkins, Salisbury, Md.

THE Francis Howard Corporation has been organized at Port Ewen, N. Y., with $250,000 authorized capital, to engage in landscape gardening and architecture. The incorporators are D. Cahart, B. B. Cattell and A. P. Hallett, all of New York city.

THE trustee in bankruptcy for the Peters Nursery Co., near Bearden, Tenn., gives notice that November 6 he will offer at auction "the following described property belonging to the bankrupt, viz.: One lot of young nursery stock; one mule; farming implements; office fixtures, and one lot of accounts."

FALL-BEARING STRAWBERRIES.

L. J. Farmer, nurseryman and fruit grower at Pulaski, N. Y., sends The Review handsome samples of his fall-bearing strawberries, Francis and Americus, and writes under date of October 26: "These were grown in the open and unprotected. The plants that these were grown from were set last spring and all blossoms were kept off until August 20. We began picking ripe fruit from these September 10 and they will continue to fruit until the hardest freezing weather. We are having wonderful success with them, having grown the improved varieties for three years now. Last year, from 500

We Are Rolling Up Dollars For our Advertisers

See what one of them says:

In looking over our advertising records for the last few years, we find that your publication has made a remarkable record. Since we began to advertise with you in 1907, for every dollar we have spent we have received $8.74 in direct sales. This leaves out, of course, all the indirect influence which our advertising has had, which, no doubt, amounts to a great deal. We think it only due you to let you know these facts and we will be glad at any time to testify to the value of your publication as a medium for reaching high grade florists.—McCray Refrigerator Co., Kendallville, Ind.

The Market.

After the hottest summer known in forty years, we are having cool weather. For four months of continued heat, rarely getting below 90 degrees during the day and 78 to 80 degrees at night, we have worked and worried, not knowing what the next day would bring forth. Business of all kinds was demoralized and it was only by great effort that stock was pulled through successfully. Roses seemed to suffer the least. Carnations and chrysanthemums were affected most and it was only by continuous spraying that any growth was made and insects kept under control, but the last few days have brightened things up and our troubles seem ended. Business, almost altogether in funeral work, has been good and is steadily on the increase. Chrysanthemums are eagerly sought after and at good prices. Carnations are in active demand, but quality is fair only. Roses are the same.

Various Notes.

Outdoor stock is showing up fine with the advent of cool nights, but notwithstanding the bad season has grown remarkably well, owing to the heavy, retentive soil in which they are grown. In fact, no finer rose soil can be had anywhere than is found in this section of the state. Some varieties budded in July and August have made over four feet of growth.

At the fair just closed, Paterson took all the premiums. Besides a handsomely decorated booth, there was a fine display of decorative plants and a representation of a wedding decoration.

Fall bulbs are beginning to be called for and the prospects seem good, as the heat destroyed large quantities of roses and other hardy plants in private gardens.

The largest funeral ever held here occurred last week, Paterson alone supplying 140 pieces.

Azaleas have suffered considerably in transit, but may pull through.

WE BEG TO ANNOUNCE to the trade that we will this season disseminate our new scarlet carnation, ST. NICHOLAS. We have given this variety a five years' test and have found it making good in every particular. Growers who have been obliged to grow both Victory and Beacon in order to have first-class red carnations through the whole season will welcome the relief afforded by St. Nicholas. It comes into bloom early, with high-grade blooms, showing no tendency toward sleepiness in warm weather. The color is that rich, brilliant shade of deep scarlet seen in Victory at its best, and this brilliancy is maintained throughout the whole season. In size it is large, grading with the best varieties in other colors. The form is good, with no splitting of the calyx. Keeping qualities are equal to the best. Habit of growth is upright and strong, producing long, strong stems at all times. In productiveness it ranks with the best commercial varieties. Can be seen growing at our plant at any time. We invite inspection.

Delivery will begin about Jan. 1, 1912. Those wishing extra early delivery should place their orders at once.

THE NEW YELLOW FORCING ROSE SUNBURST

This magnificent, giant yellow rose has been tested for three years in our benches; it stands head and shoulders above all other sorts of its color and will rank with American Beauty and the Killarneys in value and grandeur—because

It has a long, pointed bud, which can be cut tight for market. It is pre-eminently a long-stemmed rose. The stem is always stiff. It is free in bottom breaks. Is extraordinarily vigorous and healthy. Belongs in the class of Big Roses. Its keeping qualities rank with the best.

Buds shipped from Richmond last December opened up perfectly in both Philadelphia and New York, where it scored 90 before the Florists' Club.

The color is orange-copper or golden orange and golden yellow, all intense shades, extremely brilliant in effect.

Come and see it growing; we have 8,000 of it benched.

Does splendidly out of doors; will rank high as a bedder.

At the Chicago show, 1910, it was awarded the silver cup for the best new rose never before exhibited, and the judges unanimously gave it honorable mention additional.

Has created a sensation wherever shown.

Raised by M. Pernet-Ducher, from whom we bought the American rights.

We have divided our stock with Mr. C. H. Totty, of Madison, N. J., to give eastern growers a chance to see it growing. Will be distributed March 1 in America by C. H. Totty and The E. G. Hill Co. Mr. Pernet will distribute same date in Europe.

The American price is $30.00 per 100; $250.00 per 1000 (own roots); $5.00 per 100 additional for grafts

WASHINGTON.

The Market.

The chrysanthemum show of the Agricultural Department opened October 30, with a wonderful display of flowers. The greenhouses are beautifully lighted at night and throngs are enjoying the show.

Business has improved with the recent frost, although there was hardly enough to kill the dahlias and cosmos. The celebration of Hallowe'en came to the florists' rescue. Chrysanthemums are coming strong and prices are said to be cheap, with the prospect of a glut on the market before long. There are plenty of pompons selling at $1.50 to $2 per dozen bunches. They take well. Some single, daisy-like mums of different colors are attracting attention. American Beauty and Radiance roses, gardenias, etc., are fine and plentiful, but cattleyas are scarce and carnations are poor. The first Lorraine begonias, Cincinnati type, are being shown.

Various Notes.

Z. D. Blackstone expects to complete his store alterations November 15. His new windows are finished.

Gude Bros. have a fall opening and flower show this week, the features of which will include smilax decorations, an electric fountain, festoons of electric lights, and a big display of cut flowers, with a Ponderosa lemon tree in full fruit as centerpiece.

The Washington Florists' Club meets November 7, but will have no public show this year.

CAN HANDLE LARGEST ORDER ON SHORT NOTICE

Now is the time to force Azalea Indica for Christmas. What varieties will you force? Surely the ones, the early varieties, that I know I can get in in time for Xmas. There is Deutsche Perle, one of the best early double whites. We have plants full of buds, at 50c, 60c, 75c, $1.00, $1.25, $1.50 to $2.00 each. Simon Mardner, you know this variety well. It is an early, deep, double pink variety, 50c, 60c, 75c, $1.25, $1.50 to $2.00 each. Vervaneana, one of the old standard, well favored, large, double, variegated varieties, 50c, 75c, $1.00, $1.25, $1.50 to $2.00. Didn't you ever hear of that earliest of all varieties, Mme. Petrick? This is a variety hard to beat, pink, double flowers, full of buds and never fails to bloom. A child can bring this variety into bloom for Christmas. It is very scarce and high in price this fall in Belgium. You must have a few of them anyhow, 50c, 75c, $1.00, $1.25, $1.50 to $2.00 each.

Easter Varieties. For Easter forcing we have only the well known standard American varieties, such as Mme. Van der Cruysen, pink (very scarce this fall in Belgium), 75c, $1.00, $1.25, $1.50 to $2.00 each. Niobe, double white. We have a large stock of this, 40c, 50c, 60c, 75c, $1.00, $1.25, $1.50 to $2.00. Deutsche Perle, 50c, 60c, 75c, $1.00, $1.25, $1.50 to $2.00. Helene Theleman, light pink, $1.00, $1.25, $1.50 to $2.00. President Oswald de Kerchove, $1.00, $1.25 to $1.50. Schryverina and Empress of India, large, double variegated, 50c, 75c, $1.00, $1.25, $1.50 to $2.00. Professeur Wolters, 50c, 60c, 70c, $1.00 to $1.50. Simon Mardner, 60c, 75c, $1.00, $1.25 to $1.50. Vervaneana and Apollo, 60c, 75c, $1.00, $1.25, $1.50 to $2.00; dozen or 100 at same prices. Simon Mardner, Vervaneana, Deutsche Perle, smaller size, 40c, 50c up to $2.00. Also a few more of the best varieties.

Just Arrived with the azaleas a fine consignment of Latania Borbonica, in first-class condition. Perfect foliage, 8 good leaves—height given in consular invoice, 35 to 40 inches, fit for 7 and 8-in. pots, $1.50 to $2.00. Combination Latania Borbonica (3 plants), 6-in. pots, 25 to 30 in. high, forming a bush of about 14 leaves, which give them an attractive appearance, $1.00 to $1.25.

Araucaria Excelsa, raised from top cuttings only (no seedlings), 2, 3, 4 to 5-year-old, 5, 5½, 6 to 7-in. pots, 12, 15, 18, 20, 25 to 30 inches high, 40c, 50c, 60c, 75c, $1.00, $1.25 to $1.50 each. Robusta Compacta and Excelsa Glauca, 5½-in., 30c to 35c, 40c; 6-in. pots, 50c, 60c, 75c, $1.00, $1.25, $1.50 to $2.00 each.

Kentia Forsteriana, in fine shape, 5½ to 6-in. pots, 4, 5 and 6-year-old, 30, 35, 40 and 45 inches high, 75c, $1.00, $1.25, $1.50, $2.00 to $2.50; 4-in., 30c.

Kentia Belmoreana, 5, 6 to 7-year-old, 5, 5½, 6 to 7-in. pots, 50c, 75c, $1.00, $1.25, $1.50 to $2.00 each; 4-in., 25c.

Kentia Belmoreana, which came on the same steamer as azaleas, are potted off combination plants (made up with 3 plants), 22 to 25 inches high, having 12, 13 to 15 leaves to a pot (in 6-in. pots), 50c, 60c, 75c to $1.00, according to height; still larger sizes, $1.00, $1.25 to $1.50; single plants, 5 leaves, 22 to 25 in. high, stocky 5½ to 5½-in. pots, only 50c, worth 75c.

Sago Palms, ready now, 6, 7 to 8-in. pots, 9 to 18 leaves, 12c per leaf.

Asparagus Plumosus, 2½-in., 3c; 3-in., 5c; 4-in., 10c and 15c.

Our Ferns are very fine this year and I can give very good value to make room for my large importation of Azaleas: Boston, Scottii, Whitmani and Scholzeli, 5½ and 6-in. pots, 35c, 40c and 50c; 7-in., large, bushy plants, 75c to $1.00. Special to close out—Scottii and Whitmani and Scholzeli, 4-in., 15c; line to grow on. Our ferns are all pot grown—not lifted from benches.

Ferns. Cordata Compacta, 4-in., 15c to 20c.

Ferns for dishes, big assortment, 2½-in. pots, $4.00 per 100; 3-in., $5.00 per 100.

Asparagus Sprengeri, 2½-in., 3c.

Hydrangea Otahia, pot-grown, 6-in., 25c, 35c to 40c; 7-in., 50c. Only pot-grown, will force successfully for Easter.

Begonia Gloire de Lorraine. This is another of our specialties. We have a secret in growing them to perfection, only known to us, giving them a rich, deep color; stand shipping well, traveling 2000 to 3000 miles without the least bit of injury if properly handled. We have a big house full in No. 1 condition, 6 to 7-in. sizes, in bud and partly in bloom, ready for immediate sale or for the holidays. Everybody knows that last Christmas we had the best Begonia Gloire de Lorraine in the market. They were crackerjacks, indeed! We have the deep pink and the light pink (Lonsdale) varieties, 6-in. pots, 50c, 75c, $1.00; 3-in., 12c to 15c. If you have room order now, because they are always scarce at Xmas.

Begonia. Erfordii, newest improved strain. This variety is always in bloom during the whole winter, Xmas and Easter, 4-in. pots, in bud or bloom, 20c; 5½-in., 25c to 30c.

Solanum or Jerusalem Cherries, our well-known prize strain, the multiflorum, 6-in., 25c, 35c, 40c to 50c.

Cineraria Hybrida, Aschmann's well-known strain, 2½-in. pots, $3.00 per 100; 3-in., $5.00.

Primula Obconica, big 4-in., in bloom, 15c; 5½-in., in bloom, 25c.

Primula Chinensis, best strain, 4-in., 10c; 5-in., 20c.

Shasta Daisies, pure white, 2½-in. pots, $3.00 per 100.

Poinsettias, raised outdoors, in frame now—3-in., 15c; short, stocky plants, large 4-in., ready for a shift into 5, 5½ or 6-in., 25c; single or bunched, 5½ to 6-in., 35c, 40c, 50c.

Wilsoni Ferns, 3 plants in a 6-inch pan, 25c to 35c per pan.

Adiantum Hybridum, large 4-in., 15c; medium 4-in., 10c.

Coccoloba Weddelliana, made up of 3 plants, 4 to 5-in. pots, 30c, 40c to 50c; 3-in., single, 15c; 4-in., single, 25c.

Areca Lutescens, 4-in., 3 plants in a pot, 25c; 5½-in. pots, 24-in., 35c.

Ficus Elastica (Rubber Plant), 5-inch, 25c; 5½ to 6-in. pots, 20 to 25 inches high, 35c, 40c and 50c each; 7-in., 30 to 35 inches high, 75c to $1.00.

Cyclamen Grandiflorum, 4-in. pots, 25c; 5½-in., 35c.

All plants 25 at 100 rate. Cash with order, please. All plants must travel at risk of purchaser only.

WASHINGTON NOTES.

William R. Smith, superintendent of the U. S. Botanical Gardens and father of the Society of American Florists, is ill in Providence hospital. He is being taken good care of and is supplied with plenty of flowers by his friends, who hope he will be well in a week, but his great age, 84 years, militates against him.

Gude, Blackistone, Shaffer and Phillips contributed to the decorations at the Greater Palais Royal department store opening October 30. Prominent in the scheme was an immense piece of mums and Beauties, gift of the store's employees to its proprietor, A. Lisner.

The Washington Florists Co. has engaged E. J. Reynolds, formerly of San Francisco and Denver. This firm has a typical Hallowe'en window, with black cat, witch, pumpkins, etc.

W. R. Gray, of Oakton, Va., is cutting 3,000 valley weekly.

J. A. Peterson, Cincinnati, is here and reports business good at Pittsburgh and elsewhere on his travels.

William Rehden, Wilmington, N. C., was a recent visitor; also Mr. Pierce, formerly with Blackistone, who is opening a fancy shop on North Charles street, Baltimore. F. J. D.

NEWBURGH, N. Y.

Mark Crawshaw reports satisfactory business. He has cut chrysanthemums constantly since the first Golden Glow, July 15. Nephrolepis Bostoniensis is grown by him in quantity and is as popular as ever.

George Chadborn, of Schaefer's, says shipping trade is ahead of previous years. They handle large quantities of the later varieties of chrysanthemums, especially Chadwick, Appleton and Dr. Enguehard. Funeral work keeps all hands busy.

The Newburgh Floral Co. will have Golden Spur in bloom for Christmas. Henry Jespersen, the capable grower, makes a hit with this every season. Dr. Waite, of this firm, is well pleased with the new store, opened recently. M.

Morristown, N. J.—R. A. Elliott has completed within two years the snug-gest plant one could wish to see. It is perfect in detail and can not fail to reimburse him in increasing business. He has built up a fine trade in a few years and grows excellent stock.

DETROIT.

Various Notes.

A whole auto load of mums may be seen coming to the local market each morning from Thos. Browne's greenhouses, and they are of excellent quality, too.

Robert Klagge, of Mount Clemens, sent in the first narcissi of the season Saturday, October 28. B. Schroeter was a close second with some Paper Whites on Monday.

Thursday, November 2, the Detroit Florists' Club took its annual jaunt to Mount Clemens and was royally entertained by the Bath City growers.

The Michigan Cut Flower Exchange has made ample preparations to take care of the thousands of carnations shipped into this market by installing a most modern cooler. The box, which is 4x9 feet, was built by a local firm. It is so arranged as to be cooled in cold weather by the outside atmosphere, thus greatly reducing the cost of maintenance. The temperature will be kept continually at from 48 to 50 degrees.

Many elaborate Hallowe'en windows were to be seen in the flower stores this week, the most notable being a window in Breitmeyer's new store and one in E. A. Fetter's store. H. S.

A correspondent who recently visited the greenhouses of Chas. H. Plumb, at 660 Newland avenue, states that he was so pleased with the condition of the houses and the stock that he feels compelled to give Mr. Plumb the credit of having one of the best and cleanest ranges in the city. The Pacific Supreme and Early Snow mums, the correspondent says, had good, stiff stems, from four to five feet long, with extra large blooms, fine foliage and good color. The pompon mums would be hard to beat. Mr. Plumb is also cutting some fine roses, chiefly Killarney, White Killarney, Richmond and My Maryland. His two benches of poinsettias are also first-class.

Nashua, N. H.—E. J. Buxton speaks highly of the two carnations, White House and Gloriosa, and believes they will make good. His stock is in fine shape, bringing satisfactory returns.

Elizabeth, N. J.—John White has assumed the active management of the business conducted so successfully by his father, and will combine with it an extensive landscape department.

WASHINGTON, N. J.

Alonzo J. Bryan, who grows large quantities of pot plants and cut flowers, almost exclusively for the wholesale trade, is planning to build several more greenhouses during the coming spring and summer. Though several thousand feet of glass have been added during the last year, every foot of space is occupied and more room is urgently needed. His stock, too, is in extra fine condition, especially his Chinese primroses and Primula obconica, which are among his specialties at this season of the year. He has 100,000 or more rooted geraniums growing in 2½-inch pots and about ready for market. The stock plants of all kinds, which are planted outside in abundance during the summer, have been exceptionally fine this season. The acres of cannas alone made a fine display and caused much favorable comment.

Rahway, N. J.—J. R. Baumann makes a specialty of growing single and pom-pom chrysanthemums for some of the principal metropolitan stores and finds the demand quite satisfactory.

Trenton, N. J.—Carlman Ribsam has a fine stock of Pandanus utilis, which has become somewhat rare in decorative sizes, owing to a disease. A batch of his plants in 5-inch and 6-inch pots are perfect.

Irvington, N. J.—E. Jacobi has added a mushroom cellar by tunneling under the houses and building with concrete. It is a good job and has proved a profitable investment, the crops bringing a good average price. He has a model place and is ably assisted by his son.

HOME OF PANSIES.

Our growing crops of pansies for seed were greatly admired by all florists who saw them this last summer. All said they were grand—some said they were the best they had ever seen. We reserved over 50,000 of our best for seed growing and they certainly were a pretty sight. We are improving on them annually, and have a fine lot of red, red shades and other crosses of our own origin and nearly all colors and shades found in pansies. We started a few for a test very early and they have surprised us as to coloring and size of flowers; showing improvement over parent stock. You cannot go wrong if you place your order with us. If, upon blooming, you are not perfectly satisfied I will return every cent you paid for them. I made this same offer last year and had not a kick and I am better prepared to make it now than I was then. Our plants are in excellent shape owing to the good growing weather this fall; they are twice as heavy as last year and too large to go by mail. Our packing is right, we land them safe in Louisiana, Florida, California and other distant points. Have a large stock, all strong, sturdy, field-grown. Am receiving numerous testimonials and now have a large list of annual customers. Our collection contains no black, unless so ordered. We have a good stock of black which we keep separate. We can also supply, separate, Masterpiece, Giant Mme. Perret and Giant Prize Trimardeau; also blood red and Golden Queen, separate. All at the same price, $2.50 1000; 5000, $10.00. Liberal count.

E. Rawlings, Wholesale Grower, OLEAN, N. Y.

PANSY PARK PERFECTION is the most thoroughbred strain of giant show and fancy pansies, the flowers of largest size and most perfect form. I have made growing of pansy seeds and plants a specialty for nearly 40 years and it is the result of many years of breeding and selection. It also contains every variety introduced by foreign growers up to date. Samples of many reports: "Send me $10.00 worth of your best pansy seed. If as good in colors and size as they were last year I will need double the amount next year." G. H. Toepke, Detroit, Mich. "The Pansy Park Perfection pansy plants obtained from you for our parks were quite satisfactory. Book our order for 50,000 in separate colors and mixed, as specified below, and deliver in October." S. Manning, General Superintendent of Parks, Baltimore, Md. "The pansies from your seed are the finest thoroughbred flowers I have seen in this place which is noted for good flowers on private estates." Geo. A. Galloupe, Beverly, Mass. "Pansies received in fine condition, and they are nice, healthy plants." F. D. Keyes, Florence, Mass. An immense stock of fine field-grown plants from seed sown thinly, broadcast, so that each plant has plenty of room to grow stocky and strong, with extra good roots. Over 75 varieties mixed, the reds, bronzes and best fancy sorts in large proportion, 1000, $3.00; 500, $1.75; 5000, $14.00; 10,000, $27.00. Cash.

W. S. Pino received a large consignment of flower pots last week.

J. Hughes, who has been superintendent of the store of the Union Hardware Co., in this city, for several years, has opened a retail flower store at 84 Westminster street.

Thomas Booth, of the Hill View Greenhouses, Manville, commenced cutting this week on his 4,000 chrysanthemums, which are looking fine. His new house is about complete.

A dinner was served on the evening of October 25 by Thomas Hope, Arthur C. Miller and Richard Bowen, president, secretary and treasurer, respectively, of the Rhode Island Horticultural Society, and Robert Johnston, president of the Florists' and Gardeners' Club of Rhode Island, at the Dorrance hotel, to William N. Craig, of North Easton,

"Nothing Compared To It"

Read what Mr. Earle of the Burpee Company said :

"The benefit the Sweet Peas are deriving from the Skinner System of Irrigation is inestimable. It has saved a crop this spring and proven to be of the greatest value. The ease with which it can be adapted to all requirements is one of its strongest points."

The area one man can water with the Skinner System is limited only by the extent of the installation. By its uniformity of distribution and the mist form in which the water descends, it prevents bruising of foliage and preserves the soil. This is one of the chief reasons why the Skinner produces such fine crops—larger—earlier—surer. In one season the Skinner System will save you enough in labor alone to pay for itself.

Write today for our six books on irrigation. Read what prominent florists all over the country say about this wonderful new invention. Don't delay. Address

Greenhouse Heating.OIL AS FUEL.

Can good results be obtained by the use of distillate as fuel with a sectional water boiler? What apparatus is necessary to use it and how expensive is it? Can crude oil be used as fuel without steam? If so, how? What appliances would be necessary and what would be the cost? H. A. N.

In most sections distillate will be found rather more expensive than coal for greenhouse heating. In the case of crude oil the only safe way is to have at least one boiler in which steam is used. Though there are burners in which steam pressure is not used, these are less reliable and not as satisfactory as when steam pressure is available for spraying the oil. There are a number of forms of burners on the market and it will be well to obtain specifications and prices from the manufacturers.

AREA OF RADIATING SURFACE.

Will you please tell me the rating of the No. 4 Furman boiler? Please state, also, the number of square feet of radiating surface in the following piping: Seventy feet of 3½-inch, fifty feet of 2-inch, 200 feet of 2½-inch, and 1,000 feet of 1½-inch returns.

E. L.

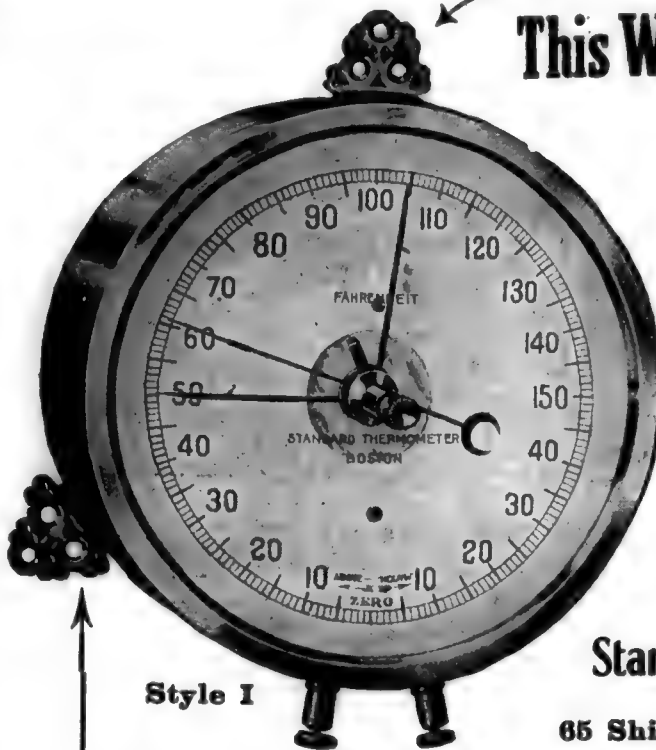

We do not have a copy of the Furman boiler catalogue at hand and do not remember the exact rating of the different sizes. Our experience with several of the Furman boilers would indicate that they are well up to the rating of the manufacturers. The 200 feet of 2½-inch pipe will give about 150 square feet of radiating surface; 1,000 feet of 1½-inch, about 500 square feet, and the seventy feet of 3½-inch and fifty feet of 2-inch about 120 square feet more, or a total of 770 square feet.

PIPING IN RHODE ISLAND.

I should like to have your heating expert tell me the amount of 1¼-inch pipe that will be required to heat a house 14x65 feet. Please state the size of the flow and return pipes and the best way to arrange them. I have a vertical boiler, seven feet high and thirty inches in diameter, with a firepot twenty-four inches in diameter. Will this boiler heat the house described and a smaller one, 16x24 and ten feet to the ridge, with two feet of glass in the sides and in both ends? The 65-foot house measures ten feet to the ridge; it has glass in both ends and two feet of glass in the sides. The side walls are all four feet high. I want a carnation temperature.

are all satisfied with the results it has given, and many duplicate orders is the proof. This Valve will maintain a steady pressure on the low side, no matter how the initial pressure fluctuates. By carrying 40 or 50 pounds pressure on the boiler and setting the valve to carry 5 or 10 pounds on the line, you always have a reserve to fall back on in case of a sudden drop in temperature. A Test at 18 Below Zero

Having promised you a letter as soon as we had passed through a good fair test, I consider it now as almost timely.

We had the thermometer 18 degrees below, and we've just gone through a blizzard bad enough for most any season, and am very pleased to inform you that our heating system was equal to the occasion. So far as we have gone, am certainly well satisfied with the Kroeschell Boiler, Generator and Heating System.

from the size of the grate and fire-pot, it should heat both houses easily.

For the larger house it is suggested that a 2-inch flow be run a foot or two under the ridge to the farther end of the house, and that five 1½-inch returns be placed on the walls, or a part of them may be under the benches if preferred. In the house 16x24 feet use a 1½-inch overhead flow and six 1½-inch returns. The return coils can start at the opposite end of the houses from the boiler and follow around on the walls, at a slight fall, say one inch in fifteen feet. There should be an air valve near the lower end of each coil and shut-off valves should be placed at both ends.

HEAT FOR VIOLET FRAME.

Will a return tubular steel boiler, 2x6 feet, heat more than my present house, which is 22x94 and twelve feet to the ridge? The house is three-quarter span, with 8-foot rafters on one side and 16-foot rafters on the other side. There are two feet of glass in the lower wall and a 5-foot board wall on the other side. Would the boiler heat a cold-frame, 6x90 feet, on the east side of the greenhouse? The frame is to be used for violets. The greenhouse wall would form one side of the frame. There are fourteen lengths of 2-inch pipe in the house; four of the pipes are used as flows and ten of them as returns. I grow carnations, lilies and potted plants. I am situated on a hill, with a bold western exposure, in the eastern part of New York state.

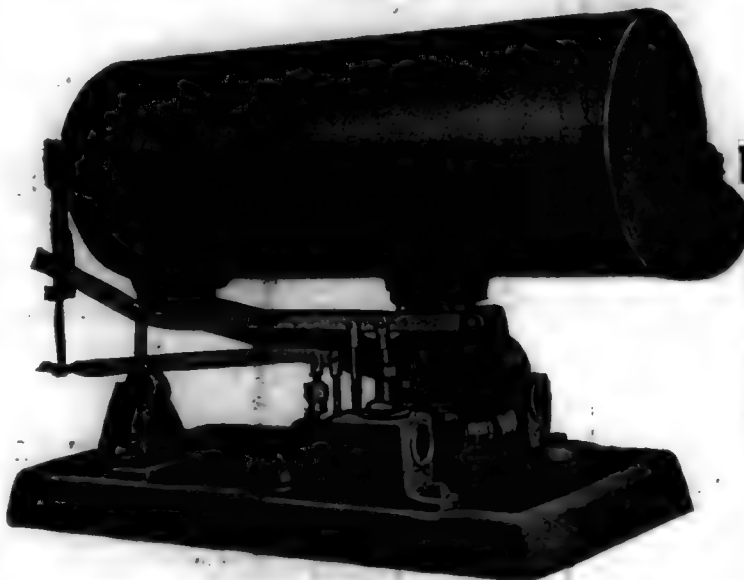

A. O. C.

The data regarding the boiler is not sufficiently complete to give an accurate idea of its capacity, but the present house is probably all that it can be relied on to heat. The house contains about 850 square feet of radiation, which is about all that a boiler with a grate two feet in diameter can carry economically. However, it is possible that the capacity of the boiler may be rather more than is required in the house described, and if the coldframe is to be warmed from the present boiler, two of the pipes should be taken out of the carnation house and used for heating the violet frame.

DENVER.

The Market.

The first heavy frost and cold weather came October 18, and since then business has been more favorable; not that it is as good as last October, for it is not. On all sides one hears the complaint that "this is the dullest season we have ever experienced." As a matter of fact, stock has not been as plentiful as it might have been, and perhaps it was just as well that business was rather slow. Of tea roses there was a quantity, and the loss on these was no small item; but carnations have been scarce all through the fall, and if any were dumped it was because no great effort was made to dispose of them. They are still scarce, and a few out-of-town orders each day clean up any possible surplus.

Chrysanthemums are in good supply, but the demand is steady and there has been no loss. Prices here are noticeably lower for first-class stock than in the east, taking the Chicago price lists as a basis. Some fine mums, that would easily bring $3 and $4 in Chicago, are sold each day at $2. Nothing higher is asked.

There is not much demand for good, long-stemmed Beauties; the medium grades sell best. Several out-of-town florists, who find they have more stock than they can dispose of at home, are shipping to Denver in the hope of finding a market. These shipments help out in rush times and are thankfully received.

Various Notes.

The Tremont street store of A. C. Sinram has been divided into two parts. Mr. Sinram will keep the corner, and consequently will be giving up only a small percentage of window space.

C. A. Benson is cutting some fine chrysanthemums, for which he finds a ready market.

Newlander & Rolin have lately completed a new carnation house, 20x175 feet. The construction is entirely of wood.

Espelin & Warren, of Fort Collins, are consigning to the Denver Wholesale Florists' Co. their surplus of carnations and chrysanthemums. N. E. De Golier, Loveland, makes frequent shipments of fine carnations to this firm, and A. Gardner, of Greeley, is disposing of his chrysanthemums in the same way.

John Bubach, representing Lion & Co., and Raleigh H. Starbuck, of E. H. Hunt, called on the trade last week. Other visitors were G. Fleischer, of Pueblo, and A. Gardner, of Greeley.

There were a number of weddings and debutante parties last week. The decoration at the wedding of Miss Emma Phipps was probably the most elaborate, and was done by William Speth.

91-93 CHAMBERS ST. NEW YORK

FURNISHED in continuous lengths of 500 feet. An exceptionally high grade hose manufactured with a woven jacket insertion instead of cotton duck, and with specially selected rubber in the inner tube and cover.

The woven jacket construction makes a stronger hose than can be obtained from cotton duck, and absolutely precludes the possibility of cover opening at seam—a common cause of failure of hose made on cotton duck. This construction also gives a more flexible hose and reduces the possibility of kinking. "Magic" Hose is guaranteed to stand a pressure of 500 pounds per square inch, although its bursting pressure is far in excess of this.

BALTIMORE.The Market.

Indian summer has increased the production of cut flowers far beyond the demands of the market. Dahlias are in oversupply, in spite of the fact that the retailers have taken hold with a will, displaying the finest varieties in their windows and showing them to their customers at every opportunity. The demand for dahlias has been large, the general public taking an unusual interest, but it would require something phenomenal to consume all the fine flowers produced with the thermometer at the midsummer point.

Chrysanthemums, pink, white and yellow, have increased rapidly. Since they must compete with dahlias of such splendid quality, the price has fallen, though chrysanthemums are of much finer quality than has been seen for some time. Extremely fine stock is shown in the shop windows and at first commands high prices, which rapidly decline, however, as the dozens become hundreds.

Carnations are coming in more plentifully, especially colored stock. The demand for colored flowers is larger, cleaning up most of the stock of good quality. Roses are showing up well; many growers are now cutting stems of good length and it is possible to find any desired quality. White Killarney shows the same improvement as the pink variety. Some fine My Maryland are available, but not in great quantity. This rose is not the factor that some expected it to be. Violets have put in an appearance. They are of unusual quality and show indications of an excellent crop. They are being grown in larger quantities this season. Ferns, also, are being more extensively grown this season and any number of the department stores are handling them. Boston and Scottii are most in demand. Araucarias are to be had in any size and meet with a steady demand.

Newark, N. J.—Strobell & Bro. are cutting fine chrysanthemums, but he stated that a good, killing frost was needed to stimulate business.

Princeton, N. J.—George Allan reports business improving in this university city. The dull months have given him the opportunity to get things into tiptop shape. He has an excellent location and handles high-grade stock.

DAYTON, O.

The Market.

Last week's business was no exception to the general run of trade, although we had most beautiful weather the first four days of the week. We had a few killing frosts, just the kind the florists have wished for, and consequently outdoor stock has ceased to be a hindrance to trade. The florists are busy taking their geranium cuttings and getting the stock started for next spring.

Stock continues to come in. It is more than sufficient for the demand and fine in quality, but trade continues to move at a slow pace. Funeral orders and a few receptions seem to be the only live wires. Mums are becoming more abundant each day, and are pushing to one side the sales on all other varieties of stock.

Generally speaking and in plain language, business during the greater part of October was "bum." Everybody was complaining and some think the late frosts had much to do with it, as this gave ample room for an over-supply of dahlias, outdoor mums, etc. This trouble has recently been removed, and we are now anticipating a better trade for November.

Various Notes.

Samuel Kurtz, who for the last sixteen years has been manager for the Dayton Floral Co., has gone into the retail business for himself, starting November 1 at the corner of East Fifth and Jackson streets. Mr. Kurtz is thoroughly acquainted with the business and a bright future is predicted for him.

One of the prettiest window decorations on Main street last week was that of the Heiss Co., which recently put in a new show window. The setting was that of an autumn scene in the rural districts, with the rail fence, husked corn and pumpkins quite conspicuous.

The National Cash Register Co. has recently completed its new greenhouse, which will be used for the care of a portion of its bedding plants.

Mr. and Mrs. George Bartholomew have announced the engagement of their daughter, Ruby A., to Claude W. Leslie. The wedding will take place the latter part of November.

Arthur Carey spent October 29 in Cincinnati. He reports a pleasant time.

The Miami Floral Co. is having a new switch put in, which will bring all the freight and coal up to the engine room doors. R. A. B.

THE AUTUMN EXHIBITIONS

ST. LOUIS.

The fifth annual flower show given by the St. Louis Horticultural Society opened at noon Tuesday, November 7, in the arena of the Coliseum. The overhead decorations of the recent horse show were left intact, which made a pretty effect for the plants and cut blooms below. The St. Louis park department had a large and handsome display at the south end of the hall, which attracted a great deal of attention.

The Retail Florists' Association had a large booth on the east side of the hall, in which the members made displays each day. Ostertag Bros. decorated the booth the first day, staging two handsome dinner tables. A third table was by the Metropolitan Floral Co. In this booth the McCray Refrigerator Co., Kendallville, Ind., displayed one of its handsome florists' boxes and counter box.

The Shaw premiums had a great many entries in all classes, but the cut flower display was rather meager for the first day. The weather was fine, but the attendance for the first day was not up to expectations.

The judges for the week are F. W. Bruenig, C. Bergstermann, R. F. Tesson, John Steidle and Jules Bourdet. Their awards on Tuesday were:

Fifty American Beauty roses—Poehlmann Bros. Co., Chicago, first.

Six vases roses, six varieties, twenty-five blooms of each—Poehlmann Bros. Co., first, with White Killarney, Mrs. Aaron Ward, Killarney, Prince de Bulgarie, Richmond and Maryland; A. C. Brown, second, with White Killarney, American Beauty, Mrs. Aaron Ward, Killarney, Richmond and Sunrise.

Twenty-five blooms any pink rose introduced since 1908—Poehlmann Bros. Co., first, with Dark Pink Killarney.

Twenty-five blooms any "other color" rose introduced since 1908—Poehlmann Bros. Co., first, with Prince de Bulgarie.

Twenty-five blooms any new rose not yet disseminated—A. N. Pierson, Inc., Cromwell, Conn., two firsts, one for Double White Killarney and one for Killarney Queen.

Four vases carnations, four varieties, fifty blooms of each—Chicago Carnation Co., Chicago, first, with Enchantress, Pink Delight, White Wonder and Dorothy Gordon; A. C. Brown, Springfield, Ill., second, with Enchantress, Mrs. C. W. Ward, White Enchantress and Dorothy Gordon.

One hundred cut chrysanthemum blooms, one variety—E. G. Hill Co., Richmond, Ind., first, with Charles Razer; Poehlmann Bros. Co., Chicago, second, with W. H. Chadwick.

Fifty cut chrysanthemum blooms, five varieties, ten of each—E. G. Hill Co., first, with L'Africaine, Gen. Hutton, Glenview, Glacier and Souvenir de Maurice Dalle; Elmer D. Smith & Co., Adrian, Mich., second, with Glenview, Pockett's Crimson, Naomah, Appleton and Smith's Sensation; Mount Greenwood Cemetery Association, Morgan Park, Ill., third.

Floral display, to include not less than four pieces—Grimm & Gorly, first, one entry.

The awards for the Shaw premiums were as follows:

Display of decorative plants—Wm. Schray & Sons, first; C. C. Sanders, second; Grimm & Gorly, third.

Group of variegated foliage plants—Wm. Schray & Sons, first; C. C. Sanders, second.

Five kentias—Wm. Schray & Sons, first; Grimm & Gorly, second.

Five arecas—Koenig Floral Co., first.

Specimen palm—Wm. Schray & Sons, first; Grimm & Gorly, second.

Ficus pandurata—Koenig Floral Co., first.

Ficus elastica—Wm. Schray & Sons, first.

Three Boston ferns—Grimm & Gorly, first; Schray & Sons, second.

Five ferns, any nephrolepis varieties—H. J. Jennemann, first; Wm. Schray & Sons, second.

Eighteen berried plants—Koenig Floral Co., first; C. C. Sanders, second.

Twenty-five blooming plants in eight or more varieties, chrysanthemums excluded—Wm. Schray & Sons, first; C. C. Sanders, second; F. J. Fillmore & Son, third.

Twelve geraniums in bloom—Koenig Floral Co., first; C. C. Sanders, second.

Specimen blooming plant other than chrysanthemum—Koenig Floral Co., first; Wm. Schray & Sons, second.

Fern dish—Wm. Schray & Sons, first; C. C. Sanders, second.

Pair standard bay trees—H. Young & Sons Co., first; Wm. Schray & Sons, second.

Twelve begonias—C. C. Sanders, first.

Group of plants to cover 100 square feet—Wm. Bruecker, first; Koenig Floral Co., second; C. C. Sanders, third.

TARRYTOWN, N. Y.

The thirteenth annual fall exhibition of the Tarrytown Horticultural Society opened in Music hall October 31 and continued for three days. The exhibition was finer in every respect than the exhibitions previously held. The addition of the tables of orchids, and the particularly fine group of palms, foliage and flowering plants exhibited by Allen J. Jenkins, superintendent for S. P. Shotter, Lenox, Mass., contributed greatly to the beauty of the exhibits. There was good competition throughout, in all the classes. Music hall was a bower of bloom and beauty from end to end. A fine grade of blooms graced the tables.

The F. R. Pierson Co. exhibited a fine lot of roses, palms, ferns, etc., and was awarded a certificate of merit. A certificate of merit was also awarded to Scott Bros. for a table of pompon and large-flowering chrysanthemums, and to P. W. Popp, gardener for H. Darlington, for an exhibit of dahlias.

The judges for the three days were as follows: First day, Alex. Thompson, Mount Kisco; John H. Everett, Glen Cove, and John McQueen, Glen Cove. Second day, Henry Cliff, Locust Valley; David Graham, Chappaqua, and J.

Three mum plants, any other color—Koenig Floral Co., first; F. J. Fillmore & Son, second.

Collection of hardy evergreens—C. C. Sanders, first.

Visitors on the opening day included:

Asmus, George, Chicago.
Poehlmann, August, Chicago.
Philpott, H. E., president Chicago Florists' Club.
Pyfer, A. T., Chicago.
Rudd, W. N., Morgan Park, Ill.

T. Burns, New Canaan, Conn. For the table decoration, Mrs. Stuyvesant Fish, Mrs. M. F. Campbell and Mrs. E. Barbour. Third day, John Elliott, Nathan Brewer and Francis Gibson.

The principal prize winners, aside from the special exhibitors already mentioned, were as follows: William C. Roberts, gardener for Frederick Potter; Robert Angus, gardener for Joseph Eastman; George Middleton, gardener for William Rockefeller; Thomas Aitchison, gardener for Henry Siegel; John Canning, gardener for A. Lewisohn; E.

DAYTON, O.

The Market.

Last week's business was no exception to the general run of trade, although we had most beautiful weather the first four days of the week. We had a few killing frosts, just the kind the florists have wished for, and consequently outdoor stock has ceased to be a hindrance to trade. The florists are busy taking their geranium cuttings and getting the stock started for next spring.

Stock continues to come in. It is more than sufficient for the demand and fine in quality, but trade continues to move at a slow pace. Funeral orders and a few receptions seem to be the only live wires. Mums are becoming more abundant each day, and are pushing to one side the sales on all other varieties of stock.

Generally speaking and in plain language, business during the greater part of October was "bum." Everybody was complaining and some think the late frosts had much to do with it, as this gave ample room for an over-supply of dahlias, outdoor mums, etc. This trouble has recently been removed, and we are now anticipating a better trade for November.

Various Notes.

Samuel Kurtz, who for the last sixteen years has been manager for the Dayton Floral Co., has gone into the retail business for himself, starting November 1 at the corner of East Fifth and Jackson streets. Mr. Kurtz is thoroughly acquainted with the business and a bright future is predicted for him.

One of the prettiest window decorations on Main street last week was that of the Heiss Co., which recently put in a new show window. The setting was that of an autumn scene in the rural districts, with the rail fence, husked corn and pumpkins quite conspicuous.

The National Cash Register Co. has recently completed its new greenhouse, which will be used for the care of a portion of its bedding plants.

Mr. and Mrs. George Bartholomew have announced the engagement of their daughter, Ruby A., to Claude W. Leslie. The wedding will take place the latter part of November.

Arthur Carey spent October 29 in Cincinnati. He reports a pleasant time.

The Miami Floral Co. is having a new switch put in, which will bring all the freight and coal up to the engine room doors.

PHILADELPHIA.

Philadelphia made a great stride forward in the flower show that was opened to the public Tuesday evening, November 7. Improvement was noticeable in every respect; in the arrangements made to please flower lovers, evident on every hand; the show is well advertised—people know that it is going on this week in Horticultural hall; it is beautifully decorated, not a mere display of plants and cut flowers in rows, but an effective arrangement.

On the right of the lobby are two fine groups of single chrysanthemums, all seedlings of their own raising, from the Overbrook Gardens of Edward A.

autumn queen and foliage, while to the right and left John Kuhn, of Olney, has handsome bunches of Yellow Chadwick in cedar bark covered vases.

Old members of the Pennsylvania Horticultural Society hardly recognize the main hall, transformed by the skillful hand of William Graham. The walls are adorned with wild smilax, autumn foliage and Ficus pandurata; a balcony with chairs extends the entire length on both sides. The exhibit of Henry A. Dreer, Inc., fills the stage, screening the orchestra; it embraces all the leading foliage plants grown at Riverton; the novelties were, Adiantum Farleyense gloriosum, Nephrolepis superba and Cyrtomium Rochfordianum. Opposite the stage Louis Burk has a large exhibit of orchids in a profusion of varieties and sizes, set off by ferns and lighted by many electric lights. Between the stage and this orchid exhibit are four magnificent groups that completely fill the center of the hall, each a complete collection of autumnal floral skill—foliage and flowering plants of merit grouped together happily. Against the balconies, facing these central groups, are varied exhibits of pompons and orchids.

Lord & Burnham Co. has the center of the lower hall with a perfect model greenhouse, 7x16 feet, complete in every detail. The Henry F. Michell Co. has bordered this house with choice pompons. The Henry F. Michell Co. has its main exhibit opposite. It contains bulbs and sundries tastefully arranged and surrounded by stock from

To sum up, the plants and flowers are fully equal to the best standard of past years, in some cases a little ahead. The spectacular effect has never been surpassed. The interest will be kept by fresh attractions each day, the management says, until the close on Friday. Phil.

STAMFORD, CONN.

The first exhibition of the Westchester and Fairfield Horticultural Society was held at Stamford November 3 and 4, achieving a success beyond the expectations of the most sanguine of the society's workers. Classes had been provided for chrysanthemums, roses, carnations, fruits and vegetables, and in all there were over 350 entries in the eighty classes. The Casino, where the show was held, was hardly large enough for so successful a show. The attendance was heavy both days.

The principal exhibitors and prize winners were: W. J. Sealey, gardener to Charles Malloy, Portchester, N. Y.; A. J. Burns, gardener to Miss C. A. Bliss, New Canaan, Conn.; James Stuart, gardener to Mrs. F. A. Constable, Mamaroneck, N. Y.; Alex. Geddes, gardener to Mrs. Albert Crane, Stamford; Ewen Mackenzie, gardener to Miss G. Iselin, New Rochelle, N. Y.; Thomas Aitchison, gardener to Henry Siegel, Mamaroneck, N. Y.; Wm. Smith, gardener to Robert Malloy, Portchester, N. Y.; Robert Stobo, gardener to J. J. Riker, Portchester, N. Y.; A. Bieschke, gardener to Wm. Zeigler, Noroton, Conn.; Adam Paterson, gardener to Mrs. M. T. Cockcroft, Saugatuck, Conn.; M. J. Quirk, gardener to J. D. Crimmins, Noroton, Conn.; James Foster, gardener to Mrs. Oliver Hoyt, Stamford; Thomas Harvey, gardener to Miss Helen M. Smith, Stamford; Thomas Stentiford, gardener to Mrs. W. L. Cushing, Simsbury, Conn.; Thomas Bell, gardener to Fred Sturgess, Fairfield, Conn.; John McAllister, gardener to Mrs. W. C. Nicol, Rye, N. Y.; John Grant, gardener to E. Holbrook, Stamford; Robert Allen, gardener to E. C. Benedict, Greenwich, Conn.; George Macrae, gardener to Hobart J. Park, Portchester, N. Y.; A. Peterson, gardener to Charles S. Smith, Stamford; Robert Williamson, gardener to Mrs. A. A. Anderson, Greenwich; Mrs. L. P. Child, Mrs. H. O. Havemeyer, J. I. Downey, J. B. Cobb, W. W. Hewy, A. F. Higgins, Mrs. Ernest Green and A. Whitlaw.

Edward Holbrook offered a silver cup to be competed for between the gardeners of the two counties. Fairfield county won, taking the most premiums. The cup was awarded to Miss C. A. Bliss, her gardener being the most successful exhibitor in the show.

The judges were Wm. Russell, Milbrook, N. Y.; James Ballantyne, Ridgefield, Conn.; John G. Nichols, Cedarhurst, L. I.

GLENCOVE, N. Y.

The seventh annual flower show of the Nassau County Horticultural Society was held November 1 and 2 in Pembroke hall. The schedule provided for forty-seven classes, with thirty-five special classes for silver cups, gold and silver medals and cash awards. All classes were well filled and the contests were keen. The choicest chrysanthemum blooms from the estates, with roses, carnations, violets, fruit and vegetables, were displayed. Herbert L. Pratt, of Glencove, and Anton G.

Thomas Meehan & Son come next with a fine exhibit of hardy pompons in profuse variety. W. Atlee Burpee & Co. have an exhibit of single varieties of mums from March sown seed. Last in the galaxy of exhibits is Hosea Waterer with fine bulbs and fungicides.

Hodenpyl, of Locust Valley, received the largest number of awards, each winning fourteen. Mr. Hodenpyl's exhibits were entirely vegetables and fruit. Mrs. Pratt's exhibit of hardy outdoor chrysanthemums won the silver cup presented by Mrs. Francis S. Smithers, and a similar trophy was awarded for her group of chrysanthemums of not more than fifty square feet.

William D. Guthrie won a silver cup for six varieties of chrysanthemums, three of each, 12-inch stems. The Totty gold and silver medals for the best six sprays of Jack Everett chrysanthemums were won by Walter Gibb and John T. Pratt, respectively. Mr. Pratt received the special prize offered for the largest chrysanthemum bloom in the show. The other principal exhibitors included Mrs. B. Stern, J. T. Ingram, J. H. F. Matz, Mrs. F. S. Smithers, Percy Chubb, J. H. Ottley, J. R. De Lamar, E. M. Townsend, James Halloway, Colgate Hoyt, Emmett Queen, Paul Dana, H. W. J. Bucknall, Alfred Walker, P. D. Handy and W. L. Harkness.

CHICAGO.

The regular autumn show at Chicago being omitted this year, the Chicago Florists' Club designated November 2 as "Novelty night" and had an exhibition that occupied a table that stretched the entire length of the main dining-room of the Union restaurant. The exhibits were of splendid quality throughout and included a number of things the trade has heard, or will hear, a great deal about.

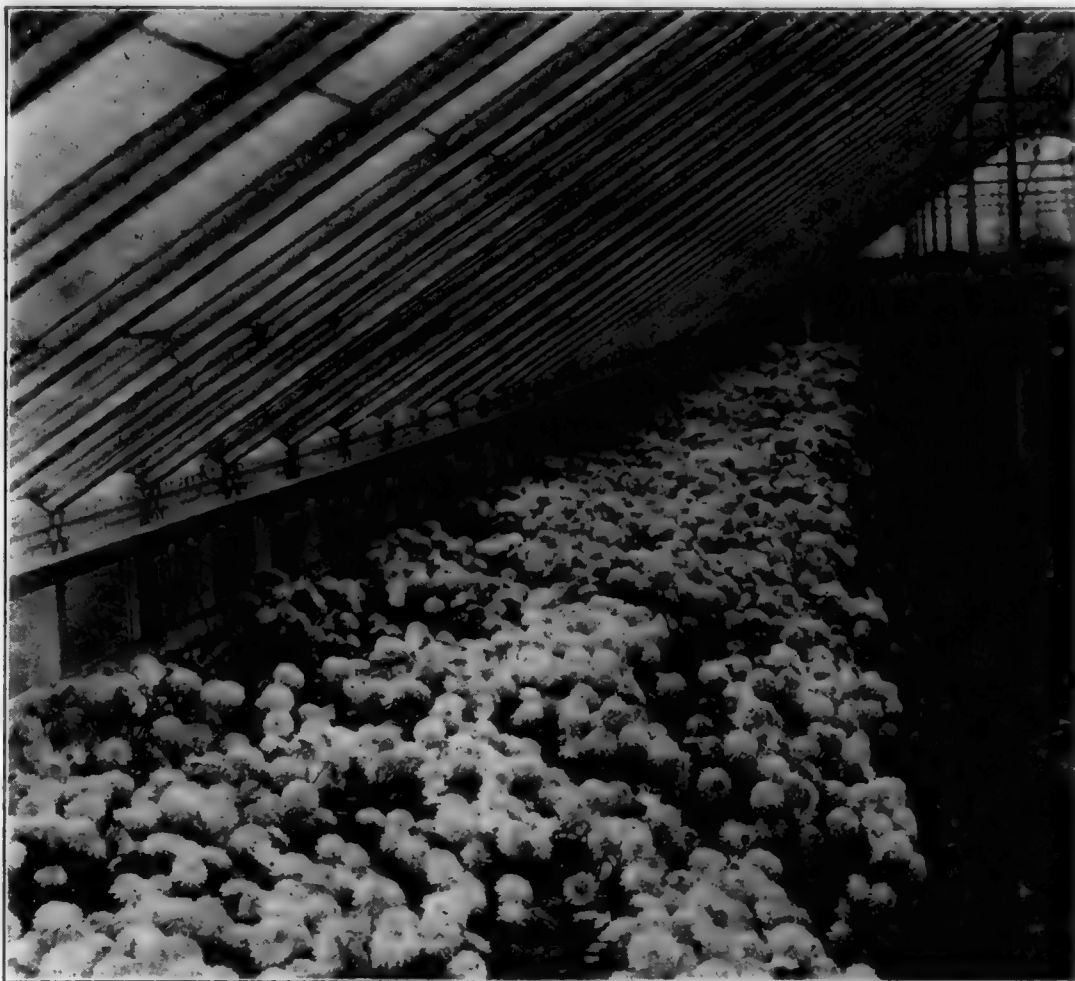

Perhaps of first interest were the roses. W. R. Pierson, of A. N. Pierson, Inc., Cromwell, Conn., was present with a magnificent vase of Killarney Queen, which may be described as a glorified Killarney. The flowers shown were on stems and had a size that brought them into the American Beauty class. Mr. Pierson also brought a vase of Double White Killarney, not so long in stem as the other, but showing extremely large, double flowers. One of the Indiana florists present pleased Mr. Pierson by the aptness of his remark that "Queen is splendid, but the white is what we all need."

E. G. Hill, of Richmond, came with a splendid lot of Sunburst, the new yellow that is to be sent out this season by C. H. Totty and the E. G. Hill Co. It had longer stems than most of those present ever had seen on a yellow rose, and long, pointed buds of full petalage and exquisite color. It is a variety of French origin. Most of the big growers for the Chicago market have bought it.

H. Roth, Lafayette, Ind., brought a display of his red seedling rose, the color and form of Rhea Reid, but with many more petals and opening into a hemisphere, instead of flat, as most roses do.

W. J. Keimel, D. Robertson and Albert Erickson judged the roses, scoring Double White Killarney 87 points, Killarney Queen 88 points and Sunburst 90 points, which gave the club's certificate to these varieties. Roth's seedling was awarded special mention.

Elmer D. Smith & Co., Adrian, Mich., sent a splendid lot of chrysanthemums. There was a vase of fifteen one and two-year seedlings under number that included some exceptionally promising sorts. Named varieties were: Gem, pink; Chrysolora, a splendid yellow, the blooms cut October 18; Christy Hartje & Elder's Bench of the Pink Pompon Certificated at Chicago.

Mathewson, a big white, like Eaton; Aesthetic, a large incurved yellow; Smith's Sensation, enormous light pink, well named; Nontero, large incurved white; White Perfection, a fine large white.

E. G. Hill Co. showed the following large mums; Petite Yvonne, incurved white; Hirondelle, incurved pink; August Dassy, big ball of golden yellow, especially good.

Vaughan's Seed Store staged Pioneer, Roman Gold, W. T. Brock, Mrs. Duckham and Mrs. Syme among the big mums, also a vase of seedlings.

There was quite a display of pompon and single mums, of which the conspicuous feature was a pink seedling, No. 59, shown by Hartje & Elder, Indianapolis. A memorandum of it went into practically every notebook. E. G. Hill Co. also showed some fine things among something like a dozen varieties of singles and pompons. E. D. Smith & Co. sent Clea, a fine single pink, and several numbered pompons and singles. Vaughan's Seed Store staged seven singles.

The judges on mums were George Asmus, T. E. Waters and E. A. Wood. They scored the varieties as follows: Christy Mathewson, 90 exhibition scale; Smith's Sensation, 87 exhibition scale; White Perfection, 88 commercial scale; August Dassy, 87 exhibition scale, 92 commercial scale; Hirondelle, 86 exhibition scale, 91 commercial scale. This was for the C. S. A. certificate. The club's certificate was awarded to Chrysolora, Gem and Nontero. The committee made special mention of the seedlings from Smith and Vaughan, of which too few flowers were shown for judging by points.

The Hartje & Elder pink pompon, No. 59, was scored 93 points and Clea, single, by Elmer D. Smith & Co., was scored 85, each gaining the club's certificate.

Among carnations there were fine vases of Pink Delight and White Wonder from E. G. Hill Co. and three seedlings from the Chicago Carnation Co. The judges on these were John Then, John Zech and H. Yepsen. They scored as follows: No. 150, pink, 88 points; No. 186, red, 86 points; No. 49, red, 87 points, gaining the club's certificate. C. J. Bond, Naperville, showed a splendid plant of Cattleya Olivia, Triana x intermedia, bearing a 6-flowered spike and said to have bloomed three times in eighteen months. The committee recommended a certificate of merit.

Thompson Carnation Co., Joliet, sent three blooms of an unknown variety for identification.

C. W. Johnson, secretary of the Chrysanthemum Society of America, was in charge of the show. The attendance was large.

CHESTNUT HILL, PA.

The Chestnut Hill Horticultural Society carried into successful operation the most ambitious program in its history. The Casino of the White City was secured for the exhibition and all the leading ladies of the Hill were engaged as patronesses. The combination was unusual, for you know Chestnut Hill hates Chestnut Hill park, which is the plain, unvarnished name for the White City, with a deadly hatred. But now the park is closed and the hatred forgotten, or supposed to be forgotten, by the horticultural committee in search of the best hall on the Hill.

From a horticultural standpoint—perhaps in fairness it should be added, and from an agricultural standpoint—it was a brilliant success. The exhibits were numerous, well arranged and of high quality; they came chiefly from the private gardeners of that beautiful suburb and from the surrounding country.

The commercial exhibits included a beautiful display of evergreens from the De Kalb Nurseries of Adolph Muller, Norristown, Pa., with Mr. Muller in charge; a choice selection of foliage plants from Henry A. Dreer, Inc., Philadelphia, in charge of John S. Hay, and a comprehensive assortment of fine Holland bulbs from the Henry F. Michell Co., Philadelphia, in charge of Otto Robold.

The pompon chrysanthemums were a feature of the show; some really fine sorts were exhibited by a number of private gardeners. The specimen chrysanthemums, Japanese varieties, were well grown and shown. There were also some nice roses and carnations, but the crowning feature of the show was the vegetable display. This embraced all the known and many rare varieties. Brussels sprouts, Swiss chards, German beets and Spanish radish were seen side by side with mammoth pumpkins, carrots (Oh! Won't they be dear next year!), well favored corn and gigantic celery.

The attendance—well, in describing the attendance one longs for the shows of England, with their vast throngs; still the attendance was fair, though hardly gratifying, and those who came seemed deeply interested. Phil.

NEW YORK.

Horticultural Society of New York.

The exhibition of the Horticultural Society of New York, November 3 to 7, was the greatest of all its successes, in beauty and quality of exhibits, and in attendance. Greatly encouraged by the response of the public were Secretary Nash, Manager Manda and all the officials of the organization. Over 50,000 had visited the show up to 5 p. m. Sunday and the management then counted on a record for the five days of close to 100,000.

The centers of interest were the three immense chrysanthemum plants from Adolph Lewisohn, of Ardsley, N. Y., where John Canning is superintendent and J. W. H. Campbell gardener. The varieties were Wells' Late Pink, R. F. Felton, yellow, and Lady Lydia, white. The three plants carried over 3,000 blossoms and were nine to ten feet in diameter.

In roses, Louis A. Noe, A. N. Pierson, F. R. Pierson Co. and L. B. Coddington maintained their reputations. J. D. Cockcroft, of Northport, carried off the carnation honors. Harry Turner staged a magnificent group of foliage and decorative plants. Chas. Weber and C. H. Totty exhibited the new carnation, Brooklyn, which they will jointly disseminate next year. The group of ferns from F. R. Pierson Co. included all the splendid varieties it has introduced in the last ten years. Even the Boston show displayed no more interesting staging of orchids than those by Lager & Hurrell, the Julius Roehrs Co. and Joseph Manda. A. N. Pierson, of Cromwell, Conn., won silver medals for his new roses, Double White Killarney and Killarney Queen. Chas. Weber was given a certificate of merit for Brooklyn carnation. Chas. H. Totty's Sunburst won the silver medal, and R. Vincent, Jr., & Sons Co., of White Marsh, Md., received special mention for a display of hardy chrysanthemums.

The Museum proved an admirable place for the exhibition, the flowers retaining their freshness remarkably well.

There were four exhibitors in the classes for chrysanthemum plants: John Canning, gardener to Adolph Lewisohn, Ardsley, N. Y.; Harry Turner, gardener to Samuel Untermyer, Yonkers; Wm. Cordes, gardener to F. V. Burton, Newburgh, and Max Schneider, gardener to Charles Hathaway, East Orange, N. J. They divided the premiums, Mr. Canning taking the sweepstakes.

In the open classes for cut chrysanthemums Harry Turner was the principal exhibitor, taking first on twelves in each color. James Stuart, gardener for Mrs. F. A. Constable, Mamaroneck, was first on twenty-five varieties on short stems, also on singles. Charles Mallory, Portchester, was first for pompons. J. W. Everits, gardener for T. J. Pratt, and Henry Gaut, gardener to H. L. Pratt, Glencove, had some good entries in these classes. In the classes for cut mums, open only to private gardeners, the same exhibitors were prominent, but had to surrender a part of the trophies to R. Bottomly, gardener to W. H. Fischer, New Canaan, Conn., and Alex. Mackenzie, gardener to Percy Chubb, Glencove.

In foliage and decorative plants Harry Turner was a successful exhibitor, as was Julius Roehrs Co. Others who won in these classes were Charles Webber, gardener to J. H. Wright, and Wm. Reid, gardener to S. M. & A. Colgate, the latter of Orange, N. J. F. R. Pierson Co. was first on ferns.

Of the seventeen classes for orchids, sixteen were filled, the awards going to Lager & Hurrell, Julius Roehrs Co., J. A. Manda, Siebrecht & Son, J. P. Mossman, gardener to Clement Moore, Hackensack, N. J.; Edwin Thomas, gardener to Mrs. Henry Graves, Orange, and Wm. Cordes. The latter took all the awards in the classes open only to gardeners, also the non-commercial carnation awards. John Dervan, gardener to A. C. Van Gaasbeck, Orange, won in all the classes for private gardeners' roses.

The awards in the open classes for roses were:

Fifty Beauties—Louis A. Noe, Madison, N. J., first; F. R. Pierson Co., Tarrytown, N. Y., second.

Fifty Bridesmaid—Louis A. Noe, first.

Fifty Brides—Louis A. Noe, first.

Fifty Killarney—L. B. Coddington, Murray Hill, N. J., first; Louis A. Noe, second.

Fifty Richmond—L. B. Coddington, first.

Fifty My Maryland—Louis A. Noe, first; F. R. Pierson Co., second.

Fifty White Killarney—F. R. Pierson Co., first; Louis A. Noe, second.

American Institute Show.

The exhibition of the American Institute at Berkeley Lyceum, November 1 to 3, with W. C. Rickards as manager, was a most successful and creditable exhibition, the arrangement of the displays being especially good and the quality of the exhibits of the highest order. The attendance of gardeners was greater than usual and the public contingent quite up to other years. The lack of room, both for exhibits and visitors, was emphasized.

C. H. Totty staged his Sunburst and Radiance roses and his new carnation, Wodenethe, as well as a fine assortment of single and pompon mums, for which he received special prizes. Louis A. Noe captured his usual honors for American Beauties, Brides and Maids, and J. D. Cockcroft's new pink seedling also won first premium in carnations.

A bank of orchids aggregating nearly $1,000 in value was staged by the Julius Roehrs Co. Lager & Hurrell also exhibited a magnificent collection of cattleyas and cypripediums, receiving the highest honors. Harry Turner arranged a group of flowering and foliage plants, orchids and celosias that was the most attractive feature of the exhibition. The chrysanthemum display was exceptionally good. The winning flowers were F. E. Nash, Donnellan, Duckham, Syme, Kahn, Morrison, Glen View, William Turner and Pockett's Crimson. The principal winners among the gardeners were William Verts, Wm. Turner, J. G. Kennedy, J. T. Burns, Geo. H. Hall, Geo. Middleton, W. Dowlen, Peter Duff and Alex. Robertson. The bush mums shown by Peter Duff were the perfect specimens that this expert always produces. A special prize was given R. Vincent, Jr., & Sons Co., for a collection of pompons.

Other winners among the gardeners were J. W. Everett, Ewen MacKenzie, Chas. Webber, Robert Spiers, A. Wynne, John Derban, A. Alexander, C. D. Schaeffer and Wm. Mallory.

One of the noticeable absentees was Col. D. Appleton mum, not one flower of which was shown.

It was unfortunate that two such splendid exhibitions should overlap. The success of both demonstrates the greatness of achievement possible when they join hands and harmonize in a united effort, and with room and facilities commensurate with their mission in the metropolis. J. Austin Shaw.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y.

The annual show of the Dutchess County Horticultural Society was a complete success. The exhibits were of a high standard throughout. The leading prize winners in the trade were Saltford Flower Shop, which had an especially fine collection of orchids, and Valentine Burgevin's Sons, who showed a grand lot of roses. The amateur classes were well filled and the exhibits included some of the choicest stock thus far seen in the Hudson valley. The leading prize winners were: James Blair, gardener to D. O. Mills; Henry Allen, gardener to F. W. Vanderbilt; J. Whiting, gardener to Prof. Sargent; Henry Osterhoudt, gardener to W. P. Clyde. The latter had a fine collection of seedlings of single varieties, a white of the anemone type being included that was especially fine. M.

SWEET PEA SOCIETY.

At the executive meeting of the National Sweet Pea Society of America, held at the Parker House, Boston, November 3, President Sim presiding, it was decided that the fourth summer and annual exhibition and convention of the society should be held in Boston, July 13 and 14, 1912, in conjunction with the Massachusetts Horticultural Society's exhibition, $400 being set aside to be offered for prizes as follows:

For wholesale growers	$100.00
For private gardeners	100.00
For the amateurs	100.00
For retail florists	100.00

The above will be in addition to the general list of special prizes donated, also apart from the prizes offered by the Massachusetts Horticultural Society.

There will be a meeting of the schedule committee in Boston about the middle of the month; suggestions and prizes for this schedule are invited. Address the secretary at 342 West Fourteenth street, New York. We shall hope to have the schedule published not later than December 1.

BAINBRIDGE'S SUCCESS.

At Mount Airy, Pa., William Bainbridge, whose face appears in a corner of the accompanying illustration, has had excellent success with Chrysanthemum Jeanne Nonin. This variety now has been in the trade for some years, and there have been a number of new sorts introduced as possessing superior merit on one point or another, but Mr. Bainbridge has not found anything that could surpass Nonin as an all-around commercial variety, though he thinks well, also, of Beatrice May.

WORK OF THE MUM SOCIETY.

[The address of President Elmer D. Smith at the annual meeting of the Chrysanthemum Society of America at St. Louis, November 8, 1911.]

This is our tenth annual joint meeting and exhibition and, as we will soon be making history in a new decade, permit me to briefly refer to what has taken place since the Chrysanthemum Society of America was organized.

This society was instituted at Buffalo in August, 1896, and from that time until the first exhibition was held in Chicago, in 1902, the annual meetings were held in the summer, during the convention of the S. A. F. The establishment of annual exhibitions with executive sessions seemed to give the society new life.

The Premier Accomplishment.

To my mind the most worthy and beneficial act the society performed during its existence was that of appointing committees to commend such new varieties as they consider improvements and worthy of being disseminated. We owe much to these committees, which meet at intervals during the flowering season, at Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Cincinnati and Chicago, to inspect and pass judgment upon these new candidates. The unselfish devotion they have given in time and money to this work enables the society to point out to the buying public the best kinds for their purpose. Their unbiased judgment is clearly set forth by the fact that the majority of the most popular kinds today have received their approval.

You may question the truth of this statement by citing some which have not come up to your expectations, but if you will scan the list of varieties now conceded as our best commercial sorts you will find the large majority have been certificated by this society through its committees. It is not to be expected they can determine such defects as are either constitutional or controlled by cultural methods, such as diseases, lack of fullness or difficulty of propagation. No mortal optics are so keen as to detect such blemishes from the six blooms submitted. Everyone interested in chrysanthemums should sing praise to these men, who so unselfishly and possibly unconsciously have done so much to benefit us all. I doubt if many of us fully appreciate how general and far-reaching are the advantages we now enjoy and that this boon is largely due to the benevolent spirit of these committeemen. Since their inauguration there has been a wonderful curtailment in the number of novelties offered. In 1893 there were disseminated 180 American and 130 foreign, or 310 new varieties were brought out in a single year. Under such conditions it was difficult to select the most suitable, and in those days, when there was no safeguard against imposition, it was not unusual for introducers to include varieties of little merit. Since the appointment of these committees, in 1894, these numbers have been growing less year by year, until the offerings for the present are twenty American and fifty-five foreign, of which fifteen were certificated by this society. And so I say, all do not appreciate what has been bestowed upon us. The introducers are seeking higher standards in preference to large numbers, and the purchasers, whether commercial growers, private gardeners or amateurs, have greater confidence in those kinds which are sufficiently meritorious to pass their critical examination.

Membership Should Be Larger.

Although our membership is slightly on the increase, rather than waning, the society has not received full value in return for this service given all lovers of the queen of autumn. We have received the hearty support of only a small portion of those interested in this important branch of floriculture. We have been unable to impress upon the many the importance and our earnest desire of their hearty coöperation. As previously stated, the time was when the report of exhibitions was our chief guidance in making selections, but now the nuts are all cracked and the meats are placed before you. This one feature alone should be of sufficient importance to secure the membership of every grower interested in the best and latest kinds. All the society demands is $2 annual membership fee, and I venture most of us spend this small amount in some frivolous way, without benefit to ourselves or to any worthy cause. It seems strange, with the vast number deeply interested, that so small a portion see they owe a moral obligation in supporting so worthy a cause.

The Improvement of Varieties.

We want your counsel and advice. We want you to assist in formulating new plans whereby greater benefit will exist. You can assist us. I mean all of you. If you grow but a few hundred plants, it is worth more than the paltry sum we ask to receive our annual report and feel you are associated with those whose endeavors are for the betterment of all. A brighter future, with greater achievements, will be wrought by putting into force the proverb, "Heaven helps them who help themselves."

Just a few words on what has been accomplished during the last decade toward improvement of varieties in this country. In 1902 our earliest white, Mme. Bergmann, was seen on the market early in October. Now we can have larger and better flowers in July, if desired. The same may be said regarding the yellows. Pinks have not advanced in the same ratio, although Unaka may be had in fine form in the first week of October. We also have been given such good varieties as Dolly Dimple, Golden Eagle, Lynnwood Hall, Chrysolora and others, which show marked advances in their particular color and type.

During the last few years equal gains are manifest in the exhibition section. Such newcomers as F. E. Nash, Lenox, Glencove and Morristown compare favorably in size and finish with the importations. The limit has not been reached and if we progress we must have better qualities, for when we consider the qualities requisite for the best commercial and exhibition sorts, it does not take long to discern wherein most of them are deficient. In the commercials we might have better midseason whites; a good pink as early as Golden Glow; a type with foliage up to the bloom, to which some of the later productions are showing a marked tendency, and many of the exhibition varieties would be greatly improved if foliage could be supplemented for the long, bare neck, while others would add to the appearance of our exhibitions if their stems were stiffer.

While this society allows artificial supports, I predict the time is not far distant when this measure will be repealed. To my mind, those which cannot sustain their blooms are of slight consequence, regardless of other qualifications, and artificial supports in all classes calling for vases of twelve blooms or more should be eliminated. Why should we encourage retrogression rather than insist that our standard of excellence shall ever continue upward? There are qualities other than size that appeal to the refined taste, and we should not forget that color and form are the fundamentals underlying beauty as nature presents it; nor should we degrade these two characteristics in our effort to increase size.

Let us hope for greater achievements and focus our force and energy to that end, so that when the hourglass of time marks the closing of the next decade we will then realize how weak we are at the present. As a society we have obligations to perform. Let us all join hands in an effort to increase our usefulness for the betterment of all. In union there is strength, and earnest endeavor leads to success.

C. S. A. ANNUAL MEETING.

Officers Elected.

The annual business meeting, at which President Elmer D. Smith read the address printed on this and the preceding page, was held at the Coliseum, St. Louis, Mo., on Wednesday afternoon, November 8, the attendance being about what it has averaged for some years past. The reports showed the society to be making steady if not rapid progress. The principal business was the election of officers for the ensuing year, which resulted as follows:

President—Charles H. Totty, Madison, N. J.

Vice-president—Wallace R. Pierson, Cromwell, Conn.

Secretary—Charles W. Johnson, Morgan Park, Ill., reelected.

Treasurer—John N. May, Summit, N. J., reelected.

It was resolved to push the work the society has done, in the next year, harder than ever.

THE WORK OF H. R. FISHER.

The accompanying illustrations are reproduced from photographs showing the work of H. R. Fisher, of Marysville, Kan. The cross, the lyre and the anchor are designs that every florist is called on to make with frequency.

BULBS EATEN BY MOLES.

Last year, when I took the covering off my bulbs, I found they had been nearly all eaten by meadow moles. I don't want that to happen to my bulbs this year. Can you tell me what to do to prevent it? I put the bulbs on the east side of the greenhouse and cover them over with ashes and leaves.

J. J. K.

As meadow moles are so destructive with you, it would be much better if you stored your bulbs on the floor of a cold cellar. There is no necessity or good reason for storing bulbs outdoors, unless it is for want of space indoors for them. When stored inside they can be reached at any time, even in the most severe weather, something not always possible when they are protected outdoors. If you have no cellar, closed shed or pit, utilize a coldframe and put sashes over them when the weather becomes severe. If you have no possible indoor storage place, all you can do is to use mole traps, standing these in their runs and examining them frequently. You should be able to build a framework of planks or boards to enclose the bulbs; these, if sunk down to the bottom of the soft earth, would probably keep out the pests. The best way, however, is to keep your bulbs under cover, where they can be cool; do not place them near fire heat.

TO KILL MOLES AND RATS.

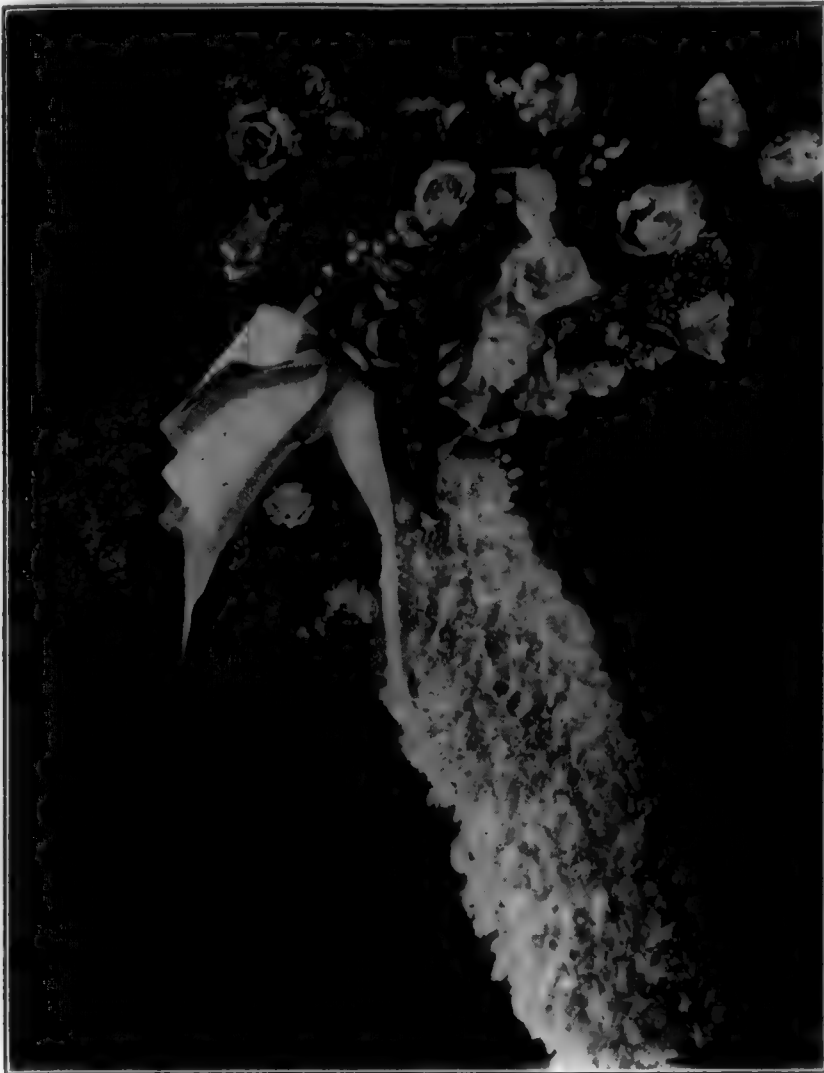

What is the best way to kill moles and rats in the greenhouse? They are causing me a great deal of trouble. There are moles in practically every solid bed in the house.

S. S.

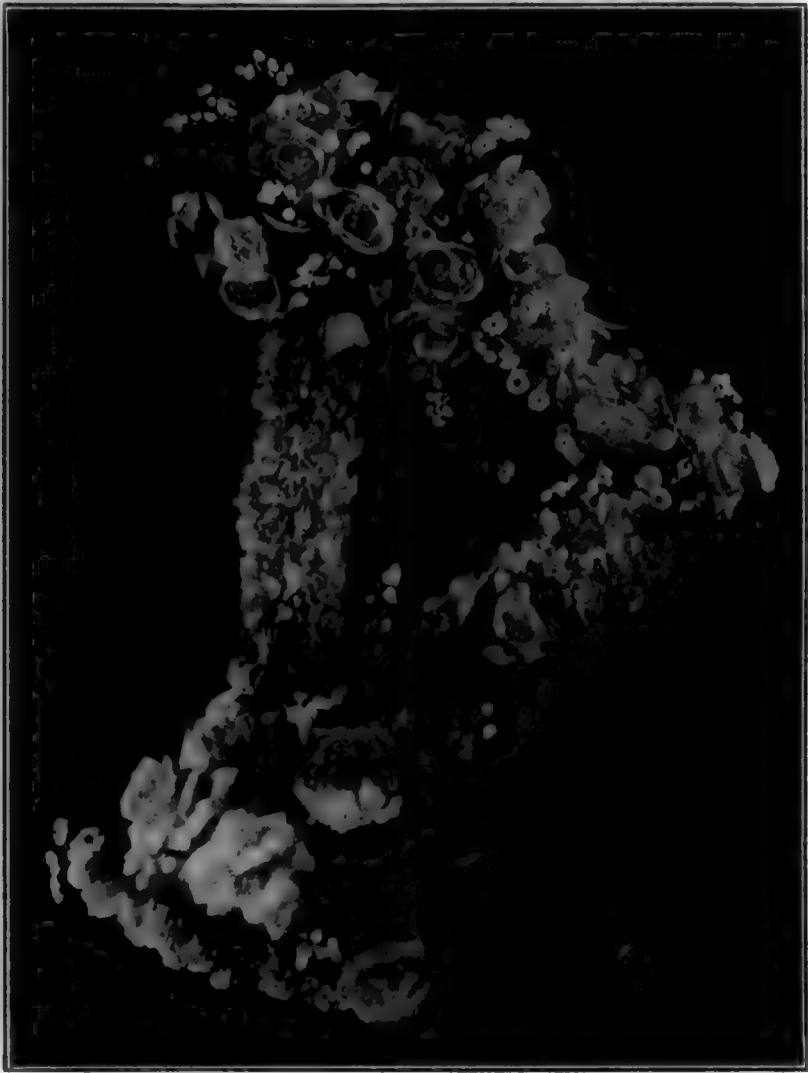

Keep one or two good cats around the greenhouses; they are better than poisons or traps for rats and mice. For moles secure one or two of the special mole traps such as the Olmsted or Red-dick; the latter we find catches them every time. Place the trap so that it is in their runs. There is little use of laying poison for them. You can poison the rats by mixing Rough-on-Rats or rat biscuit with finely chopped meat and laying it around, or making a bread sandwich of it. If you can stop up the holes thoroughly, pour a few spoonfuls of carbon bisulphide down each hole and close it up at once with soil. Carbide dropped down a hole, moistened and then covered, also suffocates. Traps can be used, always being careful to cover them with bran or chaff and to hold them over the fire after each rat has been caught, to take away any smell, as rats are suspicious characters. C. VINCAS FOR SPRING SALES.

I have serious trouble with soil and water. Our city water was originally caught in a pool, but there has been little rain for three years and it is now dry. The city has put in two deep wells giving plenty of water, but strong with alkaline soda—too strong for plants in pots, and the soil which I have used for sixteen years seems to be in the same fix, so I can no longer grow ferns in benches or pots. Is there anything I can do to counteract the difficulty? If so, please let me know.

What is the best method of keeping flowering vincas through the winter from seedlings sown now, or when is the best time to sow for spring plants. A. D. H. Jr.

It would not pay to carry over plants of the flowering vincas (V. rosea) under glass. The best plan is to sow seeds about the end of February in pans or flats in a warm, moist house and pot them off singly when of sufficient size. Grow them quite warm until well established in the pots; then gradually inure them to cooler treatment.

I regret my inability to answer concerning alkaline soda in the soil and water. Perhaps some Texas, Colorado or other grower accustomed to similar soils could give some helpful advice. C. W.

VIOLETS IN A FRAME.

I wish to grow a few violets and I thought I might plant them under sashes at the south side of my carnation house. They would get full sunshine there, and in cold weather a door might also be opened to admit some heat from the greenhouse. I have never grown violets and I should like to know what variety would be most suitable under the conditions described. Would field-grown plants be suitable? H. E. S.

Violets will do well planted under sashes, as suggested. You do not state whether you want a double or single variety. If you want a double sort, Lady Hume Campbell is among the most reliable, being more immune from disease than most others. If singles are desired, the best one for you will be Princess of Wales. This ranks so far above all other singles that it is really in a class by itself. Field plants are the best and you should secure them without delay. It is getting late for the planting of doubles, which are also less hardy than the singles. The latter should have a little frost before housing, or they will make a strong leaf growth at the expense of flowers. The night temperature for Princess of Wales violets should not exceed 40 degrees in winter. C. W.

HYACINTHS.

Can I leave single Dutch and Roman hyacinths in a cold bed outside all winter and do they need much protection? Also, please give the names of some late varieties of the same kind which could be kept to blossom for Decoration day. L. A. G.

Both Dutch and Roman hyacinths can be kept in a cold frame if well protected. The latter variety is naturally early and can not be held back as late as the Dutch hyacinths, which can be kept until the middle of April, but none of the hyacinths can be retarded until Memorial day. The Dutch hyacinths, when in pots or flats, are not hurt by a slight freezing, but the Romans must not be allowed to freeze. Cover them with a good layer of fine, coal ashes or sand and over this a thick bed of perfectly dry leaves. C. W.

SEASONABLE

SUGGESTIONS

Canterbury Bells.

Canterbury bells make superb flowering plants in pots, usually of excellence superior to such as are grown outdoors. It is time now to lift and pot the plants, using 6-inch to 8-inch pots, according to the size of the seedlings. The singles make the most desirable pot plants. Next to them comes the calycanthema or hose in hose type. The double-flowered ones are too heavy. Pink and pure white are the best selling colors. Keep outdoors in an open, sunny spot after potting, placing in a coldframe before the weather becomes too severe. House early in December for Easter flowering. For Memorial day blooming, they must be kept cold and held back as much as possible. Even as cut flowers, there are few varieties as generally useful as Canterbury bells and anyone with a big batch at Memorial day will coin money on them.

Coreopsis Grandiflora.

Coreopsis grandiflora is another perennial, usually, however, treated as a biennial, which, while popular as a border plant, has been but little appreciated as a pot plant. Pot up a number of strong roots in the same way as Canterbury bells. Keep outdoors for another month; then place in a coldframe and, in order to provide a succession of bloom, house a few plants every week after Christmas. For Memorial day flowers, place in a temperature of 50 to 55 degrees at night after Easter and they will be on time. As these are strong rooting plants, they require copious water supplies when growing. If any bare benches are at disposal, plant out a batch and secure extra strong stems in abundance.

Stevias.

Stevias will do well in any house kept just clear of frost, but in order to have a succession of blooms, a few pots should be placed in gentle heat, say 50 degrees at night, each week. There is such a quantity of flowers in season through November that it is not well to have too many other miscellaneous flowers. When mums are on the wane the stevias, bulbous flowers, and other odds and ends sell well.

Linum Trigynum.

Not much grown nowadays, the charming yellow flowering plant, Linum trigynum, is in danger of being lost altogether. It is true the individual flowers do not last long, but we have nothing of this rich orange-yellow color flowering when it does. In a temperature of 50 degrees from this time on, the plants will be in excellent shape for Christmas, and anyone with a batch of them in 6-inch pots, carrying over a dozen flowers each, will have no trouble in disposing of them. The proper botanical name of these is Reinward-tia trigyna, but the older name, linum, is nearly always used still by growers, who also prefer spiraea to astilbe, croton to codiaum and dracena to cordyline, to say nothing of many other rechristened plants, whose new names mean but little to those who are not botanists.

Biennials and Perennials.

There are a number of biennials and perennials which, while hardy in many states, are not so in others. This class comprises Canterbury bells, foxgloves, Coreopsis grandiflora, sweet-williams and a variety of somewhat tender perennials, including tritomas, Anemone Japonica, rehmannias and incarvilleas. The last named keeps well stored in sand; the others named should be planted quite thickly in coldframes, soaked well with water and left exposed to the weather until sharp frost hardens the soil about them, when a covering of dry leaves can be scattered on them, and sashes over these will provide an ideal winter protection.

Summer Flowering Greenhouse Bulbs.

Gloxinias and tuberous begonias, when they have lost their tops, can be shaken out of their pots and packed in boxes of sand for the winter. Often we see them laid under benches in the greenhouses, the prey of sowbugs and other larvæ and getting drip in addition. This is a poor way to keep them, and a slovenly one. In the boxes of sand they will winter in any shed or cellar in a temperature of 40 to 45 degrees; the gloxinias should have a little more warmth than the begonias. Achimenes can be laid away on their sides on a shelf, and later, when time permits, the roots can be picked out. Fancy-leaved caladiums will soon be losing their foliage; they should be stored in a warm, dry place for the winter; 60 degrees at night will be found about right, and they are better left in the pots than shaken out.

Poinsettias.

The bracts will soon show on the poinsettias, and on and after that time the plants must not, on any account, receive any check. A night temperature of 60 degrees, or as near that figure as possible, will keep them growing nicely and develop the bracts well in season for Christmas. With shortening days, water must be applied with greater care. In summer the plants seem to keep green, no matter how they are treated; it is otherwise now. Do the watering in the morning; this applies not only to poinsettias, but to all other plants. Use stimulants judiciously; an overdose means a complete loss of foliage, so it is always better to use moderate doses. Late propagated plants may still be made up into small pans and, if kept warm, will make neat little bracts.

BOTH HAVE STIGMONOSE.

Herewith I send you a few specimens of my carnations. You will notice that the leaves are spotted. Would you kindly let me know what is the trouble and how I can remedy it?

P. C. M.

I am sending you some leaves of my Enchantress carnations, which are affected with some kind of disease that is new to me, and I shall be thankful for any information you can give me about the trouble. The carnations were planted in the latter part of July. The soil was top sod—three loads of soil to one of manure, and the plants are in the pink of condition for this season of the year. I keep my beds moist all the time; by this I mean, not too wet or too dry, but ideal for carnations, and when I water I soak the beds through. I syringe but little, as there is no need for it, the plants being free from parasites. This disease seems to me to be a drying up of the fleshy part of the leaves, between the little skin on both sides of the leaves. When I bend a leaf and pull off the little skin, I can see that the fleshy part in various places is dried up. As seen in the benches, the leaves on the young growths show little blotches of white and look like variegated leaves. I keep the temperature as near to 50 degrees as possible, considering these warm nights. I notice that the growths seem a little soft. Any information you can give me will be thankfully received.

A. F. W.

The specimens forwarded by both of these inquirers are badly affected with the disease called stigmonose. This is one of the most prevalent of all the carnation diseases, and while it is not infectious, like the leaf-spot or fairy ring, yet, if it is allowed to go unmolested, it will sooner or later destroy the vitality of your stock. In fact, it seems that most varieties, after they have served their time, become affected with this disease, which finishes them off. In many cases this disease helps to send a variety down the toboggan sooner than its natural time.

These light spots are dried-up cells in the leaf. These cells were destroyed by bacteria which were introduced through the puncture of some insect, such as aphid or thrips. You will perhaps remember some time in the past when your plants were allowed to become infested with one of these pests.

The more numerous the insects were allowed to get, the more of these light spots you may look for in your stock in the future. So, you see, here is where that old adage, about an ounce of prevention being worth more than a pound of cure, comes true.

After your stock is once affected with this disease, there is only one way to combat it, and that is through a process of elimination. You can not reach it through outside remedies, such as the spraying materials afford. In fact, you can do but little to prevent its appearance in your present stock. Growing your plants normally, avoiding all heavy feeding and, in fact, avoiding everything which will tend toward softening the growth, should be your constant aim in handling the plants on your benches now.

You can improve your stock for next year by selecting your cuttings from only such plants as do not show any of these spots. After they are rooted and potted, go over them occasionally and throw out those which show these spots. Only in this way can you hope to eradicate the disease from your stock. If there is much of it in your stock, you will not likely be able to clean it out in one season. It may take several years to do it, but if you keep at it you will be able to see an improvement each season. It is, of course, needless to say that you must keep the plants free from insects right along, else your work will go for naught, as they will inoculate the plants faster than you can cure them.

In considering this disease one comes to another pertinent question, and that is: Will it pay to put several years of hard work on a variety which may have almost run its course? Consider this phase of the question before you begin, and satisfy yourself first as to whether the variety, after it is restored to health, will be as good as another one which may be free from the disease. Perhaps it would pay you better to discard the diseased sort at the end of this season and stock up with a new variety, which still has its full measure of vitality.

WHAT IS EATING THE PLANTS?

We are in trouble on account of something that is eating our carnations. We first noticed its depredations about three weeks ago, on two plants that were growing side by side on a raised bench. A great deal of the foliage is gnawed off and is found lying on the soil. Thinking the pests might be mice, we tried the use of Paris green, in bread and milk, on cheese, and in wheat bran and milk. We also set two mouse traps, but thus far we have not caught anything. Later we got a rat trap, but still there was "nothing doing." For a while we thought the work of destruction had stopped, but it has started again at two places in different parts of the bed. This section of Montana is a great country for mice, I am told, but the traps baited with cheese ought to get the mice. I have thought, too, that our unwelcome visitors might be moles, as we were bothered in the east by them. Can some reader of The Review tell us what to do? H. C. G.

Racine, Wis.—The new greenhouse recently completed by Clark E. Adams, on Washington avenue, has been formally opened to the public.

A START IN ERICAS.

Kindly let me know how to grow and propagate ericas. Please state, also, what are the best kinds for the market. My location is southwestern Iowa.

C. A. B.

As ericas in general are not among the easiest plants to manage, a beginner would be safest in experimenting with but a limited number and in only two or three kinds. Briefly stated, the ericas require a peaty soil, hard potting, good drainage and careful watering.

They are propagated by cuttings made from young shoots about one to two inches in length, which should be planted in well packed sand in a propagating frame or box, where the light and ventilation are under full control. Bottom heat is not necessary for rooting the cuttings, and the plants, when once established, prefer a night temperature of 45 degrees. In summer the ericas should be placed outdoors, the pots being plunged in ashes in order to keep the roots cool and moist. Particular care is required in watering, from the fact that the root system of these plants is a delicate one, and subject to injury from extremes of dryness or moisture.

Both species and varieties are numerous in the ericas, but three of the easiest to handle are E. hyemalis, E. melanthera and E. persoluta, and these three would come into bloom in succession from October to March or April.

The most troublesome insect pests that may be met with on ericas are red spider and thrips, but when grown under the proper conditions of heat and moisture and carefully syringed during the hot weather there should be but little difficulty from insects.

One other peculiarity of these plants that may be noted is the fact that extremely hard water is objectionable to them; that is, water containing an excess of lime.

J. OTTO THILOW.

J. Otto Thilow, the newly elected president of the Florists' Club of Philadelphia, is rapidly coming to the front in the floral affairs of the nation. Mr. Thilow is secretary of Henry A. Dreer, Inc., of Philadelphia, has charge of the trial seed grounds at Palmyra and at Riverview, N. J., and on horticultural topics is a lecturer of unusual ability. Mr. Thilow's early training was that of a florist at Newtown, Pa., a training that served him well when he joined William F. Dreer, J. D. Eisele, Herbert G. Tull and their associates. Under the name of Henry A. Dreer, Inc., their fame is known the world over. Phil.

Ballston Spa, N. Y.—A large new greenhouse has been added to the range on the John Schafer estate. The four benches were planted to roses, which are now giving a good cut. H. W. Bensell, the manager, says some good Golden Glow mums are also in crop.

SEASONABLE NOTES.

Cattleya Citrina.

Cattleya citrina, commonly called the tulip orchid, is a sweet-scented Mexican variety, often purchased by travelers in Mexico. It resents warm treatment. In its native home it is found at quite a high altitude on the mountains and it succeeds best here on blocks of hard wood on which some fern fiber is fastened, if hung well up to the ventilators in a cool house and given no shade except in the hottest weather. The bulbs will soon be made up, when the water supply can be considerably reduced, increasing it as the flower buds begin to push downward.

Vanda Cœrulea.

There are many failures with Vanda cœrulea, the lovely blue orchid, through its being grown too warm and shaded. Splendid dark green plants, which would win applause from anyone, can be thus grown, but they fail to flower satisfactorily. Unlike some other East Indian species, V. cœrulea likes plenty of sun and wants to be grown at the cooler rather than at the warmer end of the cattleya house. As the flowers start to expand, put them in a shaded place, so that the flowers will not fade out. Many spikes will already have been cut from this vanda, but a considerable crop is now due and occasional ones may be looked for until after New Year's. After flowering, any particularly tall plants which have lost their lower foliage may be cut down. They generally have plenty of roots and soon recover from being cut down. A compost of fern fiber and fresh sphagnum grows this vanda well.

Dendrobium Nobile.

Dendrobium nobile and its varieties, also many hybrids, D. Wardianum and some others, will now mostly have their growths well made up. As fast as the growths are well plumped up, hang them in a cool, dry house in the full sun to be thoroughly ripened, as this is essential to successful flowering. Merely water sufficiently to prevent shriveling, but give them a spraying over on hot days. Already flower nodes are showing on some hybrids. These will flower in January, when orchids are much in demand.

D. Phalaenopsis Schröderianum.

Dendrobium Phalaenopsis Schröderianum is one of the most graceful and satisfactory of fall flowering orchids. It is now producing plenty of its long, arching spikes of flowers. Some have produced twenty or more to the spike. For cutting, this variety is splendid. It does best in small pans or baskets, hung well up to the glass, and enjoys lots of heat and moisture, except after flowering, when it should be rested for a couple of months in a cooler house. The old form, D. Phalaenopsis, flowers later than Schröderianum, and the flowers are rather darker in color. It is useful at Christmas and lasts well into January.

Cattleya Trianae.

While Cattleya labiata has larger and showier flowers than C. Trianae and may be depended on to furnish flowers for some time yet, it is on C. Trianae that we depend in the main for our cattleya flowers in winter. A few sheaths now have buds peeping in them and these should be out for Christmas, but it is in January, February and March that the real crop comes in. C. Trianae likes a little more warmth than labiata. Give Trianae all possible light from now on. It is in some ways quite often disappointing, making up handsome bulbs from which we look for three to five flowers, and the result is often a solitary flower. C. labiata never disappoints us in this way and it is rather a pity that the two could not change places, as labiata would be the finer winter variety. Seeing this can not be, we must raise hybrids in quantity, containing labiata blood, which will flower abundantly in the first months of the year.

Lælia Anceps.

The Mexican lælias, including anceps, autumnalis, Gouldiana, flava, acuminata and others, do not need a high winter temperature; 55 degrees at night should not be exceeded. All will have spikes now well advanced. They should have a good supply of water until the flowering season passes. They should also have plenty of sun. Some of the earlier ones will naturally flower for Christmas, but the majority come rather later. Hang the pans or baskets up near the glass, lowering them if the spikes touch the roof and giving them a cooler and shadier location when the flowers expand.

NARCISSUS EMPEROR.

Will you kindly advise me through your paper how to treat Narcissus Emperor? I have a good cellar to put them in. Should I cover them with ashes or should I put them in flats in three or four inches of soil, and set them on the cellar bottom? Anything you can tell me will be appreciated.

C. A.

The Emperor will do well in flats containing four inches of soil, two-thirds loam, one-third well rotted manure and some sharp sand added. A cellar floor will answer very well provided there is no free heat in the cellar. If there is, you had better dig a trench outdoors where water will not stand. Lay five inches of cool ashes in the bottom. Then stand your flats over this; soak well with water and cover with a thin layer of ashes. Rains which may come will not harm the bulbs. As cold weather advances, cover with more ashes and a layer of strawy manure, over which boards can be laid. If you have a cool cellar, it will be better and more convenient than placing them outdoors.

PEAS FOR SUMMER CULTURE.

What are the best two sweet peas, in pink and white, for spring and summer inside culture where only five to eight feet of head room can be allowed?

S. S.

The Spencer type of sweet peas is the best for late spring and summer flowering under glass. Countess Spencer, the original of this type, a charming clear pink, and White Spencer, pure wavy white, would be an excellent pair of varieties to grow. Mont Blanc, pure white, is an earlier bloomer and also dwarfer in habit, but is not good after the early part of May. Watchung is another white, growing not over six feet high. While Christmas pink is a splendid midwinter and spring variety, in the warm weather you will find the Spencer varieties the best.

C. W.

GLADIOLI OR SWEET PEAS.

What would you advise me to put in a house of roses that has failed? I have been thinking of putting in gladioli and sweet peas. What kinds and at what time would you advise planting?

J. H.

It depends on which flower meets with the best call with you. I think sweet peas would prove the more profitable. They prefer solid beds to raised benches and want a generous compost with plenty of well rotted cow or sheep manure incorporated. Ground bone is also useful. Good sorts which should be sown now are: Watchung, Mont Blanc, Christmas White, or Florence Denzer in white; Christmas Pink, Mrs. Wm. Sim, salmon pink; Mrs. Alexander Wallace, lavender; Flamingo, scarlet. Leave the seedlings ten inches apart in the rows to insure strong haulm and fine flower spikes, and run the night temperature 45 to 48 degrees. The higher figure should be maintained when they start to flower.

It might pay to plant some gladioli in a part of the house. The sweet pea temperature would suit them. In large varieties, use America, Mrs. F. King, Augusta and Shakespeare. These can not be planted until December, but you can get bulbs of such sorts as Colvillei The Bride, Peach Blossom, Ackermanni, Blushing Bride and others of the small flowering or nanus type now. The latter can go quite thickly in the beds or benches, and will start to flower with you about March 20. A soil which suits roses will do equally well for gladioli. C. W.

THAT THIN CONCRETE BENCH.

I note in The Review for October 5 a description of the concrete bench built by Loyd C. Bunch and am specially interested to note that his bottom slabs are only half an inch thick. Is this correct? Can such benches, even if reinforced with expanded metal, be strong enough to support the weights put upon the average greenhouse bench? H. O.

The one-half inch in thickness for the slabs is correct. I would say in justifying this thickness that it is not strong enough to get onto with a wheelbarrow or for a man to walk on. I use three stringers lengthwise of the bench to lay the slabs on. I use 1x4 common pine. Of course cypress would be better, but with the small surface exposed to drip, pine will last a long time. I set the outside stringers two or three inches in from the ends of the slab, with one in the middle. I find this is strong enough for a cutting bench and for standing pot plants in. I have not yet tried them for carnations, etc., where they carry soil, but am sure they will hold, for the load is even. A weight as heavy as a man standing between the stringers will bend the slab and crack it, but not break it entirely, because of the metal reinforcing. I believe a thickness of one inch would be strong enough to wheel soil over if the stringers were placed sixteen inches apart. The added expense for material for a slab one inch thick would be little. The advantage of this kind of construction is in the saving of time and forms to build them. Better drainage is also a good point in its favor.

I believe the solution for a good concrete bench lies in the proper reinforcement, more than in the seeking for better molds, etc. I use metal lath. There perhaps is better metal for the purpose than this, but I have not been in touch with a concern which has any to answer the purpose better. The only thing necessary to make this construction an ideal one in my mind would be to have metal made for the purpose. The mesh would do as well if twice as large as in the metal lath and so made that about three pieces of bar iron about $\frac{3}{4} \times \frac{3}{8}$ or $\frac{3}{4} \times \frac{1}{2}$ could be threaded lengthwise, on edge, through the metal. This would give it stiffness enough, I believe, for a half-inch slab to hold up any weight required, when supports were sixteen inches apart or perhaps more. With a reinforcement of this kind a bench could be made so cheaply and easily that wood benches would soon be a thing of the past.

I would be glad to see any editorial comments on this method. We are all here to learn. Loyd C. Bunch.

MILLEPEDS.

Will you please tell us what to do with some pests that are troubling us? They are a sort of thousand-legged worms, which are white when small and gradually get darker until grown, when they are dark brown and about one inch long. They get under the pots and do not seem to do much harm, except that they crawl up in the pots and eat the roots of some kinds of plants. There are millions of little ones coming on.

A. G.

The pests in question are millepeda. While not greatly injurious to growing plants, they are a nuisance. Fumigating with nicotine paper on two or three successive evenings will destroy most of them, with the exception of those beneath the pots, where the nicotine fumes may not reach them. W. H. T.

FLORAL HILL GREENHOUSES.

On Wednesday and Thursday, November 1 and 2, the Iowa Seed Co., of Des Moines, celebrated the completion of its new greenhouses by holding a formal opening. The firm has entirely rebuilt the plant during the last two years and has just finished eight fine new houses. The range, which is known as the Floral Hill Greenhouses, comprises thirty-two large houses, and the Floral Hill grounds extend for five blocks on Thirty-first street, running from Kingman boulevard south to Center street.

The opening was well advertised in advance, by means of circulars and newspaper announcements, and large crowds attended, in spite of the fact that the houses are six blocks from the street car line. One of the principal attractions was a large number of somewhat rare plants, such as are not usually seen in ordinary commercial greenhouses.

CATERPILLARS ON FERNS.

We are sending you some ferns which have been eaten by a green worm. We have used all of the remedies of which we have heard, but the pests still get on the plants and they are ruining all the new fronds. Can you tell me what is the best thing to do? J. F. C.

Hand-picking is the safest remedy for these caterpillars on Boston ferns, and the best time to do it is in the early morning, for at that time the worms are likely to be still feeding. The worms could also be killed by thoroughly dusting the plants with powdered hellebore or with Slug Shot, but as these remedies do not wash off readily, they are likely to spoil the appearance of the plants to a greater or less extent. W. H. T.

SPORES, NOT SCALES.

I am sending you some maidenhair fern. Can you tell me what to do for it? Every leaf is covered with brown scales and in time they all dry up. I have tried warm soap suds with a little ammonia water in it, but this does not help. C. H.

The brown scales referred to in this query are not insects, but are the sporangia, or spore cases, beneath which the spores, or seeds, are formed; the latter being found in the form of brown dust when ripe. This is a natural growth on the fern leaf, and the form and arrangement of these spore cases on the leaves of ferns are marked characteristics, by means of which the botanist is enabled to classify the various families of ferns. W. H. T.

EVANSVILLE, IND.

The Market.

Business has improved considerably of late and the florists have the happy feeling that always comes after such killing frosts as occurred last week. During the greater part of the last ten days the weather has been cloudy and cold and the thermometers registered as low as 24 degrees on two mornings. There have been several weddings and receptions, and mums were used chiefly for the decorations. All Saints' day was celebrated here on Sunday, November 5, and an immense amount of mums, roses and carnations were used in making designs and sprays. Not much stock had to be bought, as most of it is grown here.

Various Notes.

Theo. D. Kuebler, of the Santa Rosa Fruit Farm, has been bringing in some good mums and carnations. The Blackman Floral Co. takes all his carnations and gets a large part of the mums. Mr. Kuebler had a yellow sport of October frost this season; a plant with four stems had one white flower, one fine yellow flower and two that were not so good. Mr. Kuebler has an automobile delivery and his place is about nine miles west of the city.

Julius Niednagel & Sons were exceedingly busy in preparation for All Saints' day. Their business for this day is always great. They are cutting about 1,500 roses per day and have sale for all of them. Their shipping trade is increasing right along.

The Blackman Floral Co. was especially busy on Saturday, November 4. It is seldom that they are not busy. They have large daily cuts of mums, roses, carnations and green goods. The smilax is extra fine, the strings being long and heavy. The mums sell as fast as they are brought to the store, $3 per dozen being the best price so far.

T. L. Metcalfe, of Hopkinsville, Ky., has opened a store at 210 Upper Fifth street, in this city. On Saturday, November 4, Mr. Metcalfe was here for the opening. William Hewick has been engaged as manager and lives here. Mr. Metcalfe has large establishments for the growing of stock at Hopkinsville and Madisonville, Ky., 6,000 feet of glass at Clarksville, Tenn., and a store and greenhouse at Jackson, Tenn. He also operates three laundries. He was a printer, by trade, but has given it up for his other enterprises, only doing his own printing. For his opening he had a large stock of mums, roses and carnations from his plants at Hopkinsville and Madisonville. For decorative plants he had palms and ferns. The store is only a few doors from Main street. The first day's business was satisfactory.

J. C. Elsperman is cutting some fine mums and has lots of them still to come. His trade for All Saints' day was immense, but he had plenty of flowers this year, while last year he was short of stock.

Louis Fritsch is putting up another small house, doing the work himself, with the help of his father. His carnations are fine.

Ben Kramer is using lots of mums, roses and carnations. He gets most of his stock from Otto Kuebler, of Newburg, Ind.

Karl Zeidler was extra busy in the last week of October. He returned from his fishing trip on the Wabash and says that some fine bass were caught.

Mrs. Henry Seymour is out of the hospital and at home. She is improving slowly.

Royston & Fenton say that the mums hurt the sale of roses. Their roses are going off crop now and they look for a good Christmas crop.

Miss Nellie Goodge is improving in health steadily. She has a nice cut of mums.

Frank Johnson, of the A. L. Randall Co., Chicago, was here calling on the trade November 6. E. L. F.

OBITUARY.

Norman J. Coleman.

Norman J. Coleman, secretary of agriculture in the cabinet of President Cleveland, died November 3 in a sleeper on a Wabash train bound for St. Louis. He was 84 years of age. Mr. Coleman's first business connection was when he started a nursery in partnership with C. C. Sanders, of St. Louis, the firm being Coleman & Sanders. In 1882 he was president of the American Association of Nurserymen. Perhaps his widest fame was as editor of Coleman's Rural World.

Elijah Huftelen.

Elijah Huftelen, known to many in the trade as a grower of hardy lilies, died at his home, near Le Roy, N. Y., October 26, after a brief illness, brought on by the general infirmities of age. He was born near Le Roy, April 25, 1838. In his youth his education was limited to the common school branches, but later in life he entered Starkey Seminary and became proficient in Latin, Greek and Hebrew. He was successful as a public speaker and as a writer for the press. He was well known locally as an importer and exporter of bulbs and plants and his lily farm was one of the attractions of the neighborhood. He is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Louisa Fisk, of Morganville, and Mrs. Ellen Bushman, of Stafford, and by one brother, Adelbert Huftelen, of Le Roy. He has been succeeded in business as a grower by Geo. C. Richmond.

John J. Murphy.

John J. Murphy died at his home at New Castle, Ind., October 28. He was formerly employed by Julius Niednagel, of Evansville, Ind., but at the time of death was with the South Park Floral Co., New Castle.

Springfield, Mass.—L. D. Robinson, Jr., claims to be the largest grower of bulbous stock in the city, most of which is disposed of over the counter. J. W. Adams & Co. report an excellent fall season for nursery stock, and have some big orders ahead.

...NEWS NOTES...

Reading, Pa.—Herman Stabenow, Jr., is building a new house, 24x100.

Sterling, Ill.—The Sterling Floral Co. has completed the erection of its new section, which covers a space 62x140 feet.

Meriden, Conn.—John Bonell has completed his new greenhouse and thus has 2,000 square feet of additional space under glass.

Wenona, Ill.—William Metzger, proprietor of the Wenona Greenhouses, has installed a new boiler and made other improvements in preparation for the winter trade.

Pierre, S. D.—Herbert D. Enoe and Boyd M. Barney, known in the trade as Enoe & Barney, have dissolved partnership. Mr. Enoe will continue the business, as manager and sole owner.

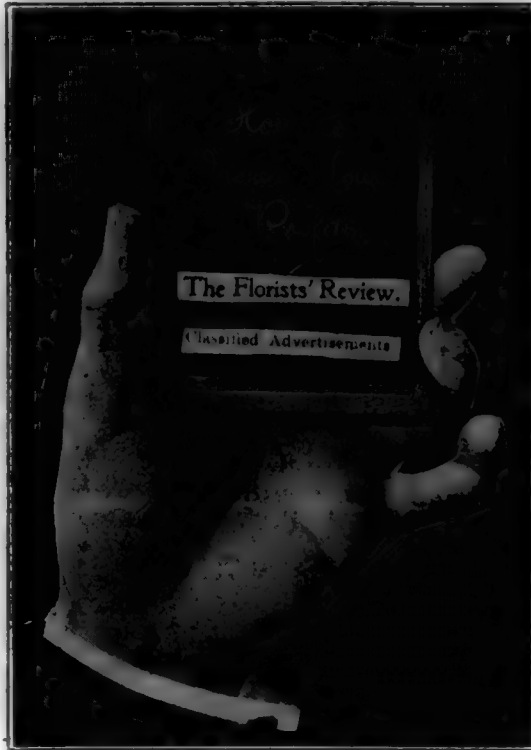

Jackson, Tenn.—James & Nelson, the druggists, have formed a partnership with Murray Sands, an experienced florist, and will conduct greenhouses on North Highland avenue, with an up-town office and flower stand in the drug store. The flower business will be carried on under the name of the James & Nelson Floral Co.

Kewanee, Ill.—Hamilton & Plummer gave away six ferns on a recent Saturday to a like number of persons who had registered opposite lucky numbers during the week, at the greenhouses. All visitors were asked to register and each name was numbered. The numbers were then shaken up and six were drawn out, thus determining who were the winners.

Grand Rapids, Mich.—Alfred Hannah has built two houses, 30x100, for his son to grow vegetables in. He will start with a crop of radishes, followed later with lettuce, and then cucumbers. The vegetable growers in Grand Rapids did well last year. The Grand Rapids Greenhouse Co. has gone back to vegetable culture in a part of its place and has given up the growing of roses and carnations.

Champaign, Ill.—George B. Franks and Miss Jeannett Styles were married last week at St. Louis. Mr. Franks is the son of Thomas Franks, with whom he is engaged in business as Thomas Franks & Son. He is not only one of the most widely known of the florists of central Illinois, but, unlike the prophet, has honor in his own home, for he is alderman for the Third ward and a member of the commission in charge of the recently created township park district.

Marietta, O.—The Marietta Floral Co., organized last May, has been remodeling its greenhouses on Muskingum Drive, and the completion of the improvements was recently celebrated by means of a formal opening. The opening had been prominently announced in the newspapers and was well attended. The firm has also opened a downtown store at 121 Putnam street, which is in charge of Mrs. E. C. Holz. The officers of the company are: President, O. Brent Gard; vice-president, Charles Penrose; secretary, B. A. Plumer. W. S. Plumer and J. A. Gallagher also own stock in the concern.

Des Moines, Ia.—W. K. Fletcher, who was confined to his home by rheumatism and other ailments for several weeks, has now recovered.

Sharon, Pa.—The Idlewild Greenhouses, owned for a time by Chas. B. Service, are now conducted, under a lease, by Peter Olsen, formerly of the Sea Cliff Nurseries, Sea Cliff, N. Y.

Dubuque, Ia.—G. A. Heyne reports that he has withdrawn from the retail florists' trade, as the greenhouses formerly conducted by him have been taken over by the park commissioners, to be used for park purposes.

Charleston, S. C.—Frank W. Kummer, formerly with the Carolina Floral Co., has opened a store at 303 King street and has named it the Arcade Floral Shop. It is just opposite the new Arcade, in the heart of the retail section.

Alton, Ill.—The interests of J. F. Ammann in the flower store on East Fourth street have been sold to George Madsen, of the Alton Floral Co. Mr. Evans, who has had charge of the Ammann store, will remain with the new owners temporarily.

Morris, Ill.—H. Yepsen, who came here to take charge of the greenhouses of the Morris Floral Co. during the illness of the proprietor, I. Krohn, has leased a store downtown and will open in first-class style in time to get the Thanksgiving trade.

Laramie, Wyo.—Bert Clippinger is planning the erection of greenhouses here, for commercial purposes. He proposes to build two houses, each 22x50, at once, and three more houses of the same size a little later. He will use one house for roses and the others for carnations and general stock.

Cromwell, Conn.—It apparently has thus far escaped comment, but should be a matter of record, that a son came a few months ago to the home of Wallace R. Pierson. It is said that the boy will in the course of time adopt his father's profession, taking up the detail in the establishment of A. N. Pierson, Inc., just as his own father came to the assistance of the grandfather.

...NEWS NOTES...

New Castle, Ind.—Wm. Dittman is in a sanitarium taking treatment for a nervous breakdown.

Le Roy, N. Y.—Geo. C. Richmond is successor to Elijah Huftelen as a grower of hardy lilies. Mr. Huftelen died October 26, at the age of 73 years.

Irondequoit, N. Y.—Edward Brockman, who added a Lord & Burnham house to his range during the summer and grew an excellent crop of carnations in it, has now placed an order with the same firm for another house.

Passaic, N. J.—Mrs. May McAllister will shortly vacate the premises she has occupied for twenty years, to occupy a new store, with a conservatory attached, to be located in the center of the city. The King Construction Co. will furnish the material for the greenhouse, and everything will be strictly up-to-date.

Merriam, Kan.—E. T. Heite has announced his retirement from the firm of E. T. Heite & Son. The son, W. R. Heite, will continue the business. The young man is making extensive alterations in the greenhouses, tearing down and rebuilding some of the oldest houses and considerably increasing the total area of glass.

Morrison, Ill.—The new cucumber house of the R. R. Davis Co. has been completed and planted. The house is 40x411 feet, with concrete construction in the foundations, walks and beds. A new eighty horse-power boiler has also been installed. This town ranks high in the extent of space under glass. Including the new cucumber house, the Davis Co. has 150,000 square feet of ground under glass, and the C. D. Gallentine Co., also of this town, has a glass area of 130,000 square feet.

Fond du Lac, Wis.—Haentze Co. has repaired the damage sustained as a result of the boiler explosion October 30. The loss will amount to about $1,500 on boilers and buildings. The loss on stock will be the check on five benches of roses. After a careful investigation it was found that the boiler next to the one that exploded had cracked first and let the water out of the system, causing it to raise steam, causing the explosion. They say this has been the fourth time that one of these boilers has cracked in the same place. They have plans for an addition to the plant, three houses 21x274, all iron construction with concrete walls.

Mason City, Ia.—Kemble & Goodman, who already have prosperous establishments at Marshalltown and Oskaloosa as well as here, are now starting a branch, also, at Boone. The business here is under the personal management of F. C. Goodman and is ideally located on the commanding site of Lyon's park, on South Main street, with ample acreage for all needs. Two new greenhouses have been added to the local plant during the present year. A downtown agency is also maintained at the Damon-Igou store. Mr. Goodman is now building a residence, of handsome architectural design, west of the greenhouses and facing Main street.

SPECIAL

AUTUMN NUMBER

This annual edition will be issued at the time of the big fall flower shows, and just in time for the Thanksgiving trade,

NOVEMBER 16

It will be in every way up to the high standard that has made these special issues so popular with all in the trade.

Advertisers will do well to send copy as early as possible.

Forms close at 5 p. m. November 14.

SOCIETY OF AMERICAN FLORISTS.

Incorporated by Act of Congress, March 4, 1901.
Officers for 1911: President, George Asmus,
Chicago; vice-president, R. Vincent, Jr., White
Marsh, Md.; secretary, H. B. Dorner, Urbana,
Ill.; treasurer, W. F. Kasting, Buffalo, N. Y.
Officers for 1912: President, R. Vincent, Jr.,
White Marsh, Md.; vice-president, August Poehl-
mann, Morton Grove, Ill.; secretary, John Young,
Bedford Hills, N. Y.; treasurer, W. F. Kasting,
Buffalo, N. Y.
Annual convention, Chicago, Ill., August 20 to 23, 1912.

Results bring advertising.
The Review brings results.

At the Tarrytown show eight silver cups were offered as prizes.

PRINTED letter-heads are so cheap that it is an extravagance to do without them.

THE two most popular pompon mums in the middle west are Diana, white, and Klondike, yellow.

NOT a few subscribers save themselves
the bother of annual renewal by sending
The Review $2, $3, or sometimes $5, instead of the dollar-bill that insures fifty-
two visits of the paper.

SWINGING around the circle of the western flower shows, President-elect R.
Vincent, Jr., of the S. A. F., is following the precedent set by other presidents in his neighborhood, getting in touch with the people.

WHEN THERMOMETERS DIFFER.

Can some reader of The Review enlighten us on the thermometer question? We find that our thermometers disagree, registering from 2 to 15 degrees apart, either in hot water or while hanging together in the same spot. We have many different kinds, mostly colored so as to be easily read at a distance, but we have no way of knowing which one, if any one, is right.

We have bought high-priced ones and cheap ones and find that the more costly ones vary about as much as the others. Each season we have bought a new one with which to test the old ones, and for this purpose we select one from a dozen or two, choosing the one that registers the farthest from the two extremes. Yet, only a short time after testing and marking all our collection of thermometers, they all begin to vary again. Though "children of one family," as in the nursery rhyme, yet they do not agree.

We also find that some thermometers register slowly; hence, though we may look at two or more of them now and find the readings several degrees apart, if we look again in a half hour we may find that they agree, or nearly so.

What kind of thermometers do you other florists use, and how do you know what the temperature of the room is when you do look at the thermometers?
John Tenbrook.

THE WESTERN ASSOCIATION.

On account of the late season for harvesting and the inability of members to attend, the adjourned meeting of the Western Dahlia and Gladiolus Association, of August 5, that was called for November 15 at the Sherman House, Chicago, will be adjourned till Friday, December 15, at the same time and place. An exhibition of bulbs will also be held in connection with the meeting, in some appropriate place to be decided later. An evening meeting is also planned, at which papers on interesting topics connected with the business will be offered. The program will be published in full in Bulletin No.
2 of the association, about December 1.
All growers are cordially invited to attend.

E. S. Thompson, Sec'y.
H. W. Koerner, V.-Pres. and Chairman.

CHICAGO.

The Great Central Market.

The week now under review was not so lively as the one preceding—it lacked the stimulus of the big "All Saints' day demand from the south—but it made, nevertheless, an excellent record compared with what is usual in the first seven days of November. City trade is not especially strong as yet, consisting largely of funeral work, of which there has been a great deal at times, but shipping business is active, showing that the much discussed volume of greenhouse building at outside points has as yet done nothing to circumscribe this market; the increase in glass has not equaled the outside increase in demand.

Prices barely have held the advance made a fortnight ago. Short Beauties and short roses are scarce, but of other stock there has been enough, though with little to spare. Supply and demand have been pretty well balanced; not so strong demand as the whole-salers like, not so large supplies as retailers prefer to see.

Chrysanthemums have come in heavily, yet there has been no glut. Visitors here say Chicago mums are ten days ahead of those of other sections.
High prices have not been made, but good average figures have been realized thus far. The growers are pushing the mums in as fast as they can, to replant with sweet peas. Pompons are more plentiful than ever before.

Beauties have been doing first-rate, considering that it is the middle of the mum season. The quantity is fairly large, the quality generally excellent.
Of the other roses, the range of choice is large; never has the market offered so many varieties. There probably are as many Killarney and White Killarney as all other varieties combined, but Maryland is offered in considerable quantity. Ward is the one the buyers take on sight; the ladies have given it a splendid welcome in the retail stores

A BIG SUPPLY OF FANCY KILLARNEYS

Specially Strong on MEDIUM Stems

We want to hear from buyers who can use a first-class grade of Killarney and White Killarney in quantity. We have a big crop on, mostly Medium stems. Buyers who know the market recognize that, length for length, our Killarneys carry the finest heads of any roses to be had. That's why we always get repeat orders from the out-of-town buyers who try our stock.

FANCY DOUBLE VIOLETS

We handle the cream of the doubles—the "specials" now offered here are quite in a class by themselves. Also can supply fancy, fragrant singles.

CATTLEYAS

These Cattleyas are all right, and you will ask for more of them if you order some today. None finer. Can supply by the hundred.

CARNATIONS

The time is rapidly approaching when the call for Carnations will increase rapidly. Out-of-town buyers should remember that they cannot possibly give satisfaction if they use low-grade Carnations—also that year after year we handle the largest lot of strictly high-grade Carnations that is to be found on this market. The stock never was better than it is this season.

MUMS

All the finest late varieties are here in quantity. Scarcely any limit to our supply. All sizes, all colors. Send along your orders.

BEAUTIES

The color is unusually high, the flowers are large, the substance is there and stem and foliage are all anyone could ask.

Order VALLEY of Us

If you have had any difficulty getting your Valley orders filled, it was because you didn't order of us. Always plenty of Fancy Valley here.

HEADQUARTERS FOR EASTER LILIES

and the supply does not equal the demand. The average quality of the roses is excellent, some of the extra long exhibition grade being so good it is hard to sell at the figures it should bring.

Carnations have not come in heavily and have cleaned up in good shape at moderate prices. Violets have been in only fair supply, mostly of good quality, but have not maintained their prices. It is said the arrivals November 4 were about forty-five boxes of eastern stock, about 100,000 violets, surely not a great quantity for a pleasant Saturday, but the bulk of the sales were $4 to $6 per thousand; they usually are good for $7.50 at this date.

Orchids from the overstocked east still hold down the price of fine local cattleyas. Valley is abundant some days and scarce the next. Bouvardia, gardenias, etc., being in small supply, sell well.

Greens of all kinds are plentiful and are selling steadily, all except smilax, which has been an erratic performer for a long time.

October Weather.

The temperature last month was about normal, although the first frost occurred October 24, about nineteen days later than usual. The rainfall was well distributed and exceeded the normal by 1.24 inches. The chief characteristic of the month was the unusual amount of cloudiness, there being only forty-seven per cent of possible sunshine as compared with the normal, sixty-four per cent.

Club Meeting.

An account of the novelty show of the Florists' Club appears on another page of this issue.

Following the staging of the show November 2, the club held a session mostly given to expression of opinion, for little business was done. There were fifty-five present when the meeting opened. E. O. Orpet, of Lake Forest, was elected to membership, as were Richard Schmidt, 4911 Quincy street, and John Huebner, 11 West Randolph street. B. Zima resigned, being out of the trade. The following were proposed for membership: W. F. Kasting, Buffalo; Charles J. Bond, Naperville, Ill.; Louis Lickenger, Andrew Benson, Edward Toeple, Guy French, Tony Gable, Richard Salm, all of Morton Grove; J. B. Foley, Isaac Cassidy, E. H. Gale, Charles Erne and A. Vanderpohl. A list of delinquents contained the names of fifty-seven. The trustees were instructed to make one more effort to avoid the necessity of dropping the "pickles."

Visitors were more than usually numerous and included E. G. Hill, Richmond; W. R. Pierson, Cromwell; H. E. Kidder, mayor of Ionia, Mich.; H. Roth, Lafayette; Robert Groves, Adams, Mass.; E. O. Orpet, Lake Forest; C. J. Bond, Naperville; Sam Seligman, New York; S. R. Lundy, San Francisco, and others. Mr. Hill made one of his characteristic speeches, Mr. Pierson told some splendid stories and Mr. Roth and Mr. Groves each talked interestingly.

Various Notes.

The United Fertilizer Co., to take over the business of the D. D. Johnson Co., filed incorporation papers at Springfield, November 1. The authorized capital is $25,000 and the incorporators are D. D. Johnson, W. F. Kasting and George Asmus. Mr. Johnson has manufactured Evergreen Brand fertilizer and the new interests are to supply capital needed for the extension of the business.

August Poehlmann went to St. Louis Monday evening, with assistants, to stage at the show there the numerous exhibits of Poehlmann Bros. Co.

Following last week's club show, the Hill and Pierson rose novelties were on display at the store of the E. C. Amling Co., where they attracted much attention; the Smith chrysanthemums were with the Chicago Carnation Co., and the Vaughan and Hartje & Elder displays were with the J. B. Deamud Co.

Fleischman published, November 4, probably the most costly advertisement ever used by a retail flower store. It occupied three full columns of the Tribune, 900 agate lines, supposed to cost about 35 cents per line.

Peter Reinberg is chairman of the committee of the city council charged with the enormous task of solving the traction problem. The committee is planning a subway to take all street cars and elevated roads off the downtown streets.

The Leslie Floral Co., on Randolph street near State, closed November 1. It is said the rent was $250 a month.

Among the recent visitors were George B. Franks and his bride, from Champaign.

J. A. Budlong tried 250 plants of Carnation Bonfire this season and is well pleased. It will be planted in quantity next season.

I. Krohn, of the Morris Floral Co., Morris, Ill., has been in the Presbyterian hospital, Wood and Harrison streets, for three weeks, and is getting lonesome.

E. G. Hill placed Sunburst rose with most of the large growers during his visit here last week.

R. Vincent, Jr., president-elect of the S. A. F., will be in Chicago about November 20. He will be accompanied by Mrs. Vincent.

Wietor Bros. think highly of Bonfire carnation. They will plant it heavily next season.

Robert C. Lange recently added to his holdings of Edgewater property. He did a fine business last year, but found the summer duller than in 1910. Now he is having good trade on mums and Boston ferns.

At Zech & Mann's, John Zech says business is increasing steadily.

The George Wittbold Co., on Buckingham place, has installed a pump made by the Connersville Blower Co., that is expected to save its cost in a few cold months. It not only returns the condensation to the boilers, but it creates a vacuum that causes the live steam to circulate all through the range on two pounds pressure, where without the pump as much as twenty pounds boiler pressure was required in cold weather. The pump is run by a small electric motor. Louis Wittbold thinks highly of the system.

While W. R. Pierson, of A. N. Pierson, Inc., was in town last week he received from Wendland & Keimel what is probably the record order for young rose plants to be benched by the purchaser. It included Killarney Queen, Double White Killarney, Ward, Bulgarie, Killarney and White Killarney in quantity to plant the new range of ten big houses. Wendland & Keimel think it cheaper to buy young stock than to sacrifice the cut necessary to do their own propagating, 38,000 plants.

Winterson's Seed Store took in a carload of Boston ferns one day this week.

Martha C. Gunterberg for a week has had so bad a cold she could scarcely speak, but has stuck to business.

Charlie Erne is laying plans for a start in business for himself.

The new employees' rooms that are being partitioned off above the storage room at the Edgebrook greenhouses are rapidly nearing completion. Otto Wittbold expects to put a billiard and pool table in the center hall, to afford amusement for the men in the evenings. Cards and card tables will also be provided.

The Pulverized Manure Co. is putting out Wizard Brand Pulverized Sheep Manure and Wizard Brand Concentrated Plant Food in small packages for the retail trade. Heretofore these products have been sold only in quantities for the use of growers, but the new style is to meet the demand for an article for retailers to sell for use on house plants.

Herman Wendland, of Wendland & Keimel, and W. E. Trimble, of Princeton, Ill., recently returned from a hunting trip with a fine bag of mallards and other ducks. Phil Foley regretted being in the east at the time, as he had expected to be one of the party. However, he had the pleasure of sampling the fowls on his return and says the birds and the cooking were both excellent.

Mrs. K. N. Cooper, manager of the Auburndale Goldfish Co., has been confined to the house with a severe attack of bronchitis.

P. Weiler, president of the Superior Machine & Boiler Works, made an auto trip to Wisconsin last week to close his summer home.

Both Henderson & Co. and Winterson's Seed Store report being well cleaned up on the season's bulb importations.

Weiland & Risch say that every week that passes adds to the number of Melody's friends.

Hoerber Bros., Des Plaines, are taking all the wood they can get from their new rose, Wilhelmina, for propagating purposes. It is not generally known that the rose is named for the mother of the members of the firm.

Among the Chicago visitors at the St. Louis show this week are George Asmus, C. W. Johnson, A. T. Pyfer, H. E. Philpott and Fred Lautenschlager, the latter swinging around the circle of the flower shows, going from St. Louis to Cincinnati, Detroit and Milwaukee.

Frank Johnson is back from a week's trip south for the A. L. Randall Co. The concern has just issued a new catalogue of seasonable supplies.

Ralph Keefe, formerly with Vaughan & Sperry, has gone with the Batavia Greenhouse Co., taking the place of Wm. Johnson, who joined the force of Keefe's old firm. Trading jobs, as it were.

Bassett & Washburn have a double sport of White Killarney on which they are working up stock.

C. M. Dickinson says the crop of Tobak-ine, which has been short, will soon increase, as the manufacturer now occupies a new and larger building.

George Baer, Toledo, has begun his annual shipments of Bonnaffon mums to Kennicott Bros. Co.

J. C. Meier, of Meier Bros., Niles Center, recently was elected a member of the board of directors of the Chicago Flower Growers' Association. He had previously been acting with the board.

The building in which John Mangel's store is located, corner of Wabash avenue and Monroe street, is to be torn down in the spring to make way for a skyscraper. It is reported that Mr. Mangel has made arrangement with Harry Rowe, whose store is in the same block, which protects him against being without a home when moving day comes.

George Reinberg is cutting Richmonds from the section that was hit by the cyclone.

The Star Floral Co., Wilmette, is sending Kyle & Foerster a large cut of Killarneys and Marylands.

F. M. Smith, formerly of the Smith & Feters Co., Cleveland, but now a resident of California, passed through town this week on his way to Cleveland to do a couple of big wedding jobs.

John Kruchten says buyers are numerous enough, but that the tickets might be larger.

C. W. McKellar has word from the east that the orchid market has changed, crops going off.

H. Van Gelder says a canvass of the growers shows that not so many mums were planted this year as last.

Visitors: J. G. Layton, Louisiana, Mo.; A. C. Rott, Joliet.

Somerville, N. J.—Anson V. Norton reports business as steadily increasing since he built here eleven years ago, but he says it requires time and patience to build up an entirely new business.

NEW ORLEANS.

The Market.

All Saints' day, November 1, goes on record as one of the best, as far as the selling out of all cut flowers on hand is concerned; yet the amount of money realized by many of the wholesalers and retailers did not come up to that of some previous years. Chrysanthemums were not only scarce, but left much to wish for in quality, in comparison with last year's crop. The local wholesale growers raised the prices to some extent, and to make up for the deficiency of the home-grown stock, Chicago alone shipped a carload of flowers, including mums, roses, carnations, valley, etc., and cut greens, such as Asparagus plumosus and fancy ferns.

The weather up to a few days before All Saints' day was threatening and the bulk of the orders came to many of the florists at the last day, which naturally caused a great rush in filling them. All the florists engaged extra help to work for a day and a night.

The day was surely an ideal one for the great multitude of people of all classes who carried flowers to the last resting places of their departed loved ones. All the cemeteries were thronged from early morning until sundown.

Various Notes.

Following are the comments of some of the florists on the All Saints' day business:

Abele Bros.—Our large stock of home-grown mums sold out to fill orders; mostly in bunches.

A. Alost.—Sold out completely at fair prices.

Peter Chopin.—Best day since I started in business; nothing left.

Louis Buchner.—Every flower on hand went in a rush.

J. W. Bierherst.—Did a large business, with both home-grown and northern flowers.

M. Cook's Sons.—Our home-grown stock and a big Chicago shipment sold out by noon.

Mrs. Francis Gruaz.—Sold out completely; best day in years.

J. F. Dubois.—That immense stock I had grown sold out at fair prices.

Charles Eble.—A record breaker hard to beat; big demand for high grade flowers of all kinds.

C. W. Eichling.—All of the force rushed to fill orders for best grade of flowers, mostly loose or in bunches.

Peter Kaul.—I had about 10,000 Robinson mums and they are all sold.

Mrs. Carrie Rehm.—Doubled my business of last year, mostly in the demand for choice flowers.

Henry Rehfeld.—Had to refuse orders by the hundreds, as my stock was exhausted by noon.

Metairie Ridge Nurseries.—Our own immense stock of mums, besides the largest shipment ever received for this day, sold out; heavy demand for expensive flowers.

Justine St. Mard.—The biggest rush in years.

J. A. Newsham.—I haven't a flower left of my own big stock; never saw such a rush; I even sold all my orchids, besides a large shipment of choice mixed flowers from Chicago.

U. J. Virgin.—Had an immense stock of all kinds of choice flowers on hand and sold out completely.

H. Ziegler.—That fine lot of Robinson mums sold out in no time, besides a big shipment of Chicago flowers.

The Frank Floral Co., which has an attractive new store, located at 303 Bourbon street in the business center of the city, had a formal opening on All Saints' day. The place was handsomely decorated and a large and fine stock of all kinds of fresh flowers and artificial and metal designs was on hand. Frank J. Beyes and Peter Ackermann, two young, enterprising and up-to-the-minute florists and decorators, are the owners and they expressed themselves as well satisfied with the new business and its location.

still come in quantity. Business continues to increase as the season advances. Hallowe'en created an extra demand for flowers, especially yellow. The social calendar contained for last week only a couple of debutante affairs, and a wedding or two, with few dinner parties, so naturally there was not such a demand for dinner decorations, etc., as in the weeks previous. November 4 Chicago played Minnesota, and the great football event called for a large number of maroon chrysanthemums, each team having maroon in its colors.

Various Notes.

The Minneapolis Social Florists' Club met Tuesday evening, November 7, at the store of Rice Bros.

Donaldson's department store had a fine display of cattleyas in one of the Nicollet avenue windows last week.

Lyons, the east side florist, moved into his new store some time ago and his place makes a bright spot on Central avenue.

Mr. Souden, at The House of Flowers, takes advantage of the store's spacious window in making attractive displays.

At Nagel's greenhouses, on Lake street, they are cutting some good Easter lilies.

A house of cyclamens of the Minneapolis Floral Co. makes a fine showing and they are finding ready sale at a number of the stores.

Swanson's, on Nicollet avenue, featured great bunches of chrysanthemums in the window displays last week.

Paper White narcissi are making their appearance, from Hiawatha Gardens Co., at University and Bedford streets.

PHILADELPHIA.

The Rising Eastern Market.

Gardenias, violets and valley are the strong features of a weak market. Gardenias are really scarce; though more numerous than a fortnight ago, they are in active demand at listed prices. Violets have shortened considerably, while the demand was increased by the Penn-Indian football game of last Saturday. The price has advanced on both singles and doubles. Although not scarce, like the other two, valley has been satisfactory, probably more so than either of the others, because it not only sold readily at fair figures, but, best of all from a retailer's standpoint, it could be secured when needed.

Chrysanthemums are the leading feature of the market. Really fancy stock is in active demand at excellent prices, but really fancy stock is far from plentiful. Every chrysanthemum grower will question this statement (I would not give a fig for him if he didn't), but let him go into town and carefully compare his stock with what I have classed as fancy and I think he will agree with me that it takes hustling to qualify in that class. Silver Wedding, Lynnwood Hall, Grace, Elise Papworth and Mrs. Shaw are the leading whites, Maud Dean is the best pink of the day, while good old Major Bonaffon and his companion in arms, Col. Appleton, remain in the vanguard of the yellows. Not many reds could be scraped up for the football game, but there were a few. The medium and ordinary grades of chrysanthemums are decidedly in excess of the demand. Pompons are in fair favor, but the buyers who want pompons expect moderate prices. The anemone-flowered Mary Colladay still leads, although the color is not all that Edward A. Stroud says it should be and that he can and will make it.

Roses, carnations and all the other flowers bow to the chrysanthemum, although the coming-out teas and other early social affairs at times demand them, and demand the best only. Cattleyas have shortened in supply and advanced in price, but hardly enough to be more than an indication of coming events.

A Customs Decision.

Every florist in the land uses baskets, but not every florist thinks of the difficulties that are experienced in procuring his baskets at fair prices. A recent custom-house decision is of interest. June 20 M. Rice & Co. brought in a large importation of baskets, on which the appraiser increased the valuation materially. A protest was made and the case was taken before the board of general appraisers, which sustained the appraiser. A further protest was made, the case going before the full board of three judges. Great preparations were made by both sides. Mr. Rice was positive that his valuation was fair. The government brought over its representative from Germany, with his array of figures. The decision of the board was that the value of the baskets should be returned as entered; in other words, a complete victory for M. Rice & Co.

The Dahlia Season.

The dahlia season of 1911 closed on the night of November 2, when the dahlias supplying the flowers for this market were frozen. The season has been remarkable for its length, for the improvement in the flowers and for the increase in demand; it was undoubtedly the best season the dahlia has ever experienced as a cut flower. Passing over the length of the season simply with the remark that it was at least two weeks longer than ordinarily, the improvement in the quality has been remarkable. This is due to three things—the heavy August rains, the improved varieties and the disbudding. The public responded nobly to the dahlia feast set before them; dahlias were more largely used than ever before in the history of the flower. While the average stock did not bring better prices, superior stock did.

There is one other feature in the dahlia season that is worthy of comment; that is, the system that has been inaugurated by at least one of our wholesale houses of having all dahlia orders packed at the farm and delivered direct to the customer in the original boxes. This adds immeasurably to the keeping qualities, as well as to the condition of the dahlia. The dahlia growers who have produced the same grade of stock as in former years will find no improvement in their returns; probably a falling off, for the market becomes more critical year by year. The dahlia grower who has produced finer flowers of the popular market varieties will find that his returns have been better than ever before.

RICHMOND, IND.

About fifty florists, including those from all parts of the state, attended the November meeting of the Indiana State Florists' Association here last week. The assembly was at the greenhouses of the E. G. Hill Co., west of the city, where the business session of the morning was held. Short talks were given by W. W. Coles, of Kokomo; J. S. Stuart, Anderson; M. Heller, Newcastle; H. L. Wiegand, Indianapolis; N. H. Gano, Martinsville; Theodore Dörner, Lafayette; Roger Murphy, Urbana, O.; B. F. Hensley, Knightstown, and W. H. Elverson, New Brighton, Pa. Joseph H. Hill and E. G. Hill also gave short talks on the work they are carrying on. Nine new members were voted into the association, making the membership total almost 100.

At noon a luncheon was served at the greenhouses, after which automobiles carried the visitors on an inspection trip to the Graves, Gause, Knopf and Lemon greenhouses, and the Advance ventilator plant. Special attention was given to the fine display of show chrysanthemums at Hill's.

The next meeting of the association will be at Indianapolis, December 4, and the annual meeting will be at the same place January 17.

The following were in attendance: Charles Eland, Edwin E. Temperly, Albert Kempe, S. T. Hitz, W. A. Runkin, H. W. Rieman, Albert Pittet, John J. Elsner, M. Brandlein, John Bertex, Morris Marer, Robert A. Glamble, Russell Elder, John Hartje, H. L. Wiegand, C. Brandlein, Charles G. NEW YORK.

The Market.

The whole of last week was ideal for the flower shows, every one of them proving the best in the records of the several horticultural societies, but a cold rain ushers in the present week, and we may depend upon killing frosts. In some sections near us the outdoor blooms are still untouched. It has been a wonderful season for dahlias and cosmos.

The chrysanthemum still is king. Its prestige has been greatly enhanced during the last ten days, as it has dominated every exhibition. Immense quantities are arriving daily and prices are far from satisfactory, compared with other years. Few of the best ever go above $4 to $5 a dozen. The bulk of the salable stock is held at from 20 cents each down to $5 per hundred. There is little demand for the bunches. So reasonable have been the wholesale rates for the decorative flowers that every retail window is a mum show.

Roses are overabundant and there has been a clearing up of the surplus lower even than $5 per thousand. Even the best grades have not advanced above the low quotations of October. No fault can be found with the quality. It is now superb. The novelties are in demand. The craze for new things always is in evidence in New York, and especially where there is such uniform merit. Few of the old favorites, Bride and Maid, are seen in comparison with the quantity of Maryland and Kil-larney.

Carnations have not sold above $2 per hundred and most of the grand stock arriving goes for $1 or less. Double the present prices were obtainable a year ago. The same may be said of lilies, which have been selling at the price of valley, $2 to $4 per hundred. The best gardenias sell at $4 a dozen. Orchids have not gone above 50 cents each. Violets must be extra and in

FLOWER BOXES

Successful Florists use Sefton Boxes. To have success in shipping flowers, YOU should use them.

We offer a complete and superior line of cut flower, folding boxes in numerous grades and sizes, as well as Corrugated Fibre Board Boxes for Live Plants and Floral Designs.

Sefton Florists' Boxes combine high quality with low price. We manufacture them in large quantities and thus are able and pleased to give you the benefit in reasonably low prices.

A box of high quality attracts the eye and makes it a pleasure to open a neat, tasty package. Sefton Florists' Boxes are trade builders, inasmuch as they are high class and make a good impression. Purchasers of our boxes were once users of the inferior grades.

large bunches to bring 50 cents per hundred. The stores that use as many as a box daily fix their own values, 35 cents per hundred having been the prevailing figure. A good many single violets are arriving.

Various Notes.

The New York Florists' Club's meeting, Monday evening, November 13, promises to be the banner night of the year. It is ladies' night. J. Otto Thilow, of Philadelphia, will give his stereopticon lecture for the first time before any audience, on "A Vacation Tramp," and the club's hospitality will be liberally dispensed to all.

The Land and Irrigation exhibition at Madison Square Garden is drawing immense crowds this week. W. E. Marshall & Co. and Peter Henderson & Co. are the only seed houses that have taken advantage of this great advertising opportunity.

Wallace R. Francis, a retail florist of Edinburgh, Scotland, is in the city and contemplates locating here. He is at present with Fleischman. Two of his brothers are in the florist business in the west.

The Coogan building has another wholesale florist. It has been averaging one a week since October 1, and "still there is room."

W. E. Bronstein, uncle of Mrs. C. C. Trepel, will represent Mr. Trepel at St. Augustine, Fla., this winter.

Myer, at Fifty-eighth street and Madison avenue, is planting large poplars for Sheriff Chandler and J. B. Thomas, on Nineteenth street, averaging $50 each in value. Myer had the family funeral order for the late A. J. Mayer, including a pall of violets and cattleyas.

Max Schling, 22 West Fifty-ninth street, adjoining the Plaza hotel, has been busy of late with funeral work and dinner decorations, as many as eight in one day last week. Mr. Schling has one of the largest and handsomest stores in the city.

The New York and New Jersey Plant Growers' Association last week indulged in the fall fraternal demonstration on Long Island, visiting Scott, Wagner, Zeller and Schmutz, of Flat-fire last week. Considerable damage was done, but the loss is covered by insurance.

John Lewis Childs, of Floral Park, not only disposes of several million gladioli and other things yearly, but he finds time to write books. He has just published one called "Short Stories for Children. Mr. Childs says its object is "to give some young minds a better appreciation of the birds, the woods, the wild flowers and the many beautiful things of the world that is all about them."

Joseph Leikens has opened his new store at 20 West Fifty-seventh street. It is large, convenient and handsome. He has also a branch in the Plaza hotel and in the summer a branch store at Newport.

Siebrecht & Son are doubling the size of their Fifth avenue store in time for the fall opening.

J. Austin Shaw.

A. Goldenburg is no longer with Ralph M. Ward & Co., for whom he has been salesman.

Wertheimer Bros. have made extensive alterations in their store, Broadway at Prince street, that give them considerably more room.

The Hinode Florist Co. has secured a judgment for $157 against Charles R. Jaeger.

BOSTON, MASS.

The Market.

As is customary in the first half of November, flowers are far too abundant, but on the whole business has been better than a week ago and decidedly better than at this time last year. Funeral work has been quite heavy. Chrysanthemums are everywhere and in overwhelming numbers. Bonnaillon is in good demand and so is Ivory. Prices remain much the same as a week ago. Roses are, if anything, a little lower, but they have cleaned up fairly well. Beauties are noteworthy, as are Mrs. Waddell, Mrs. Ward and Lady Hillingdon. Some good Radiance is also seen. This promises to become a favorite.

Carnations have recovered a little, but few flowers get beyond $1.50 and $2 per hundred. Violets have shortened up a little with colder weather and sell better, while lily of the valley and sweet peas are both hard to move. Easter lilies are in good demand, while speciosums drag. Comos Lady Lenox is plentiful, but does not sell particularly well. Antirrhinum and Bouvardia are favorites. Marguerites are scarce and sell quickly. Cattleya labiata and other fall orchids continue to be plentiful. Some good gardenias are now coming from several growers. Asparagus, both plumosus and Sprengeri, sells well. Pot plant trade is picking up and, since the weather became cooler, Lorraine begonias are now quite good. There is quite a little assortment of other blooming plants.

Sweet Pea Society.

An executive meeting of the American Sweet Pea Society was held November 4, at the Parker House, Boston. Some twenty-five gentlemen were present, among them the following: W. Atlee Burpee, H. A. Bunyard, C. H. Totty, William Sim, Thomas Roland, R. Cameron, D. Finlayson, Edward Kirk, W. J. Stewart, P. Welch, J. K. M. L. Farquhar, H. E. Fiske, P. M. Miller, James Wheeler, A. A. Pembroke, Sidney Hoffman and W. P. Rich. All present were entertained at luncheon by President Sim, after which the schedule for the coming show in Boston was discussed, also much business of interest. A number of special prizes were offered. The dates will probably be July 13 and 14, but climatic conditions may necessitate an earlier or later date. Everyone present was optimistic and predicted a fine exhibition.

Various Notes.

Carnations now are of really good quality in the markets, but no growers have finer blooms than F. P. Putnam, of North Tewksbury. His flowers of White Wonder, Gloriosa, Mrs. Ward, Pink Delight, White Enchantress, Sangamo and other leaders leave little to be desired.

Entries are good for the chrysanthemums.

mum show, which opens November 9. The date is a trifle late for some cut flowers, but suits pot plants.

Welch Bros. say that their October business has never been equaled.

W. H. Elliott says he never saw business start in better than this season. In addition to his heavy rose cut, he has a big call for asparagus and pot mums.

James Wheeler has a splendid lot of carnations this season. His Enchantress, according to Peter Fisher, equal the best he has seen of that variety, while Pink Delight and others are equally good.

Sidney Hoffman reports trade as good, especially in funeral work. He has secured the contract to decorate the Hotel Somerset November 24 for the swell Hunnewell ball, the most select affair of the season in Boston.

William Downs is this week enjoying himself in Washington and vicinity.

David Duncan, of Arlington, is having a big run on Boston ferns, which he grows of splendid quality.

The old Maud Dean chrysanthemum and also a light sport from it are of fine quality with W. S. Phelps, of Marlboro.

J. N. Cohen has a great variety of mums and reports good sales.

S. J. Goddard has a fine new yellow carnation named Golden Ray, of pure color.

The Gardeners' and Florists' Club's landscape classes started November 7 with a fine attendance. Nominations of officers are in order at the meeting November 21.

Geo. H. Walker, of North Dighton, has purchased several acres of cactus dahlias from J. P. Badge, Fall River, and has all the tubers safely started in his cellars.

S. J. Reuter, of Westerly, R. I., is sending in grand Mrs. David Syme mums, also Miss Clay Frick and other leading sorts.

SAN DIEGO, CAL.

The San Diego Floral Association held its fifth annual fall show October 25 to 27. Though the display was not so large as at some of the former shows, the exhibits were superior in quality to any ever before shown here. The attendance was good.

Walter G. Scott, at 1335 Fifth street, is closing out his cut flower department and will hereafter give his attention to nursery stock and landscape gardening exclusively.

Lanier Bros. have announced that they will open a wholesale and retail flower shop at 1321 C street, on or before November 15.

The tourist season is opening, so business should be good for some time.

K.

A LOS ANGELES SEED STORE.

With Los Angeles growing at the rate it has, it could not be otherwise than that the horticultural interests of the city also should grow. Therefore the members of the Morris & Snow Seed Co., with becoming modesty, take to themselves little credit for the development their business has shown. "So long as we kept faith with our customers, how could the business help growing?" That is their unassuming way of stating the case. Morris & Snow were on the ground some years ago and have made steady progress from the beginning, for they have pushed. They now are located at 425 South Main street and the accompanying illustration will give an idea of the character of their store, of the diversity of their stock, and of their facilities.

more plentiful along general lines, with a noticeable absence of funeral work.

Mums are the prevailing flower in demand, with the quality up to standard; white and yellow are the prevailing colors. Pompons and miniature varieties serve best for table decorations. Roses and carnations are plentiful, but there is a general scarcity of violets and valley. Effective Hollowe'en windows were carried out by the florists and by business houses in general.

SAN FRANCISCO.

The Market.

The warm weather continues and nothing else is so much needed here as a good downpour of rain. Business is not as brisk as we should like to see it, and as the fruit crop is all harvested in this part of the country, we long for a heavy sprinkle to start things going. Flowers of all kinds are overplentiful and hence are cheaper than they ought to be. With no check on outside stock, there is an overproduction that will not be curtailed until we have a decided change in the weather.

Mums are the popular flowers at this time and their quality is good. Inside carnations have commenced to be a drug and the wholesale price is lower than it has been for several years in November. Roses, with the possible exception of fancy stock, are in the same position and move poorly. Valley and Lilium longiflorum are about as usual. Orchids are more plentiful and hold their own. Violets are quite plentiful and of good form and color. Other kinds of stock do not show any advance on the quotations of last week or month, and until we have a decided change in weather conditions we need not expect prices to rise.

The Market.

Fall weather has set in, and with the coming of November we also had our first snow storm of the season. Business seems good since all of the outdoor flowers have perished, and the increase in trade is quite perceptible. Receptions, luncheons and coming-out parties are in full swing.

While chrysanthemums are the favorite flowers for November, other flowers are also finding a ready market. Pompon mums are plentiful in all colors and are selling well. They are much more desirable for table decoration than are the large blooms, with but few exceptions. Carnations have been of somewhat poor quality in the last few days and get sleepy soon after they are cut. Enchantress and Perfection are most plentiful. Harrisii lilies are abundant, but do not meet with much demand. Callas are scarce.

White Killarneys are most excellent at present, and the pink ones are also in good condition, with unusually long, firm stems. Red Killarney is becoming quite popular. Richmonds are improving a great deal, but are not in great demand. A few Wellingtons are finding their way into this market. Tafts are much better than they have been and My Maryland is especially thrifty. Radiance is seldom seen now. Wards are still plentiful and the demand keeps pace with the supply. Everybody wants Ward roses. Valley is falling off a little in demand and is not quite so good in quality. Violets are first-class. Orchids are abundant. However, neither the cattleyas nor the oncidiums are selling well at present, perhaps on account of the high prices at which they are held. There is no call at all for cypripediums. Primula obconica and potted pompon mums are about the only thing in flowering plants this week.

Various Notes.

Colin T. Ogston is producing fine orchids this fall in Mrs. Kimball's private conservatory.

The Rochester Floral Co. reports that business has been fine during the month of October. They are showing some special basket arrangements in their window displays, which are effective.

E. C. Campbell says that business was good during October, but the first week of November was rather dull. He is showing some good speciosum lilies.

H. E. Wilson says business was not especially good during the last month. He received a consignment of fancy chinaware last week.

George Boucher reports that trade was rather quiet during October, but is picking up now. He has a fine window display in the form of a Japanese garden, with latticework, and with blossoms and chrysanthemums, all framed in a mammoth gilt frame the exact size of the window.

Miss Myrtie Bradstreet, of the Rochester Floral Co., left November 1 for Daytona, Fla., to spend the winter months. Her mother and sister accompanied her.

Salter Bros. found October a rather dull month, with a few fairly good days. They are closing their stores at 6:30 p. m. during the week and at 9:30 on Saturday evening. It might be a good

J. B. Keller Sons' October trade was fairly good, but they expect November will be better.

The Maurer-Haap Co. is erecting a concrete shed, 20 x 60, in the rear of their store on East Main street. The shed is to be used for the storage of box trees, evergreens, seeds, bulbs and general nursery stock. It is to be ventilated and frost-proof. They are doing a rushing business in bulbs.

J. Muller, of the Julius Roehrs Co., was in town last week on business.

Julius Dilloff, of Schloss Bros., called on the trade recently.

The committee on horticulture and agriculture, of the Chamber of Commerce, has announced the following speakers for the November dinner:
Raymond A. Pearson, and Prof. Jas.
Robertson, of Canada.

V. Poehlmann. Small white mums in bunches sell well for funeral work. Carnations are in great demand, especially the Enchantress varieties. Not many violets are coming in and advance orders clean them up daily. All varieties of roses are plentiful and these, too, seem to sell better than they usually do at this time of the year, when mums have the call. Beauties are none too plentiful.

The retail trade last week was fairly good, but there was no great rush in the west end. It is said that trade has become more steady and that transient trade among the downtown florists has improved greatly during the week.

Various Notes.

Guy Reburn, of A. Henderson & Co., Chicago, is here this week interesting the local trade in bulbs, seeds and plants.

Albert Hirlemann, formerly foreman at the greenhouses of Grimm & Gorly, has bought the stock and rented the greenhouses of the Brix Floral Co., at McLaren and Mead avenues, and will grow stock for the local market. Mr. Hirlemann has also bought the stock and leased the greenhouses of the Bentzen Floral Co., at 4025 Marcus avenue.

The Ladies' Home Circle has arranged for a euchre and dinner at the Marquette hotel on Thursday afternoon at 2:30, in honor of the visiting ladies who are here this week for the flower show.

George Waldbart has a new, handsome Dorris automobile delivery car, which is considered one of the hand-somest in the local trade.

E. W. Guy, of Belleville, and a large party of friends have just returned from a three weeks' hunting and fishing trip, which is a yearly event with Mr. Guy.

AMERICAN SEED TRADE ASSOCIATION.
Pres., Leonard H. Vaughan, Chicago; First VicePres., M. H. Duryea, New York City; Sec'y and Treas., C. E. Kendel, Cleveland, O.

THE crop of gladiolus bulbs is not all that the growers would like: too hot and dry last summer.

CANNA roots will not be in so large supply as usual next spring, because of the extremely dry season many of the big growers had to contend with.

THE S. S. Kaiserin Augusta Victoria, from Hamburg, which reached New York October 28, brought fifty-two cases of the 1911 crop of lily of the valley pips, consigned to H. Frank Darrow.

SAMUEL H. DE LONG, receiver for the Barnhouse Seed & Grain Co., St. Joseph, Mo., has been awarded a judgment for $1,433 with interest from July 16, 1906, amounting in all to approximately $2,000, in a suit against J. P. Barnhouse for an accounting, as president and general manager of the company previous to the time of the receivership.

LOECHNER & Co., 11 Warren street, New York, who recently were appointed American agents for General Swedish Seed Co., Svaloeff, Sweden, are sending out a pamphlet descriptive of the inception and development of the seed growing industry at Svaloeff. It is said that the company has contracts for the growing of its pedigreed stocks on 15,000 acres.

A VOLUNTARY petition in bankruptcy has been filed in the United States District Court, at Little Rock, Ark., by the Leifer Bros. Seed Co., and Attorney H. E. House has been appointed receiver. The amount of the liabilities is placed at $7,000, with assets that reach about $9,000. There are many claimants, among them being various seed firms and implement houses.

W. W. JOHNSON & SON, Ltd., whose business at Boston, England, dates back to 1820, recently moved into a new five-story warehouse that is a model of its kind, and October 27 was devoted to a formal opening, with luncheon and many guests, including many seedsmen. The local newspaper wrote up the function to the extent of twelve columns, printing cuts of the building and the officers of the company, a history of the business and the verbatim remarks of the speakers at the luncheon, at which E. J. Deal presided.

RESIDUE CROP SEEDS.

In practically all departments of the seed trade the dealer who aims to handle nothing but the best is called on to compete with lower priced stocks that are the product of get-away crops, or crops grown primarily for other purposes. It is one of the evils that probably will exist, but it is none the less aggravating that it is inevitable.

In this connection some interesting correspondence has come to hand regarding conditions at Rocky Ford, Colo. A seedsman sends the letter of the secretary of the Rocky Ford Seed Growers' Association, with the explanation that "it was written in response to a letter we wrote them for the reason that our statements that the cantaloupe seed grown especially for us for seed purposes had been questioned as to the stock being any better than the cheap seed which was saved from the culls, jumbos and ponies, after the best and bulk of the crops had been shipped during the summer for commercial purposes, the party making the criticisms above referred to being well known to the seed trade in general and one who should be in a position to know the difference in the stocks." The seed growers' letter follows:

"We wish to call your attention to the matter of fact that you cannot compete in the seed trade with the prices that you are paying for your Rocky Ford cantaloupe seed. The seed that was grown for you here was of high quality and the crop was grown exclusively for seed. Of course you paid the price, but what we wish to inform you of is that after the shipping season of melons is over, it is customary for most of the people to cut the remainder of the crop for seed and sell this seed at 10 cents per pound—and there is a market for it. Now, how can you put seed of high quality against these prices? "We have reliable information that one seed dealer and grower at Rocky Ford has bought 400 acres from a large commercial shipper of melons this year after the shipper was done shipping and cutting what seed he wanted. Now the party buying the residue crop is taking what is left for seed purposes. We are also informed that a merchant of this city who does not own a foot of agricultural land, nor does he have a contract for one acre of seeds, but who is a trader, will trade a wagon, a harness or stove and take cull cantaloupe seed in payment. He makes a profit on the buying and selling. We also understand two other seed dealers and growers at Rocky Ford are buying quite heavily of the cull seeds.

"The farmers here say that it ought to be stopped, but say if their neighbors do it, why not they, as they can make $10 per acre more off their land? A farmer or seedsman cannot grow cantaloupes any cheaper than he can any other kind of a muskmelon and it is almost impossible to get muskmelons grown here, as the farmers say that there is nothing in it, and still they get nearly three times as much for it as they do for this cull cantaloupe seed.

"Land rents here for from $15 to $25 per acre, cash rent, in advance. Now, the tiller must get good crops and good prices or he cannot exist. We are in need of a pure seed law as badly as we were in need of a pure food law, and they are both hand in hand. If we plant cull seeds we get cull crops, and especially on melons, which are consumed by the people. If melons are not of good quality and firm it would be like feeding the people stale eggs, and of course the latter is against the law. There are seedsman like yourselves who believe in buying high grade seeds for their trade and who would not take cheap seeds at any price, and we have those who would not buy anything but cheap seeds and sell it at a good price by calling it selected. They do not care for their name; it is the money. If their planter does not get a good crop they will tell him that the fault is the result of conditions.

"Wherever you sell your seed once you will sell again, as they were selected to grade, which puts all stand-

or MAY-FLOWERING; DARWIN, Etc.

Live, up-to-date, progressive, we might say aggressive, florists are planting more and more every year the above useful and profit-bearing Tulips—because once planted they bloom from year to year with increasing value. With their immense flowers and long stems (sometimes nearly three feet) and variety of colors, they sell as quickly again as the early varieties and come at a season when they are always welcome.

LILIUM HARRISII

LET US SUPPLY YOUR WANTS IN LILIES THIS SEASON

We think we can make it to your advantage to do so, as regards both quality and price.

The stock that we offer is not gathered indiscriminately from all kinds of sources, but is grown for us by a few selected growers whose stocks have been worked up from the true, original stock. In order to insure the health of the product, the bulbs are not grown on the same field oftener than one season, other crops being grown on the field the preceding year. The ground is thoroughly manured when the previous crop is grown, leaving it in a high state of cultivation, and when the lily bulbs are planted no fresh manure is used; this prevents disease and insures a crop of strong, healthy bulbs.

In addition to this, we do not dig our bulbs as early as they are usually dug, but leave them in the ground until they are thoroughly ripened and matured. When Harrisii is good it leaves little to be desired. There is very little, if any, stock obtainable as good as the stock that we are offering. We are supplying only this one grade of selected stock and when this is disposed of we shall have no more to offer.

While the quality of the stock that we offer is of the highest, our prices are as low as, or lower than, the prices of those who offer the ordinary stock gathered from indiscriminate sources. We are sure buyers will find our stock very satisfactory, and much more so than the Japan-grown Longiflorum, which has badly deteriorated in recent years.

Bear in mind that we were the original introducers of Harrisii in Bermuda, and that we have exceptional facilities for obtaining our present supplies. Also take note that the smallest bulbs that we offer are 6-7 inch bulbs, not 5-7 inch, as usually offered.

6-7 inch bulbs, 335 to the case, $15.00 per case; full thousand lots, $ 40.00 per 1000
7-9 inch bulbs, 200 to the case, 16.00 per case; full thousand lots, 75.00 per 1000
9-11 inch bulbs, 100 to the case, 18.00 per case; full thousand lots, 175.00 per 1000

FERNS

We have an exceptionally nice lot of ferns in the following varieties—good, bushy, well-grown plants that will please the most critical buyers. Plants have been grown in pots and are thoroughly well established and nicely finished.

Nephrolepis Bostoniensis and Piersoni, 6-inch pots $0.50 each Nephrolepis Elegantissima, Piersoni, Bostoniensis and Harrisii, heavy 8-inch plants . $1.00 to 1.50 each them are more stringent than others, as they prohibit the sale of seeds containing certain weed seeds which in that particular state are considered noxious.

For instance, in North Dakota quack grass and Canada thistle are termed noxious seeds; in West Virginia dodder is termed a noxious seed; in North Carolina cheat (or chess) is also termed a noxious seed, and there are no doubt other states where similar laws are enacted.

The intent of any such legislation—if it were possible—is all right, but who can control Dame Nature, that produces both pure and noxious seeds? We do not think there is today a pure seed law on the statute books that would be upheld before any Supreme Court, and, further, don't think it possible to have any seed legislation, unless it be along the lines of adulteration or misbranding of seeds.

GERMAN SEED CROPS.

The annals of the seed trade in Germany do not contain record of so unfavorable a season as the one just passed, nor have the seed growers ever been so put to it to fill orders as they now are. The extreme heat and long continued drought, extending through July, August and September, greatly reduced yields throughout the list and it is impossible to form any conception of the situation by the quotation of prices, for in many lines there are no seeds for sale at any price.

At Quedlinburg it is said that spinach, radish and lettuce have given the best return and that these have yielded no more than one-third to one-half a crop. Parsley, turnip, parsnip, cauliflower, cabbages, kohlrabi and endive have given not over one-fourth of a full crop. Carrot, beet, onion, leek, celery and cucumber have done even worse, but beans and peas were almost a total failure, the latter in some cases not returning the stock seed. The same story has to be told of the flower seeds grown in the open at Quedlinburg. Some of the more delicate annuals failed entirely, while such important crops as nasturtiums, asters, zinnias and verbenas are only a small fraction of a full yield. Petunias, sweet alyssum, candytuft and marigold did a little better. Pansy, mignonette and stocks are possibly half a crop. Biennials and perennials in general are estimated by some as high as half a crop.

At Erfurt not quite so discouraging a story is told, though it is said that the only really satisfactory crop is lettuce. Radish is a fair crop, but spinach is considerably below the average. Cauliflower and parsnip have done fairly well. Peas, of course, are away short. Turnip has yielded poorly. Among the biennials the shortage of plants for next year's crop is affording alarm. The aster is an important specialty with many growers at Erfurt and has been decidedly disappointing.

The world hates a quitter. So long as you won't acknowledge it, you haven't failed. A bee doesn't stop making honey just because he gets a bitter taste in his mouth from one flower—he goes right on to another. You wouldn't quit business if one of your customers failed to pay you—hardly—you would work all the harder and swallow the experience. There are times when we all get "stung," which is the modern way of putting it; but if you look carefully at it, the fault's your own about 90% of the time. Same with a lily grower. No doubt it is very discouraging to spend all your time, heat, labor and care on a lot of lily bulbs and have them "turn bad"; but if every one could grow lilies successfully, where would the value be? Try, try, try again, but before you try twice, be sure that you have the best bulbs to start with. There are no better lily bulbs produced than Horseshoe Brand bulbs, and if you have them, half of your troubles are over to begin with; the risk connected with the other half can be easily overcome if you take care of your plants and learn how a lily bulb should be handled.

Since Hallowe'en there has been a slackening of business. The mum is queen of the trade. There is a plenty of them, but no glut as yet. Some growers say the supply of late varieties will be unusually large about Thanksgiving. The shorter grades of roses were coming fast last week. Longer grades are now more in evidence. Prices are medium. There seems to be an overstock of smilax. It is predicted this will be going better within the next fortnight, when there will be a number of important weddings. Wet weather has threatened the supply of carnations and may force wholesale cutting of mums. The same cause is bad for business generally. Valley is plentiful and fine.

Various Notes.

This is flower show season. The Agricultural Department show closed November 4, after a successful week. The average daily attendance was 2,500.

Last week's flower show of Gude Bros. Co. was enjoyed by the public. It was decided to extend the show throughout this week. A feature of the display was a rustic arbor covered with Beauties.

F. H. Kramer advertises a mum show this week, to which the public is invited.

A rose festival is planned for next spring by flower growers of Brookland, a Washington suburb.

The Gudes display in their window the Dorrance silver medal awarded them by the American Rose Society for the finest rose display at the Boston flower show.

E. J. Fancourt, of the Pennock-Meehan Co., was here recently en route home from a trip south and west. He reports business better in the east than in other sections.

David Groff, of Frederick, Md., came to town the other day to see Uncle Sam's mum show.

W. R. Smith, of the Botanic Gardens, is still at Providence hospital. His condition remains about the same.

GRUBS ON STRAWBERRIES.

We have a bed of strawberries which are badly infested with white grubs. What is the best way to get rid of them? Is there anything with which the plants can be sprayed in summer, to prevent the grubs from lodging in the soil, as I understand they are the larvæ of the June bugs or beetles? Would it be practicable to use bisulphide of carbon for this? How much would such spraying cost, on a bed 60x100 feet? P. S. D.

The grubs referred to are, as stated, the larvæ of the May beetles or June bugs, and in some years they are extremely destructive, sometimes almost destroying lawns and pastures. They are particularly partial to strawberries. You have probably used cow manure for enriching your strawberry bed and the June bugs usually lay their eggs in clods of cow manure. Such manure is often found to be literally swarming with grubs. If you have land that is badly infested with the grubs and not now occupied by any crops, I would suggest using 1,000 pounds of kainite and 250 pounds of nitrate of soda per acre in spring. This will destroy a large proportion of the grubs. Free liming also acts as a deterrent.

Carbon bisulphide will destroy the grubs if you bore holes fifteen inches apart each way, with a pointed stick, and drop a teaspoonful of the liquid in each hole, immediately covering the holes with soil. To go over a bed containing 6,000 square feet in this way would cost $5 or $6 for the carbon. A pound can retails at 25 cents and twenty or thirty cans would be needed to do the job properly. Vaporite is an English preparation, procurable here, which comes in powder form and which kills grubs and worms of all kinds.
Carbide can also be used and is quite effective when the soil is damp; this is also excellent for use in rat holes.
Slightly moistening it causes the formation of a gas, which is quite deadly.

LIVINGSTON, MONT.

One of the chief advantages for florists here, especially with reference to transient trade, is the fact that the city is located on the Northern Pacific railroad and is necessarily much frequented by the Yellowstone Park tourists. When President Taft stopped here a few minutes recently, on his way east, and spoke from the car platform, the Yellowstone Floral Co. presented to him a handsome bouquet, the receipt of which the President acknowledged the same day by sending the firm a letter of thanks. The manager of this firm, Harry C. Gray, also had the honor of making a bouquet for Ex-President Roosevelt last spring, when Mr. Roosevelt passed through the city. Mr. Gray formerly had charge of the flower department of the State Nursery Co., at Helena. The Yellowstone Floral Co. has just completed a new greenhouse, potting shed and office.

NURSERY NEWS.

AMERICAN ASSOCIATION OF NURSERYMEN.

Officers for 1911-12: Pres., J. H. Dayton, Painesville, O.; Vice-pres., W. H. Wyman, North Abington, Mass.; Sec'y, John Hall, Rochester, N. Y.; Treas., C. L. Yates, Rochester, N. Y. Thirty-seventh annual meeting, Boston June 1912.

NURSERY stock is in light supply on the Pacific coast and prices generally are strong.

THE death of Norman J. Coleman, president of the American Association of Nurserymen in 1882, is recorded in this week's obituary column.

THE Gulf Coast Nursery Association will hold its annual meeting at Alvin, Tex., November 17. W. A. Stockwell is president, and I. M. Johnson secretary.

A NEW fumigating house is nearing completion at the Maple avenue nurseries of Hoopes Bros. & Thomas Co., Westchester, Pa., and will be in condition for use within a short time.

BERTRAND H. FARR, of the Wyomissing Nursery, Reading, Pa., says that from the middle of September to the end of October he was completely swamped with peony orders. The digging and shipping has taken every minute of his time.

CATERPILLAR ON FRUIT TREES.

What is the best way of exterminating tent caterpillars on fruit trees?
P. S. D.

Cut off the nests and burn them, if they can be reached. If too high for this method, use a torch on a pole and burn them. Apple trees will be little troubled by these or other pests if they are sprayed three times each year, as follows: First before the buds develop, with Bordeaux mixture; next just as the flowers fall, with Bordeaux and some poison, such as arsenate of lead, and thirdly when the apples are as large as ripe cherries, with the same preparation.
C. W.

CALIFORNIA PRIVET.

Would you kindly advise me if it would be all right to take cuttings from an old hedge this fall? Also, if all right, should they be cut to planting lengths at once or would it be best to leave the whip whole until spring? What would be the proper way to keep them over winter?
J. D. M.

Cuttings of the current season's growth can be taken from your hedge a little later, just before winter sets in. Strip all the leaves from the shoots and make the cuttings five to six inches long. Tie these in bundles from 100 to 150 each and bury them in the soil outdoors over winter. In spring plant them in nursery rows, just sufficiently wide to allow of cultivation by horse or hand. Put the cuttings four inches apart in the rows and bury them two-thirds of their length. Firm them well in the rows and few will fail to root. Select a piece of ground which has been ploughed and well manured, and keep the cultivator well plied between the rows all summer. C. W.

SAN JOSE SCALE.

Under separate cover I am sending some branches of a diseased apple tree. Please describe the disease and how to destroy it.
L. G.

The shoots forwarded were completely crusted with San Jose scale, one of the most destructive pests in America today and which annually destroys many thousands of apples and other fruit trees. You can do nothing towards cleaning out the pest until the leaves fall, after which you must spray every vestige of wood on this and all your other apple trees with either the lime sulphur wash or some soluble oil, of which there are a number of reliable brands on the market for destroying scale. Write to your state college if you can not procure the insecticides conveniently and they will advise you where to procure them and can also give other valuable information. On no occasion neglect spraying, or you will assuredly lose all your trees.

NURSERIES IN IDAHO.

Charles T. Hawkes, president of the Idaho Nurserymen's Association, reports the close of an extremely busy season. "The young trees have all received their last irrigation, the ground has been cultivated for the last time, and the nurseryman is preparing for his fall delivery. The trees he has been so carefully tending for many months will now be counted up, by grades, and everything put in readiness for the prospective planter who has said he was 'going to come to the nursery' for his trees.

"More and more planters are becoming convinced of the positive advantages of fall planting, but there are all too few of them who will take the trouble to come to the nursery to select their stock right out of the nursery row. We fear that many will be disappointed because of waiting till spring, when the nurseryman is compelled to have his trees all dug and heeled in, ready for delivery, and perhaps all sold, too. We cannot live on promises, but must all rustle our customers and book our orders ahead. We most always have our entire stock sold before the spring season opens, for the Idaho nurseries have never yet raised trees enough to meet the home demand. "The last work of the season was the budding of seedling stocks. Thousands upon thousands have been budded in Idaho during the last six weeks. The buds have in most cases been carefully selected from the best strains of bearing trees of the varieties wanted, and painted stakes have been lettered with the names of each variety and set at both ends of the rows as they were budded. The names of the parties from whose orchards the buds have been obtained are often placed upon the stakes, and this makes it real 'pedigreed stock.' The quality of the fruit and the bearing habits of the parent tree have been made a matter of record and the nurseryman every one, since there is such an insistent demand for large quantities of home-grown trees and buds of some special and new varieties are not obtainable in the region except in limited quantities.

among the nurserymen of Idaho every year. Practically every nurseryman has a bearing orchard of his own. It is possible that slightly fewer trees will be planted this fall and next spring, but the home nurseries expect to sell more than ever."

DETROIT.

The Market.

This is the season of the year when every bit of space in a commission house is taxed to the limit. Mums require lots of room. Shipments are heavy, not only in mums, but all kinds of stock. Business has been good, but not quite equal to the supply, especially in mums.

Roses and carnations are of finest quality. Peas are now arriving, and, being of best quality, they sell readily. Cosmos also is good. Ere long the forget-me-not will make its appearance. Violets are popular as ever.

Various Notes.

In all, about five dozen florists boarded the special car which conveyed the members of the Florists' Club to Mt. Clemens, November 2. The various growers were visited in the usual rotation and the most favorable exclamations concerning the stock were heard, as one establishment after another was seen. Carnations at Robert Klagge's and Theodore Mallest's places loomed up above all else. Every available corner at the former place is devoted to cosmos. Breitmeyer's whole range never looked better, and Fred himself looks as though growing flowers agrees with him. Here a bountiful lunch was served, accompanied by the usual speechmaking. Stevens, Taylor and Carey were next visited, and only words of praise were heard. When August Von Boeselager's place was arrived at it was too dark to see much, but so uniquely was the large potting shed decorated and so high were the tables heaped with turkey and other eatables that flowers were for the time being forgotten.

Breitmeyer's new store was formally opened to the public with a chrysanthemum show November 8 and 9. Breitmeyer is now featuring a regular sale every Saturday. Mums have been the inducement, at $1.50 and $2 per dozen.

Jerome K. Stock has commenced the erection of a new store and conservatory on Warren avenue, just west of Avery. The store proper will be 24x55, with offices, workshop and show house in the rear. Mr. Stock will live upstairs. Just across the alley from this new store is his large range of green-houses.

B. Schroeter's new store will be opened next week, November 14 and 15. Dainty ferneries will be presented to the visitors as souvenirs.

The Florists' Club will hold a fall show November 14 and 15 in the Twentieth Century Club building. A good premium list has been issued.

As previously stated, the Rose and Carnation Societies' show, January 10 to 12, will be held in the Wayne pavilion. Headquarters will be the Wayne hotel, immediately adjoining the pavilion. H. S.

THE NEW YELLOW FORCING ROSE

SUNBURST

This magnificent, giant yellow rose has been tested for three years in our benches; it stands head and shoulders above all other sorts of its color and will rank with American Beauty and the Killarneys in value and grandeur—because

It has a long, pointed bud, which can be cut tight for market. It is pre-eminently a long-stemmed rose. The stem is always stiff. It is free in bottom breaks. Is extraordinarily vigorous and healthy. Belongs in the class of Big Roses. Its keeping qualities rank with the best. Buds shipped from Richmond last December opened up perfectly in both Philadelphia and New York, where it scored 90 before the Florists' Club.

The color is orange-copper or golden orange and golden yellow, all intense shades, extremely brilliant in effect.

Come and see it growing; we have 8,000 of it benched.

Does splendidly out of doors; will rank high as a bedder. At the Chicago show, 1910, it was awarded the silver cup for the best new rose never before exhibited, and the judges unanimously gave it honorable mention additional. Has created a sensation wherever shown.

Raised by M. Pernet-Ducher, from whom we bought the American rights.

We have divided our stock with Mr. C. H. Totty, of Madison, N. J., to give eastern growers a chance to see it growing. Will be distributed March 1 in America by C. H. Totty and The E. G. Hill Co. Mr. Pernet will distribute same date in Europe.

The American price is $30.00 per 100; $250.00 per 1000 (own roots); $5.00 per 100 additional for grafts

CLEVELAND.

The Market.

Last week's frost had its effect on this market; all stock is cleaning up better than for several weeks.

Mums are still plentiful and of much better grade. Some extra fancies in Bonnaffons, Enguehards and other late varieties are to be seen. Roses are decreasing somewhat in quantity. Most growers pinch their Killarneys back at this time, so as to bring a heavier Christmas crop. Carnations are getting better day by day and there are just about enough of them to go around.

Various Notes.

J. J. Karins, of Henry A. Dreer's, Philadelphia, made the rounds of the growers last week.

Mr. Dysinger, of the Ionia Pottery Co., called on the trade.

T. Smith, of Smith & Fetters, led a party of fourteen of the faithful to a clam bake November 2. The clams were poor, the chicken and lobster fine, and the class of entertainment was of the best.

Harry Balsley, of the Detroit Flower Pot Manufactory, was a recent visitor.

How about a Florists' Club dance, right after Thanksgiving? F. A. F.

Fred Aul, of 537 East One Hundred and Fifth street, was seriously injured recently when the wagon in which he was driving was struck by a street car. The wagon was partly demolished and Mr. Aul was thrown to the pavement. He was taken to Glenville hospital, where the doctors found that he was suffering from a fracture of the skull and internal injuries.

James Edie, of the Edie Co., will go on a fishing trip with a party from Cleveland after the holidays and will be away several months. They will go to the neighborhood of San Antonio, Tex.

Fred Burger has his two new houses, erected this fall, planted to carnations that are looking fine. Mr. Burger has had a busy summer. Situated near the cemetery, he is successful in getting heavy orders for funeral work.

Reading, Pa.—Herman Stabenow, Jr., is erecting a commercial greenhouse, 24x100, at the southeast corner of Twelfth and Exeter streets.

Waterbury, Conn.—W. H. Roberts and Edward Miller, whose residences are on adjoining lots in Platts Mills, are building a greenhouse at the rear of and between the two homes and will grow general stock for the trade. They expect to have the house finished and planted in time for the holiday trade.

COLUMBUS, O.

The Market.

Trade is certainly back to the good old times again. Mums are in full blast and are moving well and one great satisfaction to all the craft is that they have been bringing much better prices than usual. While there have been some inferior blooms, the majority of them have been of excellent grade and it is the same old story, the best grade is the one that brings in the coin.

Roses are fine and the supply has been a little light, but it is just as well during the mum season. However, there have been about enough to go the rounds. The demand for Beauties has been rather light and supply limited. Carnations have been quite plentiful, but the demand has been about equal to the supply and has kept them worked up in good shape most of the time. Valley has moved slowly for the last two weeks and the supply is limited.

The demand for pot mums is rather light and it is surprising to see some of the excellent specimen plants that go begging for buyers. Pot ferns are not moving rapidly at present.

Various Notes.

The Florists' Club has held no meetings of importance of late, but will get busy shortly.

Sherman Stephens reports heavy business in cemetery work.

Wm. Metzmaier reports business at his place on the right pace.

The Franklin Park Floral Co. reports business good since mums have come in.

The Fifth Avenue Floral Co. is cutting loads of mums at present.

C. D. Batelle, formerly a vegetable grower at Toledo, but of late years a resident of this city, died Wednesday evening, November 1. Although not actively engaged in the flower business, he was a great admirer of flowers and was a member of the Columbus Florists' Club. The pall bearers were selected from the club members as follows: C. A. Roth, Sherman Stephens, G. H. Woodrow, Wm. Metzmaier, Jake Reichert and Jas. McKellar. J. M.

Port Ewen, N. Y.—A company of landscape gardeners has been incorporated here, under the name of the Francis Howard Corporation, with a capital stock of $250,000. The incorporators are D. Cahart, B. B. Gattel and A. P. Hallett, all of New York city.

The Great New Forcing Hydrangea Arborescens Grandiflora Alba or—"HILLS OF SNOW"

Illustration of a two-year-old field-grown, cut back plant, forced, of Hydrangea Arborescens Grandiflora Alba. The true forcing variety.

The best flowers were produced from cut back plants, potted in heavy soil without a fertilizer. Where stimulants were used, the tendency was towards a weak neck that would not hold the mammoth bloom upright. It is imperative, to get the best results, that the plants should be subjected to hard freezing before bringing into the heat.

THE GOOD & REESE COMPANY.

Dear Sirs:—We notice your ad in Florists' Review regarding Hydrangea Arborescens Grandiflora Alba. We forced six large tubs of this variety last Easter, placing several plants in each tub. We were very successful in timing them; they had 25 to 30 heads of perfect flowers. The best asset this plant has, that we discovered, you do not mention in your adv. These plants kept in perfect shape, both foliage and flower, for 8 weeks in our store-room; not a leaf turned yellow. For store decoration during the spring months, nothing finer and more lasting than this plant. We give you this experience, seeing you are pushing the sale of this plant.

Very respectfully, J. W. DUDLEY & SONS, Parkersburg, W. Va.

IMPORTANT

As is well known, there are two distinct varieties of this new Hydrangea, one of which cannot be coddled or coaxed into producing a single flower under glass. The stock we offer is the true forcing variety. We have a fine stock of 50,000 one, two and three-year-old field-grown plants, ready to pot up for forcing. These will move quickly. Order to-day.

Young stock from 2½-inch pots, 50c per doz., $3.50 per hundred, $30.00 per thousand.

One year field-grown plants, 12 to 18 inches, 1 cane, 75c per doz., $5.50 per hundred, $50.00 per thousand.

One year field-grown plants, 18 to 24 inches, 1 cane, $1.00 per doz., $7.00 per hundred, $65.00 per thousand.

One year field-grown plants, 12 to 18 inches, 2 canes, $1.25 per dozen, $8.00 per hundred, $75.00 per thousand.

One year field-grown, 18 to 24 inches, 2 to 3 canes, $1.50 per doz., $10.00 per hundred, $90.00 per thousand.

Two year, 18 to 24 inches, 2 to 3 canes, $1.75 per dozen, $12.50 per hundred, $120.00 per thousand.

SPRINGFIELD, OHIO

This shrub forces easily both for Easter and Decoration day. This new Hydrangea is without question the grandest shrub or plant of any kind for forcing that is in existence today. This statement will admit of no controversy.

To show how easily it can be brought into flower, a neighbor florist, just starting in the business, without any previous knowledge on forcing plants, having never forced a single plant of any kind, potted 500 field plants the 20th of October, plunging them in a cold frame. Nine weeks before Easter part of them were brought in and kept at a night temperature of 40 to 45 degrees; during the day the temperature would run from 50 to 60 degrees. They were in full flower for Easter.

The balance of the plants were brought in the 20th of March and kept about the same temperature. The first bloom perfected the 12th of May, and the lot was in full bloom for Decoration day and—What a sight! Enough to warm the cockles in the heart of any florist. Everyone who saw them could but wonder.

The plants on which the canes were allowed to remain, when brought in, threw out branches a foot to 15 inches in length with a bloom on every tip. On those that were cut back to within four inches of the pot, the eyes broke near the base of the plant, throwing up from five to eight canes three feet high, with blooms of the purest snow white that were a foot in diameter. The lasting qualities of its flowers are one of its great money making points, as the blooms last in perfect condition from two to three weeks.

ROSES

We are headquarters for roses. We are booking orders now for spring delivery. Send us your list of needs, and we will be pleased to quote you. Our catalogue describes and prices some three hundred varieties, both new and old—now ready. Write for it today.

BALTIMORE.

The Market.

Business conditions have improved steadily during the last week. A killing frost arrived November 3, putting an end to all outside stock. The weather is now colder and more seasonable, and snow flurries have warned us that winter is not far off. It is true that prices have not made much advance, but that can hardly be expected as long as the mum glut lasts. Chrysanthemums continue in big supply and are of unusually good quality. Prices are, however, not what they should be. Extra fine flowers sell at $1.50 to $2 per dozen; in fact, few fancies go above this price.

Roses are cleaning up well and the cooler weather has much improved their quality. Killarney and White Killarney are selling well. Brides, Gates and Maids sell slowly. Carnations are recovering somewhat from the doldrums in which they have been while dahlias were king, and are now selling better.

Various Notes.

The public parks and squares are being planted with 100,000 tulips and 200,000 pansies, which are now a prominent feature in the parks and are becoming more popular each season.

J. Bolgiano & Son are having their annual sale of house plants of all kinds and find that there is a heavy demand for ferns, araucarias and palms of all sizes. This firm's contract for spring stock of bedding plants has more than doubled last season's order.

HERINGTON, KAN.

The Market.

This has been an exceedingly trying year for Kansas florists and gardeners. All records have been broken for heat and dryness. The prospects now look better, however, with the advent of light showers and fine autumn weather. Establishments recently visited by the writer are beginning to show signs of new life and the florists themselves have new hope. It is almost impossible to discourage a Kansan.

Carnations are late and small, but have good bud and bloom. Dahlias came through the unfavorable weather all right and bloomed finely. Chrysanthemums are good flowers, large and perfect. Roses suffered the most.

Various Notes.

J. A. Gordon, proprietor of the Herington Greenhouses, has been working for the last week on plans to double the size of his plant.

J. M. Kessler, of Topeka, is sending out some of the best roses to be found on the market.

W. H. Underwood, of Hutchinson, has two houses of fine mums.

Everywhere the florists are all getting ready for a large winter trade.

W. G.

Joliet, Ill.—A. C. Rott will give a flower show at his store this week, with unique souvenirs for the ladies.

Montgomery, Ala.—The Rosemont Gardens, W. B. Paterson, proprietor, is distributing a handsome colored post-card showing the interior of its store.

PREPARE FOR THE HOLIDAYS!

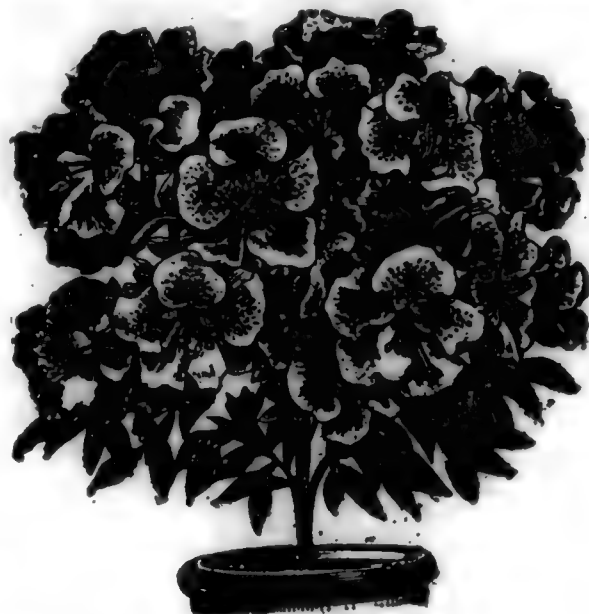

SECOND SHIPMENT IS IN

SEVENTY-FIVE CASES of Holiday Azaleas for Christmas, Kentia Palms, Latania Borbonica, etc., and to make the importation complete—a whole consignment of our so well-known specialty, the Araucaria Robusta Compacta, Excelsa Glauca and Excelsa, just arrived per SS. Menominee October 23, from Belgium. These, together with the already immense stock of Holiday Plants, will place the so well-known firm of Godfrey Aschmann in first rank in importing, growing and shipping of Holiday Plants.

CHEAP GOOD RELIABLE

Therefore, don't be deceived—be on the lookout! Buy only from the man who is well known to be in a position to give you GOOD BARGAINS AND GOOD STOCK.

What F. J. Michell, of the well-known Seed House, Henry F. Michell Co., of Philadelphia, said:

"Have just visited the greenhouses of Godfrey Aschmann, and must say that it was indeed a great surprise to me—I have never seen a better lot of Araucarias, Azaleas, Ferns and other plants of all sizes and prices than are at Mr. Aschmann's."

Leader in Azalea Indica, Begonia Gloire de Lorraine, Palms, Etc.—Lead you into wealth.

CAN HANDLE LARGEST ORDER ON SHORT NOTICE

Now is the time to force Azalea Indica for Christmas. What varieties will you force? Surely the ones, the early varieties, that I know I can get in in time for Xmas. There is Deutsche Perle, one of the best early double whites. We have plants full of buds, at 50c, 60c, 75c, $1.00, $1.25, $1.50 to $2.00 each. Simon Mardner, you know this variety well. It is an early, deep, double pink variety, 50c, 60c, 75c, $1.25, $1.50 to $2.00 each. Vervaeana, one of the old standard, well favored, large, double, variegated varieties, 50c, 75c, $1.00, $1.25, $1.50 to $2.00. Didn't you ever hear of that earliest of all varieties, Mme. Petrick? This is a variety hard to beat, pink, double flowers, full of buds and never fails to bloom. A child can bring this variety into bloom for Christmas. It is very scarce and high in price this fall in Belgium. You must have a few of them anyhow, 50c, 75c, $1.00, $1.25, $1.50 to $2.00 each.

Easter Varieties. For Easter forcing we have only the well known standard American varieties, such as Mme. Van der Gruyssen, pink (very scarce this fall in Belgium), 75c, $1.00, $1.25, $1.50 to $2.00 each. Niobe, double white. We have a large stock of this, 40c, 50c, 60c, 75c, $1.00, $1.25, $1.50 to $2.00. Deutsche Perle, 50c, 60c, 75c, $1.00, $1.25, $1.50 to $2.00. Helene Theleman, light pink, $1.00, $1.25, $1.50 to $2.00. President Oswald de Kerchove, $1.00, $1.25 to $1.50. Schryveriana and Empress of India, large, double variegated, 50c, 75c, $1.00, $1.25, $1.50 to $2.00. Professeur Wolters, 50c, 60c, 70c, $1.00 to $1.50. Simon Mardner, 60c, 75c, $1.00, $1.25 to $1.50. Vervaeana and Apollo, 60c, 75c, $1.00, $1.25, $1.50 to $2.00; dozen or 100 at same prices. Simon Mardner, Vervaeana, Deutsche Perle, smaller size, 40c, 50c up to $2.00. Also a few more of the best varieties.

Just Arrived with the azaleas a fine consignment of Latania Borbonica, in first-class condition. Perfect foliage, 8 good leaves—height given in consular invoice, 35 to 40 inches, fit for 7 and 8-in. pots, $1.50 to $2.00. Combination Latania Borbonica (3 plants), 6-in. pots, 25 to 30 in. high, forming a bush of about 12 leaves, which give them an attractive appearance, $1.00 to $1.25.

We have the stock—the best obtainable in Belgium—of Araucaria Robusta Compacta and Excelsa Glauca; short, bushy jewels—none better in the world. 6-in. pots, $1.00, $1.25 and $1.50. We can give a special price on Araucaria Excelsa, 7-in. pots, 6, 7 to 8 tiers, 30, 35 to 40 inches high, worth $3.00 to $5.00; to obtain room, now only 4c to 5c per inch or $1.50 each. Will you let such a bargain pass unnoticed?

Kentia Forsteriana, in fine shape, 5½ to 6-in. pots, 4, 5 and 6-year-old, 30, 35, 40 and 45 inches high, 75c, $1.00, $1.25, $1.50, $2.00 to $2.50; 4-in., 30c.

Kentia Belmoreana, 5, 6 to 7-year-old, 5, 5½, 6 to 7-in. pots, 50c, 75c, $1.00, $1.25, $1.50 to $2.00 each; 4-in., 25c.

Kentia Belmoreana, which came on the same steamer as azaleas, are potted off combination plants (made up with 3 plants), 22 to 25 inches high, having 12, 13 to 15 leaves to a pot (in 6-in. pots), 50c, 60c, 75c to $1.00, according to height; still larger sizes, $1.00, $1.25 to $1.50; single plants, 5 leaves, 22 to 25 in. high, stocky 5½ to 5¾-in. pots, only 50c, worth 75c.

Sago Palms, ready now, 6, 7 to 8-in. pots, 9 to 18 leaves, 12c per leaf.

Asparagus Plumosus, 2½-in., 3c; 3-in., 5c; 4-in., 10c and 15c.

Leader in Ferns—Scottii, Scholzei, Whitmani and Boston. 6 houses stocked with them; 10,000 in all sizes and varieties now ready, never before better than this year; 5, 5½ in., 25c, 35c; 6 and 7-in., as big as a bushel basket, only 50c, 75c to $1.00. Scottii, Whitmani, Scholzei, 4 in., 15c to 20c; fine to grow on. Giaterasii, 4-in., 20c; 5-in., 25c and 30c. Our ferns are all pot grown—not lifted from benches.

Ferns. Cordata Compacta, 4-in., 15c to 20c.

Ferns for dishes, big assortment, 2½-in. pots, $4.00 per 100; 3-in., $5.00 per 100.

Asparagus Sprengeri, 2½-in., 3c.

Hydrangea Otaksa, pot-grown, 6-in., 25c, 35c to 40c; 7-in., 50c. Only pot-grown, will force successfully for Easter.

Begonia Gloire de Lorraine. This is another of our specialties. We have a secret in growing them to perfection, only known to us, giving them a rich, deep color; stand shipping well, travelling 2000 to 3000 miles without the least bit of injury if properly handled. We have a big house full in No. 1 condition, 6 to 7-in. sizes, in bud and partly in bloom, ready for immediate sale or for the holidays. Everybody knows that last Christmas we had the best Begonia Gloire de Lorraine in the market. They were crackerjacks, indeed! We have the deep pink and the light pink (Lonsdale) varieties, 6-in. pots, 50c, 75c, $1.00; 8-in., 12c to 15c. If you have room order now, because they are always scarce at Xmas.

Begonia Erfordii, newest improved strain. This variety is always in bloom during the whole winter, Xmas and Easter, 4-in. pots, in bud or bloom, 20c; 5½-in., 25c to 30c.

Solanum or Jerusalem Cherries, our well-known prize strain, the multiflorum, 6-in., 25c, 35c, 40c to 50c.

Cineraria Hybrida, Aschmann's well-known strain, 2½-in. pots, $3.00 per 100; 3-in., $5.00.

Primula Obconica, big 4-in., in bloom, 15c; 5½-in., in bloom, 25c.

Primula Chinensis, best strain, 4-in., 10c; 5-in., 20c.

Shasta Daisies, pure white, 2½-in. pots, $3.00 per 100.

Poinsettias, raised outdoors, in frame now—seedlings, $1.00 per 100; 3-in., 15c; short, stocky plants, large 4-in., ready for a shift into 5, 5½ or 6-in., 25c; single or bunched, 5½ to 6-in., 35c, 40c, 50c.

Wilsoni Ferns, 3 plants in a 6-inch pan, 25c to 35c per pan.

Adiantum Hybridum, large 4-in., 15c; medium 4-in., 10c.

Cocos Weddelliana, made up of 3 plants, 4 to 5-in. pots, 30c, 40c to 50c; 3-in., single, 15c; 4-in., single, 25c.

Areca Lutescens, 4-in., 3 plants in a pot, bushy, showy, large, 25c; 5½-in. pots, 24-in., 35c.

Ficus Elastica (Rubber Plant), 5-inch, 25c; 5½ to 6-in. pots, 20 to 25 inches high, 35c, 40c and 50c each; 7-in., 30 to 35 inches high, 75c to $1.00.

Cyclamen Grandiflorum, 4-in. pots, 25c; 5½-in., 35c.

All plants 25 at 100 rate. Cash with order, please. All plants must travel at risk of purchaser only.

PANSIES.

PANSY PARK PERFECTION is the most thoroughbred strain of giant show and fancy pansies, the flowers of largest size and most perfect form. I have made growing of pansy seeds and plants a specialty for nearly 40 years and it is the result of many years of breeding and selection. It also contains every variety introduced by foreign growers up to date. Special attention given to long distance orders, light packing and billed through at lowest rates. My method of packing is so light and perfect that I guarantee delivery in good condition at any express office in the U. S. "The proof of the pudding is the eating thereof." A few samples of what others say: "Pansies arrived in good condition. In fact they are the best plants we have ever bought." Myers & Co., Bluffton, Ind. "Send me $10.00 worth of your best pansy seed. If as good in colors and size as they were last year I will need double the amount next year." G. H. Toepke, Detroit, Mich. "Pansy plants arrived in 1st class condition. Am much pleased with them." C. H. Ward & Son, Winter Park, Fla. "Pansy plants came in such good condition that I want as many more as soon as possible." Mrs. S. C. Auster, Knoxville, Tenn. "Your Pansy Park Perfection were the finest pansies I ever had in my 25 years of business. My customers went into ecstasies over their beautiful colors." H. G. Wolfgang, Leetonia, O. "The Pansy Park Perfection pansy plants obtained from you for our parks were quite satisfactory. Book our order for 50,000." W. S. Manning, General Superintendent of Parks, Baltimore, Md. An immense stock of fine field-grown plants from seed sown thinly, broadcast, so that each plant has plenty of room to grow stocky and strong, with extra good roots. Over 75 varieties mixed, the reds, bronzes and best fancy sorts in large proportion, 1000, $3.00; 500, $1.75; 5000, $14.00; 10,000, $27.00. Cash.

L. W. Goodell, Pansy Park, Dwight, Mass.

HOME OF PANSIES.

Our growing crops of pansies for seed were greatly admired by all florists who saw them this last summer. All said they were grand—some said they were the best they had ever seen. We reserved over 50,000 of our best for seed growing and they certainly were a pretty sight. We are improving on them annually, and have a fine lot of red, red shades and other crosses of our own origin and nearly all colors and shades found in pansies. We started a few for a test very early and they have surprised us as to coloring and size of flowers; showing improvement over parent stock. You cannot go wrong if you place your order with us. If, upon blooming, you are not perfectly satisfied I will return every cent you paid for them. I made this same offer last year and had not a kick and I am better prepared to make it now than I was then. Our plants are in excellent shape owing to the good growing weather this fall; they are twice as heavy as last year and too large to go by mail. Our packing is right, we land them safe in Louisiana, Florida, California and other distant points. Have a large stock, all strong, sturdy, field-grown. Am receiving numerous testimonials and now have a large list of annual customers. Our collection contains no black, unless so ordered. We have a good stock of black which we keep separate. We can also supply, separate, Masterpiece, Giant Mme. Perret and Giant Prize Trimardeau; also blood red and Golden Queen, separate. All at the same price, $2.50 1000; 5000, $10.00. Liberal count.

E. Rawlings, Wholesale Grower, OLEAN, N. Y. Pansy plants, grown from the best giant mixtures of seed we know of. Nice, stocky plants, $3.00 per 1000, 50c per 100; $3.50 per 1000, express prepaid. S. W. Pike, St. Charles, Ill.

PROVIDENCE.

The Market.

There was a noticeable improvement in general business last week and the indications are that business during the month of November will exceed anything experienced here in several years. The great trouble is that the activity will be bunched into a brief period. There are a number of large coming-out parties and receptions, with balls and other functions, that bespeak a busy month. There is a good supply of all kinds of stock, with the chrysanthemums well to the fore. Prices are about normal.

Horticultural Society Show.

The annual fall show of the Rhode Island Horticultural Society was held jointly with the Rhode Island boys' corn show at the Elysium, November 4 and 5. The attendance was large, but the exhibition of flowers and plants was exceedingly limited, little interest being apparently manifested by the growers. In years past the exhibitors of plants and flowers have felt that they did not get the treatment that they were entitled to and have consequently dropped out. An effort is now being made to get them interested again, and to this end the Florists' and Gardeners' Club of Rhode Island has been invited to lend a hand.

In the flower department a new feature was introduced, namely, mantel decorations. The corners of the hall were also made attractive by the fine showings of ferns, palms and potted decorative plants. The judges in the flower department were Cornelius Hartstraw and Eugene McCarron, and the following awards were made:

Roses: Burke Rose Co., Cranston, first with Killarney.
Carnations: John A. Macrae, Providence, first; Alexander Macrae, Providence, second.
Violets: J. Kopelman & Co., Providence, first.
Mantel decoration: William Appleton, Providence, first.
Palms and foliage plants: Chas. H. Hunt, Providence, first; William Appleton, second.
Garden evergreens: William Appleton, special mention.
Mums: 12 white, Alexander Macrae, first; 12 yellow, F. S. Peck, Barrington Center, first; Alexander Macrae, second; 12 any other color, F. S. Peck, first; collection single mixed, A. M. Powell, Providence, first; F. S. Peck, second.

Various Notes.

Albert Holscher has just purchased a new delivery wagon that is the envy of fellow members of the trade.

John Johnston, a son of Edward J. Johnston, of Swan Point road, while riding his bicycle near his home a few evenings ago was struck by an automobile and thrown some distance. Although the bicycle was badly damaged, the boy escaped unhurt. The autoists continued without stopping to see what damage had been inflicted.

Wm. B. Scott & Co., of Newport, received a large importation of bulbs from Holland last week.

O. L. Hughes, who has opened a retail store at 82 Westminster street, has styled it the Providence Flower Shop.

T. O'Connor is cutting 1,500 to 2,000 carnations daily at his houses on Blackstone boulevard. He reports several large funeral orders last week.

The Continental Nurseries, of Franklin, Mass., M. I. Van Leeuwen, manager, have just received several large invoices of hyacinth, tulip, crocus and daffodil bulbs. W. H. M.

CINCINNATI.

The Gateway to the South.

The demand for All Saints' and All Souls' day celebrations was good and cleaned up the supply nicely. The various growers who took stand at the various cemeteries had little trouble in disposing of all their stock at good prices. The shipping call for stock during this time also was brisk.

Roses are coming strong. The pink, Beauties and red are snapped up quickly, while white is slower, in spite of large sales, owing to the tremendous supply. Carnations are cleaning up quickly. All the midseason varieties of chrysanthemums are included in the offerings. The medium-sized blooms are most popular. All good offerings clean up. Pompons are selling well, but at no stiff prices.

In other lines, Easter lilies are again enjoying a good market and are bringing fair prices. Violets, both the New York doubles and the local singles, run short of the call. Valley and cattleyas again sell well. The green goods market is amply supplied.

Flower Show Plans.

The executive committee of the flower show has everything well in hand and is anxious for the opening, November 13. Hon. Louis Schwab, mayor of Cincinnati, will open the exhibition, which, judging from the rate at which the entries are coming in, will be a most successful one. Superintendent William Murphy is prepared to take care of all entries, even those which arrive at the last moment. The silver cups offered are on exhibition in the window of the McDonald-Kiley Co., on Walnut street. In addition, the S. A. F. silver and bronze medals for new and meritorious flowers of American origin will be given. Large posters now adorn the billboards of the vicinity, and if the large number of inquiries in the retail stores presages anything at all it shows that the public is interested and will turn out in force.

Don't forget the smoker, Thursday, November 16, at the Bismarck rathskeller, at 8 p. m. Many of the prominent members of the trade will be on hand during the show week, and the visitors will undoubtedly lend their presence, as guests of the Cincinnati Florists' Society, to the smoker. There will be the usual eats, refreshments and smokes, while the Porkchops Quartet will provide entertainment, both instrumental and vocal. All who will attend should try to call on or notify C. E. Critchell, P. J. Olinger or Charles H. Hoffmeister, or the secretary of the show at Music hall before noon, November 16.

Various Notes.

Club meeting Saturday evening at the Cincinnati Cut Flower Exchange, 24 East Second avenue. Important.

Albert McCullough and Tom Windram go to Florida this week.

Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Olinger spent several days the early part of the week at Newcastle, Ind.

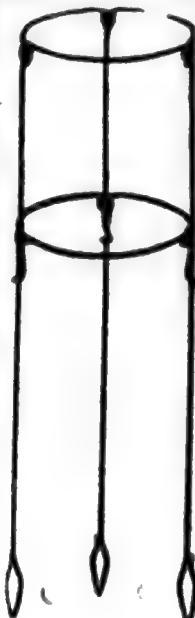

Absentees from town last week included C. J. Jones, who went to Richmond, Ind., and George Trome, whose point of destination was Chicago.

L. H. Kyrk reports a strong demand for mums of the medium size.

Gus Adrian, Henry Schwarz and Max Rudolph attended the Indiana State Florists' Association meeting at Richmond.

C. E. Critchell has been having a heavy out-of-town call for green goods.

Visitors: Wm. Gardner, Newcastle; R. Groves, Adams, Mass., and J. Broxey, Dayton, O. C. H. H.

EASTERN FUEL MARKET.

The report of Smith, Lineaweaver & Co., Philadelphia, is unusually interesting this month, foreshadowing, as it does, the possibility of a shortage in both anthracite and bituminous coals during the spring and early summer of 1912.

"All the anthracite mines are running full time and have been for the last few months. The demand is excellent and prices strong. This is not at all unusual at this time of the year. Further, it is generally supposed that there will be a strike in both the anthracite and bituminous coal regions April 1, 1912, when the present agreements with the mine workers expire. This will have a tendency to create an extraordinary demand through the winter, as many people will desire to carry heavier stocks, with prospect of labor trouble, than they ordinarily would.

"The bituminous coal demand is not so strong as it ordinarily is at this time of year, but is improving steadily. The better grades are in rather active demand and at good prices, while the low grades are in only fair demand, but show some slight improvement."

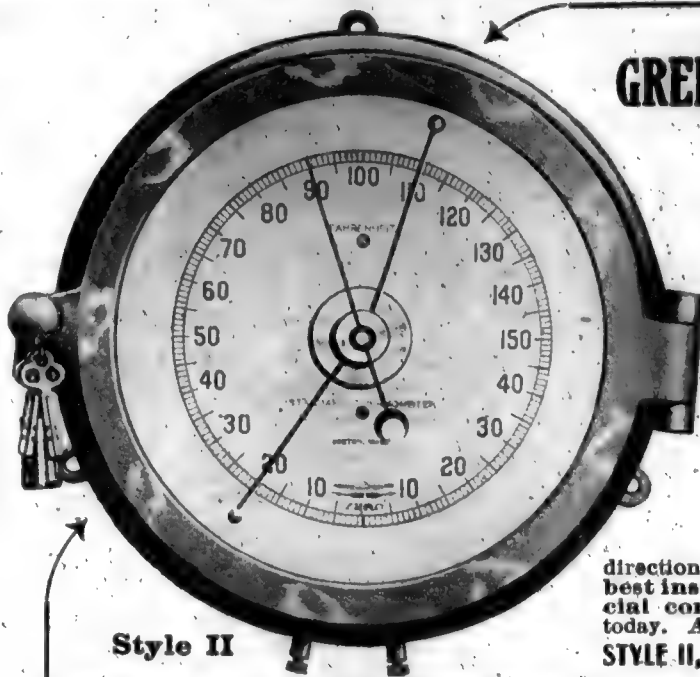

THREE KANSAS HOUSES.

I am building a house 11x75 feet, five feet to the gutters and eight feet to the ridge, at the south side of my present house. How many 2-inch returns will be needed to heat it to 40 degrees when the outside temperature is 3 degrees below zero? My present house has one 2-inch flow and eight 1½-inch returns on each side; that is, there are two 2-inch flows and sixteen 1½-inch returns. I wish to change the 2-inch flows to 2½-inch flows.

My boiler is tapped for one 2½-inch flow and two 2-inch returns. It is a twelve horse-power traction boiler, with thirty-two 2-inch flues, and it holds three or four barrels of water. Would this boiler be large enough to heat three houses, each seventy-five feet long, with the other dimensions as follows: Eleven feet wide, five feet to the gutters and eight feet to the ridge; twenty-three feet wide, five feet to the gutters and twelve feet to the ridge; thirty-two feet wide, five feet to the gutters and twelve feet to the ridge?
B. P. M.

For the first house described it will be desirable to use one 2½-inch flow and four 2-inch returns. While one 2-inch flow might be used, it would be rather small for the best results. The change from 2-inch to 2½-inch flows in the other house will certainly be a good one, as it is not advisable to attempt to carry more than 200 square feet of radiation with a 2-inch flow pipe.

A twelve horse-power boiler will hardly be large enough to heat three houses of the sizes mentioned, unless it will answer to allow the temperature to drop to 40 degrees in zero weather. To heat them to 60 degrees, a sixteen horse-power boiler would be desirable and a boiler of twenty horse-power would be still better. The boiler should have two 2½-inch flow connections and two 2½-inch return connections, but if this can not be arranged, take off two 2½-inch flow pipes, one to each house, as near the boiler as possible, and carry back a 2½-inch main return pipe from each house to a point close to the boiler, where they can be reduced to 2-inch and connected with the 2-inch ports. It would be even better if the larger house could have two 2½-inch flows and two 2½-inch returns, connected directly with the boiler.

RETURN PIPES ARE COLD.

I am having some trouble with the heating of a new house, 18x42, three-quarter span and twelve feet to the ridge. The house runs east and west. The south wall is four feet high and contains two feet of glass. The north wall adjoins another house and the west wall adjoins the boiler house; the east wall is without glass. My piping is as follows: A 3-inch flow, rising six and one-half feet straight up from the boiler, which is at the north side of the house, in a pit; then an elbow and nine feet of pipe to the center of the house; then another elbow, connecting with a flow which runs to the east end of the house, three feet from the ridge. At the east end I have a 3-inch tee and eighteen inches of 3-inch pipe running each way; then a 3x2½x2 tee; then a 2½x2x2 tee and a 2-inch elbow. This gives me six 2-inch returns, three on each side wall. The returns drop straight down three, three and one-half and four feet, and then run to the side walls and back to the west end of the house, where they come together with the same arrangement of tees and pipe as at the other end of the house, except that the pipes on the south wall drop and run across the house on the floor, to be out of the way. All the pipes come together under the north bench, about three feet from the boiler, and connect with a 3-inch pipe which runs two feet on a level and then drops down to the bottom of the boiler, into a 3-inch return opening.

The trouble is as follows: The flow pipe becomes quite hot, but the returns scarcely heat any. All the pipes, both flow and returns, run with a slight fall. Can you tell me the reason for the trouble?
H. E. H.

There is nothing in the description of the piping which indicates the cause are all satisfied with the results it has given, and many duplicate orders is the proof. This Valve will maintain a steady pressure on the low side, no matter how the initial pressure fluctuates. By carrying 40 or 50 pounds pressure on the boiler and setting the valve to carry 5 or 10 pounds on the line, you always have a reserve to fall back on in case of a sudden drop in temperature. Our new catalogue is just out and if you contemplate making any changes you had better get one—it is yours for the asking.

of the trouble. The piping seems to be properly planned, though it might be well to have two more return pipes, if a temperature as high as 60 degrees is desired in the coldest periods.

Nothing is said regarding the expansion tank and its connection. This should be joined to the highest part of the flow pipe, which should be over the boiler. From the point of connection there should be a slight fall in both flow and return pipes all the way back to the boiler. If the expansion tank is properly connected, the only difficulty that seems probable is that there is a rise in the pipe at some point, where air pockets.

TROUBLE WITH THE DRAFT.

I am having trouble with the draft of my boiler and shall be grateful to you if you can tell me the reason for the trouble. I am sending you a rough sketch or diagram, so as to aid you in understanding my description. It is a small tubular boiler, six feet long and three feet in diameter, in a brick enclosure eight feet long, with the smoke-stack near the left-hand corner. At first the boiler was connected to the stack by means of a horizontal brick flue, three feet long. This flue, which was only a little above the level of the boiler top, was connected to the right-hand corner of the boiler and extended crosswise to the stack. With this arrangement, however, the draft was too strong and there was no place for a damper. Therefore we made a new connection by running a flue, 10x12 inches in size, directly from the left-hand corner of the boiler to the stack. This flue enters the stack about two feet farther up than the former flue. Now there is no draft. It is evident that I have made some mistake; can you tell me what it is? L. H. E. M.

Your description is not sufficiently clear, even with the help of the drawing, to tell just what the trouble is, as the slight change made does not seem sufficient to make all the difference between too strong a draft and no draft at all. If there is nothing wrong in the way the present connection is made, try connecting the stack with the central part of the end of the boiler, using a flue with a damper, as shown in the sketch.

Aids in Checking Mildew

The Kroeschell Generator purchased from you some time since is giving excellent satisfaction. It not only adds to the capacity of the boiler, on account of the increased velocity of the hot water circulation, and consequently less piping is required, but it also seems to maintain a steadier and more even temperature all over the houses where it is in use.

For instance, the new house I have just completed, 43 ft. wide by 265 ft. long, and piped according to your instructions, is not varying more than two degrees all over the house at any time, and I consider that remarkable for so large a house.

Another advantage is that, where roses are grown, sulphur applied to the pipes for checking mildew is much more effective.

WESTERLY, R. I.

The Market.

We are now about to enter a good, busy season. November generally calls for a good amount of business. Many weddings have taken place during the last month. October begins to rival June in the number of its weddings. The last week in October proved to be stormy. Carnations suffered greatly during the cloudy spell.

The chrysanthemums seem to take the lead; there are big sales and shipments of these and still there are plenty left. Yellow is particularly plentiful. Pacific is scarce as yet. There seems to be a large supply of stock in general. Killarney roses are the best of all at the present time. There has been a great deal of funeral work, which has used up lots of stock. Autumn leaves and yellow mums were used for many of the wedding decorations. Dahlias are fine and are also cheap, but are nearing their end. Blooming plants are scarce, but ferns and palms sell well. Business, taken as a whole, is good.

Various Notes.

The frosts, which have nipped many gardens in this vicinity, have thus far spared the Hillcrest Dahlia Gardens, near the top of Quarry Hill. These dahlias are still in good condition and make a most brilliant display.

Chrysanthemum plants and pretty little primroses are among the favorite gift plants just now.

Louis J. Reuter, of the firm of S. J. Reuter & Son, who was recently married, will reside on Spring street, in this city.

Emil Johnson is back in Westerly again and has reentered the employment of the Riverside Greenhouses, after an absence of four years, which he has spent at his home in Sweden.

Thomas Roland has a fine house of mums, and he ships the output to Boston.

SPRINGFIELD, O.

Gus Schneider, the leading florist doing a retail trade, has been on the sick list for the last ten days and has been confined to his bed, suffering from a bad cold.

The Good & Reese Co. is busy grading rose plants, taking the ones further advanced, placing them so they will be in easy reach for early orders. Never has the rose stock in all leading varieties looked so well. Ferns from 2½-inch up to 4-inch, of Boston, Whitmani and Roosevelt, are seen in large blocks in fine shape. Shipping is heavy.

The Market.

Trade was unusually quiet last week. There has been some little decorating, but, outside of that, business has been dull. Funeral work has been slow. Chrysanthemums are in full blast now, and there are enough to go around. The single and pompon varieties are in great demand. Beauties, roses and carnations are improving in quality. Violets and orchids are not in heavy demand.

Various Notes.

About thirty-five of the city florists accepted the invitation of Hartje & Elder to visit their place on Sunday, October 29, and inspect their chrysanthemums. It was certainly well worth the while, as the stock was unusually fine and the many new varieties of pompons were particularly interesting. One bench of a new pink seedling pompon created a great deal of interest and it was pronounced one of the best on the market. The firm intends to put this on the market next year. There were many other seedlings of promise, too numerous to mention separately. The party was served with lunch and soft drinks.

W. H. Elverson, of the Elverson Pottery Co., New Brighton, Pa., spent several days with the trade last week.

Mrs. Thos. Hart, wife of the veteran florist, died last week. She was 80 years old. Mr. Hart has the sympathy of the craft.

H. W. Rieman has been suffering with a slight attack of the grip.

FURNISHED in continuous lengths of 500 feet. An exceptionally high grade hose manufactured with a woven jacket insertion instead of cotton duck, and with specially selected rubber in the inner tube and cover.

The woven jacket construction makes a stronger hose than can be obtained from cotton duck, and absolutely precludes the possibility of cover opening at seam—a common cause of failure of hose made on cotton duck. This construction also gives a more flexible hose and reduces the possibility of kinking.

The Market.

Business was quiet last week, aside from funeral work, which used up some of the stock. Carnations are scarce, but the growers expect large cuts for Thanksgiving. Mums are the leading flowers just at present. The rainy and cloudy week in October caused a great amount of damage to carnations. There is a ready market for ferns and blooming stock. The Pacific mums are late this year.

Various Notes.

Olson & Lunden have been cutting some exceptionally good Pacific Supreme mums.

Philip Lunden, of Plantsville, was recently a visitor at Cromwell, Conn., looking over the plant of A. N. Pier-son.

Poughkeepsie, N. Y.—Conrad C. Gindra held a special opening at the greenhouses coincident with the Vassar commencement and disposed of all his finest blooms.
